King Zog and Retinue Seek To Enter U. S. as Immigrants

Deposed Albania Ruler, Kin Would Come Here Like Any Humble Folk

By the Associated Press

London, July 15.—King Zog is trying to emigrate to the United States with his beautiful half-American Queen Geraldine, his three sisters and presumably the infant Crown Prince Iskander, who was born just before Zog's Kingdom of Albania was taken by Italy last year.

The King's desire was disclosed here today when it was said he was seeking to arrange an Atlantic crossing with his family and a retinue of about 30.

But if the royal couple and the trio of sisters make another jump in their search for a new home, they will have to go as immigrants. Visitors' visas are no longer issued here for the United States.

Queen Geraldine, whose mother was an American, Mme. Gladys Stewart Girault, formerly of New York, was married to the King in 1938.

Among the wedding presents to the couple were four gilded bronze vases from Benito Mussolini and an automobile from Adolf Hitler.

QUEEN GERALDINE

Last year Geraldine's aunt, Mrs. Duncan B. Harding, of Los Angeles, suggested that the exiled royal pair accept the use of her residence at Pass Christian, Miss.

Yesterday they were offered a haven in Newport, R. I., by Mrs. Angela Coyle Kaufman, who told the Boston Post she was throwing open her $250,000 castle to many royal refugees.

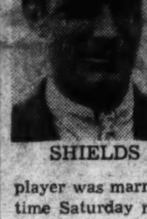
Frank Shields on Honeymoon With Daughter of Princess

By the Associated Press

North Conway, N. H., July 15.—Frank X. Shields, former Davis Cup tennis player, and his bride, the former Donna Marina Torlonia, daughter of Princess Torlonia, and the late Prince Torlonia of Italy, were honeymooning tonight on a yacht off Bar Harbor, Me.

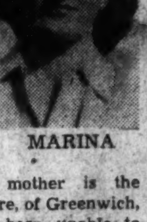


SHIELDS

The handsome tennis player was married for the second time Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Woodbury.

The Rev. H. Raymond Phelps performed the ceremony, which was witnessed by only a few guests, including Harvey D. Gibson, New York banker, and Mrs. Gibson.

Shields, an insurance broker in New York, was one of the participants in last week's Eastern Slopes Gold Racquet tennis tournament here.



MARINA

His first marriage to the former Rebecca Tenney, of Greenwich, Conn., ended in divorce recently.

Mrs. Shields' mother is the former Elsie Moore, of Greenwich, Conn., who has been unable to book passage from Italy

The bride's brother, Alexander, married Infanta Beatrice, daughter of former King Alfonso

Eastern Shore Mystery Beast Revealed as 180-Pound Dog

Eastern Shore's "Mystery of the Terrible Thing" apparently was solved last night.

A few hours after Washington scientists had identified footprints of "the thing" as those of a large dog, a farmer near the terrorized area revealed that his 180-pound Great Dane had been missing for about three weeks.

Caroline County police felt satisfied that J. I. Eddington, of Federalsburg, Md., had cleared up the last vestige of mystery when he announced the absence of his gigantic pet after learning that a strange-screaming beast had panicked farmers in the neighborhood of Preston and Harmony.

Early yesterday a posse of fully armed police combed the woods for the creature after it had attacked and severely gashed a farmer's dog. Many had heard "the thing" screeching at the moon, but few had seen it.

Those who had, however, described it as a horrible-looking orangutan, about 5 feet tall and weighing approximately 200 pounds.

Corp. Paul Randall, of the Maryland State Police Substation at Easton, managed to make casts of "the thing's" footprints where it had battled with the farm dog and brought them to Washington yesterday for identification. Stanley P. Young and Maj. A. E. Goldman, of the Fish and Wildlife Service here, and Remington Kellogg, curator of mamals at Smithsonian Institution, analyzed them and announced they were the prints of a mastiff or large dog.

The Great Dane evidently fits into the jigsaw. According to its master, it has a peculiar howl akin to the screech which made the farmers who heard it reach for their shotguns. Eastern Shore farmers felt at ease last night, but State police were planning another hunt to track down the Dane, which is either lost and hungry or gone back to nature.

Powerful Medium

Army Orders 627 Tanks For Second Armored Corps

The Army took a long step yesterday toward mechanization on the scale introduced by Germany, placing an order for sufficient light tanks to man a second armored corps.

An $11,500,000 contract was placed with American Car & Foundry Co., of Berwick, Pa., for 627 12-ton tanks, the largest such order ever awarded by the War Department. It will bring the total of such mechanized vehicles on hand or on order to 1,671.

Just last month the Army combined its Infantry and Cavalry tank units into an armored corps patterned after the Nazi Panzer units. It consists of two mechanized divisions, which, officials revealed yesterday, would each have 272 light tanks, 110 medium tanks and 201 scout cars.

Only a few medium tanks are in service with about 50 on order. Bids for a large number, however, will soon be asked, with funds carried in emergency defense program. An order was placed recently with the White Motor Co. for about 1,000 scout cars for the new mechanized units.

The Army is experimenting with an even heavier tank than the 20-ton "medium" vehicle. Movable "fortresses" weighing as much as 70 tons are said to be under consideration.

Meanwhile, the Navy reported that its Bureau of Yards and Docks, which handles construction at shore

40 Killed, 7 Missing In Mine Blast

21 Crawl to Safety; Hope for Trapped Men Virtually Abandoned

By the Associated Press

Sonman, Pa. (Tuesday), July 16.—Forty bodies had been recovered early today from the explosion-blasted Koppers Coal Mine. Officials announced seven other miners were missing and feared dead.

L. C. Campbell, assistant to the coal company's vice president, said a recheck established that 47 was "the top number who could have been lost" when an explosion shook three sections of the mine shortly before noon yesterday.

Virtually all hope for the trapped men was abandoned when the weary rescue workers broke into Right Entry 16, the last one to be reached. There they reported finding 34 of the bodies, most of them badly burned.

21 Crawl to Safety

Earlier Campbell had placed the lost at 50, syaing 21 others had scrambled to safety, most of them crawling on hands and knees.

The company refused to give out a list of the missing persons and Coroner Patrick McDermott said identifications would not be made until after dawn. The bodies were to be taken to the Fireman's Hall at nearby Portage.

Sonman is a village of about 400, situated in the central Pennsylvania bituminous fields, about 16 miles east of Johnstown.

Describing the tragedy, Stanley C. Yuwus, 23, of Portage Township, one of those who escaped, said:

"It was more of a concussion than an explosion. A great ball of white fire swept down the tunnel. I was knocked down. With the others I began scrambling on my hands and knees for the main dip of the slope."

All but one man, Freeman George, escaped from Right Entry 18. He was the first of the dead to be identified.

Restoring Ventilation

Campbell said there had been little actual destruction in the mine and that rescuers were making rapid progress restoring ventilation. Few of the bodies were crushed.

A temporary morgue was set up in nearby Portage, while hundreds crowded about the mine pit. Stolid townsfolk waited silently.

Huge searchlights glowed over the green hillside above the mine. A tent was set up as headquarters for the rescuers, who entered and left the entrance in relays.

Five of the 21 who stumbled from the entrance after several hours of groping through dark and dangerous passageways said they believed a gas explosion caused the blast. The company received one report, which was uncertified that a spark from a coal-cutting machine set off the explosion.

Third Blast in Year

About 1,200 men were employed in the mine in three shifts.

The explosion was the third major blast in the West Virginia-Pennsylvania-Ohio tri-State bituminous district within a year.

Seventy-two men lost their lives in a disaster last March 16 in the Willow Grove mine at St. Clairsville, Ohio, and 91 were killed in the Pond Creek Pocahontas Coal Co.'s mine at Bartley, W. Va., on January 10.

Democratic Leader Sees Revolt Over Farley

Chicago, July 15 (AP).—While National Chairman James A. Farley was addressing the Democratic convention tonight, Ed A. Carroll, national committeeman from Washington, said in a statement that there was "a feeling of dissatisfaction" in his State delegation "with the treatment being accorded" the national chairman.

Carroll, also chairman of the State delegation, which is instructed for Roosevelt, told reporters that "from what I've heard it is possible the convention may be turned into a thunderous upheaval by Thursday."

"The Washington delegation has been approached by a number of instructed delegations as to the possibility of violating instructions in the event the Democratic organization is pushed out of the picture," Carroll added.

Bankhead, in Keynote Speech, Calls on Parties to Unite In Defense of U. S. Freedom

17 Men Working On Foreign Plank; Woodring Urges Isolationist Stand

By John B. Oakes
Post Staff Writer

Chicago, July 15.—After all-day hearings dominated by controversy over the foreign-policy plank, the resolutions committee tonight appointed a 17-man subcommittee to whip the platform into shape for presentation to the convention Wednesday night.

Despite great difference in emphasis between proposals put forward by isolationist Senator Wheeler, of Montana, and Senator Pepper, of Florida, committee members were hopeful of working out a solution that will enable them to present a united front when the platform reaches the floor.

The drafting subcommittee includes isolationist Senators Wheeler, Walsh, of Massachusetts, and McCarran, of Nevada, and such Administration men as Chairman Wagner, of New York; Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, and Senators McKellar, of Tennessee, and Bankhead, of Alabama.

To Work Through Day

Wagner said the subcommittee would meet tomorrow morning and work throughout the day in an effort to get the platform ready on schedule. After it is drafted, it must be approved by the full 54-man committee before it goes to the convention.

Overshadowing the entire discussion in the public hearings today was the fight over American foreign policy—capped late in the afternoon by a proposal of former Secretary of War Woodring to pledge that "the Democratic Party stands unequivocally for a policy of nonintervention in the political and military affairs of the Old World."

Judging from the angry attacks witnesses launched on Wendell Willkie—with evident approval of committee members—it appeared likely that a strong plank for public regulation of utilities will find its way into the platform.

Green Lauds President

And whatever the labor plank that comes from the committee (which is headed by Senator Wagner, of New York, author of the N. L. R. A.), William Green, president of the A. F. of L., is on record today as warmly indorsing President Roosevelt's efforts to solve the unemployment problem.

Declaring that "the Administration has done all that lies within its power" to solve this question, Green said that if President Roosevelt "is permitted, he will bring about a solution of the unemployment problem." Green later explained that his remark was not to be interpreted as an indorsement of a third term. His praise of the New Deal in this respect was generally taken, however, to be the A. F. of L.'s reply to John L. Lewis'

Willkie Predicts: 'Roosevelt on The First Ballot'

Colorado Springs, Colo., July 15 (AP).—Wendell L. Willkie heard the opening of the Democratic Convention by radio today and predicted President Roosevelt would be renominated on the first ballot.

The Republican nominee said that Senator James F. Byrnes (Democrat), of South Carolina, had demonstrated a sense of humor in saying at Chicago yesterday that the Democratic Convention would be "unbossed."

At his press conference, Willkie said he had predicted his own nomination on the sixth ballot at the Republican Convention in Philadelphia and wanted to keep his record straight as a forecaster.

When the Democrats ballot, Willkie said, he would listen to the proceedings by radio.

Worry No. 2

Prospect of Losing Farley's Guidance Dismays Democrats

First in Their Minds After Roosevelt's Intentions; He Indicates He Still Intends To 'Walk' but Only to the Ball Game

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Staff Writer

Chicago, July 15.—As Postmaster General James A. (Big Jim) Farley strode toward the rostrum to open the convention this noon, the band struck up that favorite of a generation ago—"Take Me Out to the Ball Game."

From the standpoint of the victory-hungry delegates in the stadium the band's choice was an unhappy and disturbing one.

It was a reminder that the big, pink-faced man up there with the gavel, the greatest "political drummer" of his time, probably would soon be retiring as chairman of the Democratic National Committee to take over the New York Yankee baseball club.

What Jim Farley will do is the No. 2 worry of this Democratic National Convention; No. 1, of course, being the question of what President Roosevelt will do.

It is no exaggeration to say that the delegates are much more concerned about Farley than they are about the identity of the next Vice Presidential nominee.

There are two motives pushing Farley off the political stage he loves so well, one economic, the other emotional.

Farley needs money. The $15,000 a year he now draws as a member of the Roosevelt Cabinet isn't nearly enough. It was this need of money that led him a few years ago to write his book, "Behind the Ballots," which brought him $50,000 from the American Magazine. Now that his two daughters are approaching the debutante stage, Big Jim is more eager than ever to

Equal Rights Plank Opposed By First Lady

Women Democrats Turn on Judge Who Broached Touchy Issue

By Christine Sadler.

Chicago, July 15.—That traditional firecracker, the question of equal rights for women, exploded right in the room where members of the Democratic Resolutions Committee were hard at work today—but the sole injury was Judge George Gordon Battle, only man bold enough to mix in such a purely feminine fracas.

In less than two minutes, women Democrats running their end of this show, let Judge Battle and all sundry persons present know they have the situation well in hand—and that Mrs. Roosevelt stands squarely behind them.

From the depth of her purse, Mrs. Dorothy McAllister, glamorous head of the women's division, fished out an equal rights statement from the First Lady. It was prepared for just such an emergency, and Mrs. Nan Wood Honeyman, former Congresswoman from Oregon, read it to the startled menfolk.

"I feel about the equal rights amendment proposal just as I have always felt," Mrs. Roosevelt's communication read. "Namely, that until women are unionized to a far greater extent than they are at present, such an amendment would work great hardship on the industrial group, which is after all the largest group of wage-earning women.

"Therefore, at the present time, for us as a party interested in the well-being and protection of the workers, to put into our platform an equal rights amendment, would be a grave mistake. In this, I think all leaders of the workers would concur."

Truth is, the women leaders did not want the equal rights contro-

Roosevelt Calls Farley, Byrnes At Convention

President Listens To Chicago Broadcast, Installs Private Line

The White House yesterday was revealed to be in direct phone touch with Chicago for the period of the Democratic national convention, and President Roosevelt twice utilized the service in keeping informed of convention progress.

Stephen T. Early, Presidential secretary, confirmed existence of the direct telephone wire, but would not say whether its Western terminus was the hotel room of Harry L. Hopkins, Commerce Secretary and personal representative of Mr. Roosevelt at Chicago.

Just before noon, the President called National Chairman Farley, reported rifting with "The Boss," and wish him well with what apparently is to be the last Farley-directed party convention.

Confers With Byrnes

"How are things going?" the President asked his close companion of previous campaigns.

"Okay," Farley replied. "The convention is just on the verge of opening."

In midafternoon the President lifted his telephone receiver and chatted with Senator Byrnes, of South Carolina, Administration leader who is one of several candidates reported to have White House blessing for second place on the ticket. Byrnes is said to be helping Hopkins direct the third-term strategy.

Hull Visits White House

"Mr. Roosevelt wanted to find out what was going on and Byrnes did the talking while the President did the listening," Early told correspondents.

Between the calls at noon the President switched on his radio and from his big office swivel chair heard the official gavel that opened

They Pant to Run Second

Vice Presidents Are as Thick As Smoke-Filled Air at Chicago

By Hedley Donovan.
Post Staff Writer

Chicago, July 15.—The most elusive character in Chicago tonight is the man who isn't running for Vice President.

Reports that a citizen with no vice presidential ambitions had slipped into town late today and retired immediately to his hotel room lacked confirmation.

No hotel lobby was free of potential presiding officers for the Senate. There are statesmen who disclaimed any ambition for themselves, it turned out, but were usually ready to add another name to a list which is already close to the two-dozen mark.

Representative Murdock, of Utah, for instance, modestly eliminated himself from the field, but promptly added that there is "strong sentiment" among Western delegations for Senator O'Mahoney, of Wyoming.

Rumors of an administration "panel," containing six acceptable candidates for second place on the Democratic ticket, persisted throughout the day. Panel members are said to be Secretary Hull, Senator Byrnes of South Carolina, Associate Justice Douglas, Gov. Stark, of Missouri, Secretary Wallace and House Majority Leader Rayburn.

Lobby boomlets, each lasting about two hours, first pushed Byrnes out in front, then Wallace, and final-

'Banalities' Deplored

By Robert C. Albright
Post Staff Writer

Chicago, July 15.—The keynote of this Democratic convention was sounded tonight without any reference to a Roosevelt third term.

Speaker William B. Bankhead, in an appeal for a campaign of tolerance, barring criminations and personal innuendo, offered a stalwart defense of the New Deal record, but barely mentioned the President's name.

Sounding the party call to battle, Bankhead denounced as "discreditable" and "calumny" what he called a Republican charge "that the Democratic Party and Administration are attempting slyly and covertly to lead the United States into the shambles of a foreign war."

Denies "War Mongering"

In reply, he declared emphatically that President Roosevelt, Secretary Hull and a "Democratic Congress" have done "everything possible within the bounds of reason" to "keep us out of involvement in a foreign war."

Bankhead exhorted the Democrats to seek another four years in power "upon the record of its performance" in the past seven years, and to "resist to the death" any compromise of democracy with the dictators abroad.

But the Speaker said that the shadow of events abroad falls heavily upon the domestic political arena, that under this shadow its people "will have no tolerance for the superficial banalities of politics."

"The major objective of both parties," he said, "must be unity and solidarity of purpose in preserving inviolate the structure of our Government and the perpetual freedom of its people."

Postmaster General Farley, in what may be his farewell address as party chairman, likewise passed over the explosive third-term issue.

Laying emphasis on the efforts of party workers, Farley urged them to render the same support to "our successors and the new national party organization" it gave him in '32 and '36.

3rd Term Resistance Grows

Late tonight a ranking strategist guiding third-term procedure indicated the President still hadn't made up his mind. Roosevelt leaders, in constant contact with the White House, are clearly concerned lest recent demonstrations of resistance influence the President to decline.

Harmony efforts were being feverishly pushed to pave the way for acceptance.

The convention tonight showed its first real signs of life as 22,000 packing the Chicago Stadium enthusiastically greeted Speaker Bankhead's eulogy of New Deal achievements as a straight "party" performance.

They spiritedly cheered Farley's tribute to Roosevelt as a "great

Over the Coffee

By

Chicago, July 16.

CAN'T FIND BAR: Some of the delegates seem worried about the disappearance of the famed revolving bar on Mich. Boul. . . . Where one drink made 'em as dizzy as two . . . And where the gaudy girls in heavy rouge used to rotate . . . Some of them also wonder why Tinker, Evers and Chance are no longer in the Cubs' infield.

CONSULT SEERS: Several delegates have visited the Adler Planetarium, while others more urgently interested in what the stars have to say have gone with their wives to consult fortune tellers . . . Even the crystal gazers seem puzzled by 1940.

* * * *

SEES A BREAK: One of them confidently predicted a "break with the past" this year . . . But she wouldn't say whether she meant a break in Democratic rule or in the two-term tradition . . . Democratic insiders say Willkie will be attacked as an "upper middle class" candidate.

* * * *

WIERD WEEK: Best description thus far of the mystic pow-wow on the heath at Chicago:

This convention reminds you of a mystery story that you've read before.

REALIST: Another political realist is Senator Vandenberg's son Arthur, who looks exactly like his dad, but who won a nice bet on Willkie at Philly, though his father was a candidate.

* * * *

V. P. BULLISH: One of my favorite Congressmen, who's the daddy of two of the most irresistible tots you ever saw, discovered he's still listed in the new Who's Who as "unmarried." . . . He's got the papers, though . . . The enthusiasm of the McNutt troops is putting a new luster on the Vice Presidency.

"—fortune tellers are hedging"

FDR BY PLANE? It's quite definite now that all is in readiness for a Roosevelt "surprise" visit to the convention, but that FDR's decision whether or not to come has not yet been made. Betting now is about even that he will. He wants to come by plane. But he may heed advice to address the convention from his desk at the White House—detained there by heavy defense business.

* * * *

OOMPH & A V. P.: If FDR does come here, the ostensible reason and the real one will carry equal weight: (1) To ask for a Vice President he can trust to continue the New Deal if he is reelected and retires before 1945; and (2) to give his campaign an oomph send-off like Willkie's at Philly.

* * * *

NO THROTTLEBOTTOM: In fact, the Vice Presidency has never been so important at any convention in American history as it is at this one. The New Dealers swear it isn't window-dressing this time; it's the works, the real McCoy, the chief business of the convention, as they see it.

It's not like the time a V. P. (Gerry) resigned to become a Senator.

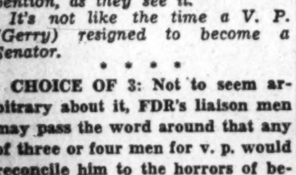
CHOICE OF 3: Not to seem arbitrary about it, FDR's liaison men may pass the word around that any of three or four men for v. p. would reconcile him to the horrors of being drafted for a third term: Justice Bill Douglas, Attorney General Bob Jackson, Hull, maybe McNutt or Stark or Rayburn or Byrnes or Wallace or Herring or Justice Stanley Reed. With a heavy basso on Douglas.



"—think it's the Stork Club"

CHICAGO CHAFF: Some of the statesmen are taking two swims a day in the lake . . . Chicago has gone ultra-social over the convention, exactly as if the New Dealers were gilt-edged Blue Book . . . Quite a few of the old-fashioned and the flossier Democrats wouldn't eat their hearts out if Willkie made it.

* * * *

DO IT IN TWO? Some spoilsports complain this convention could have done everything expected of it in two days instead of five . . . What, and cut the Barkley and Bankhead speeches short? . . . Some Western statesmen still deem Chicago a fashion center, are being measured . . .

* * * *

Some of the deep thinkers here are nursing along week-old bets or older ones that Hitler won't start his "blood-bath" on England until after FDR has or hasn't . . . A Representative here rates higher than a Senator did at Phila.

* * * *

Hasty glances at the literature of the "Stark Club of Chicago" has misled some frisky statesmen into the belief that there's a branch of New York's Stork Club here . . . For the Democrats with high blood pressure the anti-New Deal Chicago Trib makes dangerous reading in this hot weather.

District Suffrage Plank Is Given To the Regulations Committee

Hildreth Declares He Has Good Hopes Of Its Acceptance

By a Staff Correspondent

Chicago, July 15.—The District suffrage plank submitted today to the resolutions committee for inclusion in the Democratic platform simply states: "We favor the extension of the right of suffrage to the people of the District of Columbia."

Melvin D. Hildreth, District member on the resolutions committee, told The Post tonight that he had good hopes the plank would be accepted—but its fate will probably not be known until late tomorrow or Wednesday.

It is understood that some committee members have complained that this is a "local" question not suitable for the political platform of a national party; but Hildreth and others have been answering this objection by pointing out that Washington is, after all, the Nation's Capital.

Hildreth, Representative Randolph, of West Virginia, Chairman McConihe of the District delegation and other friends of the plank have been pointing out to members of the resolutions committee that Washington is now a city of over 600,000 inhabitants, with a population larger than each of some eight States.

Hull Picks 7 More To Accompany Him To Havana Parley

Secretary of State Hull virtually completed yesterday the list of officials going to Cuba by appointing seven more aides to accompany him to Havana for the consultative conference of the 21 American Republics which opens there July 20.

Those appointed were: Dr. Warren Kelchner chief of the State Department's division of international conferences, to be secretary general of the delegation; Cecil W. Grey and Birney Imes, editors and publishers of the Commercial Dispatch, Columbus, Miss., as assistants to Hull, and Michael J. McDermott, press officer.

Secretaries will be Ellis O. Briggs, assistant chief of the Division of American Republics, and Emilio G. Collpo, division of American Republics. Guillermo Suro will act as assistant secretary.

No man in American political life knows better than Jim Farley the bitterness of poverty. In his book he told how his father died when he was a kid, how his mother was forced to buy a combination grocery store and saloon to support the large family, and how he himself had to work as a juvenile bartender.

There was, of course, some compensation in that experience. Jim, to please his mother, made a vow never to drink liquor, and he has kept it. He has never smoked, either, and the result is that he is always in the pink, able to wear down a half-dozen ordinary politicians.

The other motive, the emotional one, if that is the word, has long been an open secret in Washington. Big Jim simply got tired of being "kicked around" by the New Dealers.

He didn't mind the so-called "palace guard" so long as it stuck to concocting reforms, but when it stepped over the line into matters purely political—as, for example, the abortive "purge" campaign against United States Senators who had opposed the Supreme Court enlargement plan—the master politician who directed the Roosevelt campaigns of 1932 and 1936 began thinking it was time something had to be done.

Then came the "draft Roosevelt" drive, engineered by the New Dealers. Farley was opposed to a third term for President Roosevelt. But above all he was insistent that there be a free and open race and he threw his own hat in the ring, hoping that he might land in second place on a Hull-Farley ticket. He had been so handsomely treated in his visits to the South that he believed that one of the major arguments against his availability might be groundless.

What happened to the candidacies of the various men who aspired to the Democratic nomination for the Presidency is now eliquently told by the lapel buttons that you see in the Chicago Stadium. They say, "Just Roosevelt."

The question of what President Roosevelt will do ought to be answered Thursday, if not before.

Between now and Saturday, when Farley will give his own answer, tremendous pressure will be exerted on him to run the campaign of 1940. Tremendous pressure already has been brought on him, and among those bringing it has been Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins.

The indications so far have been that Big Jim will take a walk—not a walk in the Al Smith sense, over to the camp of the enemy—but one that will carry him into a higher paying job and away from what he has come to regard as a "man Friday" role.

Mrs. Farley, wife of the Postmaster General, has never seemed so happy. She said she came to Chicago to "celebrate Jim's retirement from politics."

President" and loudly applauded his indorsement of the President's pledge of no troops to Europe.

Good-humoredly they joined in singing the tune that has become Farley's theme song at the convention, "Take Me Out to the Ball Game."

But the fireworks of the "draft Roosevelt" movement, that up to this moment have only rumbled, were touched off at an opening morning session in a welcoming address by Mayor Howard J. Kelly, of Chicago.

Response Half-Hearted

Kelly's address, in effect, may serve as the Roosevelt nominating speech, since present plans of the third-term managers call for no formal speech of nomination. Only a half-hearted demonstration followed Kelly's draft call.

In a dramatic peroration, Kelly declared the hour has struck and "the salvation of this Nation rests in one man."

He said the President has no wish to labor longer in office, and has discouraged proposals that he stand as a candidate, "but this convention faces a world situation that surmounts any man's convenience."

"We must overrule his comfort and convenience and draft Roosevelt," he shouted.

If a Roosevelt demonstration actually had been planned, it was short-lived. The organ pumped out a tune and the delegates cheered an enthusiastic half minute. A lone delegate bearing the New York standard marched around the corridor. Illinois and New Jersey standards moved into the aisle but did not march. Then as suddenly as it started, it was over.

Opening day's developments meanwhile brought a renewed harmony offensive by the third-term "strategy board," with full heat turned on Postmaster General Farley to continue as national chairman and to withdraw as a candidate. There were reports that the President personally would appeal to Farley.

But the chief fruit of a continuing strong undercurrent of delegate apathy was the flat announcement by Senator Tydings, of Maryland, that his name would be presented to the convention.

Tydings' entry brought to four the names to be presented Thursday, in addition to the draft vote for Roosevelt. Friends of Farley, Vice President Garner and Senator Wheeler said there had been no change in their announced plans.

Md. Delegation Splits

Tydings said he will be nominated by State Senator Edward J. Colgan, of Baltimore. But a split developed in the Maryland delegation, with Maj. E. Brooke Lee and Howard Bruce deserting to Roosevelt.

New Deal leaders here moved at once to quiet reports that Mr. Roosevelt would not take the nomination if there was an extensive show of opposition. One member of the third term strategy board asserted the President "will be drafted" regardless of any minority dissent.

A status quo "harmony" ticket later was presented at a caucus of the North Dakota delegation. The delegation declared for Roosevelt and Garner "again" and resolved to "draft" Farley as chairman.

Against the possibility that Farley will abide by his determination to step down as chairman, the New Deal contingent discussed another name for his successor, Leo Crowley, head of the FDIC. Frank Walker, another close friend of the President, was already under consideration.

The approved plan of the third term strategy board still calls for straight voting by delegates when the roll is called, without any formal Roosevelt speech, but leaders said it may be difficult to repress any delegates who makes an unscheduled speech.

After a majority has been rolled up for Roosevelt, probably after balloting passes New York, the plan is to move Roosevelt's nomination "by acclamation." Farley has declared this not in order, but it may be attempted, nonetheless.

Tonight's keynote address had been billed as another nominating show for Roosevelt, but the Speaker lauded New Deal achievements as a party rather than a one-man record.

An active candidate for Vice President, and a third-term advocate, Bankhead meticulously avoided the "draft" in his speech.

He departed, in several instances, from the text of his speech as released in advance to newspapers, omitting as much as one or two paragraphs at a time. Several of these contained references to President Roosevelt by name, which the speech, as delivered, did not.

Pays Tribute to Farley

Introduced by Farley, he paid high tribute to the Postmaster General's "inestimable value" and service to his party and to his success and ability as "your friend and mine."

He paid passing tribute jointly to the President and Secretary of State Hull, whom he declared had done everything possible to preserve world peace and "to keep us out of involvement in a foreign war."

Acknowledging "inevitable" temporary errors in policy, he highlighted its banking safeguards, measures aimed at employment and relief, SEC regulations of the stock market, CCC, TVA, HOLC, FHA, reciprocal trade policies, the Wage and Hour Act and the farm program, stressing parity payments.

He charged Republicans in their platform "did not have the confidence or courage" to demand repeal of any single major New Deal law.

Bankhead enumerated recent vast strides in national defense, but warned against fifth column moves by "the enemy within" and concluded on a spiritual note. He said no armament was so potent as the moral and religious obligations of a great people.

Farley's introductory speech covered much of the same Democratic record. He declared, like Bankhead, that the next Administration must continue the policy "of keeping this Nation at peace in a warmad world while building up a national defense so stout, so strong, that no combination of foreign foes will dare attack us."

He declared there is absolute Democratic unity behind the Administration pledge that American troops will not be sent abroad. On the domestic front, he said the party will wage its campaign on the "program of liberal policies written into law, dedicated to the well-being of all the people."

Farley frequently referred affectionately to Democratic workers, down to precinct and district captains and their aides, whose efforts he said assured the 1932 Democratic victory and enabled the party to carry 46 States in 1936.

Farley referred to Mr. Roosevelt as "a great President" and said the record of the last eight years would be given "a rightful place among the bright pages of national achievement."

The chairman acknowledged that there had been differences of opinion and "sharp debates" among Democrats.

"We have heard charges of dictatorship," he said, but actually the total that has gone on the statute books has been the will of the country expressed through the representatives elected by the people to express that will.

"These differences have no more significance than the ripples on the sea, or even the storm waves that rise and pass, leaving the ocean still a great international highway.

"For a measure of the service done by the Democratic Administration we have only to compare our domestic situation today with what it was when we put a great President in office to repair the damages inflicted by inept and incompetent Republican administrations, and elected with him a Democratic Congress that did not falter at the magnitude of the task with which it was entrusted."

Farley asserted that "whether we like it or not," this country must continue the Monroe Doctrine policy of keeping this hemisphere "safe from colonization or conquest by any predatory power."

"Under these circumstances," he asked, "is there a man on this floor, or a real American within the sound of my voice, who should be willing to take the Government out of the hands of the party that has kept the faith and place it in the inexperienced hands of those who aspire to regain control of the Government?"

Farley's present deep-rooted grievance with New Deal palace guards stems from his firm belief that he and his organization elected Roosevelt and not the New Dealers in charge of the present "draft" movement.

He made no pointed reference to this, but said the Democratic committee chairmanship was "the proudest post I ever held."

And in closing he said that "I know that your new organization will not let the party down." While Farley may step out of politics, he has always insisted he will "not take a walk."

This morning's opening business was disposed of so swiftly (50 minutes) that transportation service was taken by surprise as spectators poured into the streets without cabs or buses available.

Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch, of Chicago, in the opening invocation prayed for American rededication amid world trouble "to the task of upholding in all circumstances our free institutions."

Besides Kelly's speech, there was another welcoming address by Senator Lucas, of Illinois, like Bankhead an active Vice Presidential contender. Lucas spoke in behalf of Gov. Henry Horner, who is ill.

Lucas referred to the "magnificent leadership" of President Roosevelt, but did not suggest a third-term bid.

Like other speakers, he declared the world will be heartened by the knowledge that democracy in America "will continue to reign supreme."

Kelly himself stressed the world situation in urging Roosevelt's continuance in office, saying:

"We are praying and hoping that the man in the White House who can keep the lighthouse of humanity burning will accept the crushing load the next four years are sure to bring."

Friends of Farley had awaited his speech with some trepidation, as he more than any other figure at this convention, has evidenced his displeasure at third-term efforts. One small voice shouted "Hooray for Roosevelt" as Farley opened, but the convention was with him, cheering intermittently and laughing when he laughed.

The applause seemingly carried with it the hope of these delegates that Farley will carry on and manage the 1940 campaign.

Isolationist Plank Is Urged by Woodring

recent attacks on the President for failure to cure unemployment.

The Woodring plank on foreign affairs, penned on a piece of hotel stationery, was offered the committee by former Representative Randolph Carpenter, of Kansas, Woodring's home State. The proposal took added significance here because of the frequently-repeated charges of isolationists that the former Secretary was "fired" from the Cabinet because of his views on foreign policy.

Senator Wheeler's draft plank, reportedly approved by Senators Clark, of Missouri; McCarran, of Nevada, and Johnson, of Colorado, would dedicate the party "to the proposition that we shall never use our armed forces in a war of aggression, nor shall we send those armed forces to engage in wars in Europe or Asia."

The proposal, which Senator Wheeler says he will carry to the convention floor unless it is adopted in principle by the committee, adds that "we consecrate ourselves to the principles of peace and the pursuit of friendly relations among all peoples."

Senator Pepper, on the other hand, declared today that the platform should be "unequivocal in denouncing Hitler and Hitlerism and should offer 'all aid short of war' to Great Britain."

The outcome of this tug of war, many observers thought, will be a plank not differing to any great extent from President Roosevelt's declaration last week against sending "our men to take part in European wars." Some strengthening of this statement was considered possible, to cover all the armed forces and to include non-American wars. Furthermore, a declaration on private aid to the Allies was also thought likely to emerge from the drafting subcommittee's session.

After appointment of the drafting subcommittee, the Floridan warned that "if they bring out a pussyfooting platform, it's going to be repudiated." Declaring that "the appeasers must be given no comfort," Senator Pepper added: "If the Democratic Party loses its courage, it will lose its office."

Both sides of the foreign policy question were presented to the committee today, and, in fact, one of the few moments of excitement in the 6½ hours of public hearings came when Melvin D. Hildreth, District lawyer and a member of the committee, tangled with Representative Sweeney, of Ohio, on this subject.

Advertisement Cited

The Ohioan had just finished warning that to take "the interventionist label" off the Democratic Party, the platform should state that "no American boys will go to foreign battlefields," when Hildreth broke in.

Pointing to a full-page advertisement urging such a plank in one of today's Chicago papers, Hildreth said that it was similar to one published in Philadelphia during the Republican convention, except, he said, that the latter was headed "stop the Democraticy Party," and was signed with Republican names. Today's ad had three Democratic names on it, including Representative Sweeney's.

"We're not for Hitler," shouted Hildreth.

"Neither am I," the witness retorted.

"Well, why encourage him with these advertisements?" snapped Hildreth.

Clark M. Eichelberger, secretary of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, asserted that "the British fleet and the British commonwealth of nations is today the first line of American defense." Questioned by Senator Wheeler, the witness denied that the committee wants this country to go to war. Eichelberger, a veteran of the A. E. F., urged that the platform "not try to commit the hand of the candidate six months from now."

Members of the drafting subcommittee are: Senators Wagner; Harrison, of Mississippi; Walsh, McKellar, Wheeler, McCarran, Bankhead, Neely, of West Virginia; Hatch, of New Mexico, and Brown, of Michigan; former Senator Bulkley, of Ohio; Secretary Wallace, Gov. Culbert L. Olson, of California; Thomas Kennedy, of Pennsylvania, C. I. O. officer; C. W. Rawlings, of Utah; C. C. Moore, of Rhode Island, and Philip B. Perlman, of Maryland.

Green's 27-point program, similar to the one offered the Republicans in Philadelphia, included planks against application of antitrust laws in labor unions, favoring the principles of the NLRA but demanding "impartial administration," demanding that a Secretary of Labor be appointed who is an A. F. L. member, and asking extension of the housing program.

Noel Sargent, of the National Association of Manufacturers, asked revision of the Wagner and Wage-Hour Acts, 25 per cent reduction in Federal expenditures except for national defense, and amendment of the Social Security Act to put the old-age annuity provisions on a pay-as-you-go basis.

A plank to counteract the "un fortunate and unfair" attitude i this country against the foreig born was asked by Lawrence W Robert, jr., secretary of the Democratic National Committee.

Warning that he can "influence eight to ten million votes this fall," Dr. Francis E. Townsend asked th committee to approve a plank tha would grant pensions to perso over 60, to be financed by a gro income tax on all incomes abov $3,000.

"If the old folks can't get reli from the two main political partie we're going to have our own party threatened the elderly doctor.

Green Urges Democrats to Promise Wage Increases for Federal Workers

A. F. of L. Chief Would Apply Wage-Hour Act

Asks Civil Service Be Opened to Many Who Lack College Degree

Chicago, July 15.—Planks proposing extension of civil service and "more adequate compensation" and improvement in wage and hour standards for Federal employes were offered to the Democratic Resolutions Committee today by William Green, president of the A. F. of L.

Green urged the committee—which set up a subcommittee to draft the platform tonight—to favor "more liberal legislation to provide compensation to injured Government workers, including protection to injured workers, the dependents of those killed, and to workers who suffer from occupational diseases."

Green also proposed "improvement of wage standards and a reduction in the hours of work to a standard five-day week for the employes of the Federal Government wherever this standard is not now observed."

"In the recruitment and promotion of civil service," he said, "full consideration should be given to experience and qualifications, so as to prevent discrimination against qualified workers deprived of opportunities of academic training."

"Labor's unqualified support to the principles of civil service and their equitable application to Government employes prompts us to recommend the continuation and extension of civil srevice to all departments and agencies of the Government," he declared.

First Lady Against Feminist Plank

versy to break so openly, and were provoked with Judge Battle, noted New York lawyer, for bringing it up. They themselves had refused to be spokeswomen for feminine groups lobbying for the measure—and had hoped there would be no public reminder that the Republican platform has an equal rights plank.

"Just in case," however, they had Mrs. Roosevelt's statement on tap and also statements from David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, and Rose Schneiderman, president of the National Women's Trade Union League.

Representative Norton Urges Plank

Representative Mary T. Norton said she voiced sentiments of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women when she appeared before the committee earlier in the day to ask that the platform contain a plank asking no discrimination against workers because of "religion, sex, or marital status."

She said she personally considered such a plank necessary at this time because "several bills have been introduced in State Legislatures during recent years to create right to work discriminations against married women."

The plank she proposed contained wording identical with that in the 14 suggestions submitted Saturday by the Democratic Women's Advisory Committee.

In Philadelphia, where the National Woman's Parley claimed the equal rights victory, it was maintained that the National Federation of Business and Professional Women favored the amendment.

But that's the way it has been for 20 years. The poor men—and plenty of women, too—have been unable to figure out just who is for and who against "equal rights," and what such an amendment would mean, anyway.

Anyway, First Lady Wins . . .

As far as this convention is concerned, however, the question is settled in favor of Mrs. Roosevelt. Mrs. McAllister and her cohorts are more powerful than women ever have been before at a national political convention and with the First Lady behind them, they are invincible.

Mrs. McAllister will go before the convention tomorrow to tell just how important women Democrats have become in numbers and influence. At the same meeting it will be moved that the 18 women who make up the platform advisory committee be made a real part of the committee—in order that the platform may go before the public as a document which women helped draft on a 50-50 basis.

Although the real fireworks were downtown at committee headquarters today, the opening session of the convention found plenty of women on the platform.

Mrs. Harold Ickes was there, cheering lustily whenever President Roosevelt's name was mentioned. Mrs. Jim Farley was there, looking more pleased than most Washingtonians ever saw her look before—and thereby making everyone think her husband definitely has promised her he is leaving politics as soon as the convention is over.

Daughters Not Told

The Farley daughters, Betty and Ann—who are growing into attractive young ladies—wore sunny smiles when they admitted they were "sorry, but we have not been told the secret."

Lillian Gish stirred up a sensation in the press box, where she occupied the seat of James Bone, of the Manchester Guardian, who will arrive by clipper from Lisbon tomorrow.

Miss Gish declared: "I was a Democrat in 1936, but I don't know how I stand on this third term business. This is my first convention and I find it quite interesting." She said she would attend sessions at night after her play, "Life With Father," is over, and come "the afternoons when there is no matinee."

Mrs. Catherine Connor, National Democratic Committeewoman from Kentucky, and Mrs. "Happy" Chandler sat near Mrs. J. Hamilton Lewis, who received loud aplause when presented to the convention as the widow of a favorite Illinois Senator.

the Chicago proceedings, and listened to the first session of the convention.

At lunchtime, Secretary of State Hull, who is mentioned as the President's favorite for the Vice Presidential nomination, came in for lunch. According to Early, they discussed the coming Pan American Conference but, as Early added, "probably no one will believe it."

At the President's elbow much of the day was an old friend, whose presence caused political observers to speculate. The friend was Judge Samuel I. Rosenman, of New York, who was at Franklin Roosevelt's side "B. C.," before Chicago in 1932, and again during the 1932 and 1936 campaigns.

Judge Rosenman spent the week-end with the President cruising on the Potomac and yesterday he was a guest at the White House, presumably to spend convention week with his old friend, the President.

It was freely speculated that Rosenman was at the White House to help the President draft an acceptance message to the Chicago convention when the expected nomination becomes a reality.

Should this be the case, the District hook-up might provide the channel of communication between the President and the assembled delegates.

Timmons Has Own Brass Band In 'Bid' for Vice Presidency

'People's Choice'—He's Newspaper Man Here—Sets Hotter Fire in Chicago Than Mrs. O'Leary's Cow; He Spurns RFC 'Loan'

By the United Press

Chicago, July 15.—Tim, the people's choice for Vice President, proclaimed tonight that Chicago was on fire again—this time from his own drive for a first term as the Democratic Throttlebottom.

"Mrs. O'Leary's cow ain't in it with what I've started here," said Tim, more formally known as Bascom N. Timmons, Texas newspaper correspondent in Washington, who helped launch the Presidential candidacy of John N. Garner.

When Garner couldn't make the grade for President, there were those who felt the least that could be done was to try to get Tim the No. 2 spot.

So the Timmons forces rolled through downtown Chicago today in a 1906 Maxwell two-seater, advising gaping crowds by megaphone: "Wire your delegates collect to vote for Timmons."

The candidate, who remarked "this will be funny to everybody but my wife," stood in the Maxwell and doffed his straw sombrero to the Loop crowds. To one woman who sought to board his wheezing automobile, he said, "vote for me, and I'll hire you a limousine."

"You've got a lot of brass there," remarked RFC Chairman Jesse Jones, another Texan, before he accepted a "Win With Tim" sign and marched down Michigan avenue.

"By gosh, it takes a lot of brass to run this campaign," Timmons replied.

"Need a loan?" Jones inquired.

Timmons flourished a $100 bill which he said "some of my admirers gave me," and vowed "I'm flushed with slush—I mean campaign funds."

National Chairman James A. Farley summoned Carlisle Bargeron, Washington writer who publicized the ill-fated Republican nomination campaign of Senator Styles H. Bridges, of New Hampshire, to help Timmons out.

Farley a Pal, Too

"It all started in a spirit of levity and has reached huge proportions," Farley telegraphed Bargeron. "Your demonstrated ability as a campaign manager can be of great value at this most momentous period of Timmons' career. If he fails, you are to blame. The rest of us are doing our best, but a real helpind hand from a fellow with your experience will mean a great deal at this time."

House Majority Leader Sam Rayburn, also of Texas, met Timmons when his demonstration swept through the Garner headquarters, and promised to "be in on the kill." Several minutes later, Timmons asked his sign carriers, "now I wonder what he meant by that?"

In the lobby of the headquarters hotel, Farley heard Timmons deliver a speech promising he would "go away an embittered man" if not nominated.

"I shall limit all campaign contributions to $5,000,000," he said. "I am ahead of the trend. Will somebody please bring me a baby over here?

"My managers are authorized to promise everything. All I ask is that if I'm nominated, I not be notified."

Vice Presidents Seem to Grow on Chicago Trees

ly, shortly after the cocktail hour, Gov. Stark. By nightfall there was a good deal of sentiment for listing the panel in alphabetical order and letting it go at that.

One of the first figures approached by The Post in its search for a leader untouched by Vice Presidential visions was Senator Bilbo, of Mississippi.

The Man Bilbo Modest

"You can say I am not running," said Bilbo. "But most of the Senators are."

Would the Mississippi statesman accept a "draft?"

"I can't say that I wouldn't," Bilbo replied. "If I did, I would be telling a lie."

A spirit of mild levity pervaded at the convention's opening session today in the huge Chicago Stadium. Chairman Farley opened the session with a bang of his gavel at 12:05 p. m., but ushers refused to believe the twenty-eighth Democratic convention was officially in order until they admitted One-Eyed Connolly to the floor a few minutes later.

Gate-Crasher Gets Badge

The noted gate-crasher, informed that this year's turnstile arrangements are foolproof, reluctantly accepted an assistant sergeant at arms badge from Andy Frain, chief usher.

Fewer than half the seats in the auditorium, which has a capacity of 22,000, were filled when Farley introduced "that illustrious Irish tenor," Phil Reagan. The tenor, as an Indiana delegate put it, really gave with the "Star-Spangled Banner."

The most spirited demonstration of the morning came, oddly enough, after the session was over, when the pipe organ turned out "Dixie" as the hall was being emptied. Half a dozen Southern delegations made as much noise as the whole hall had for Mayor Kelly's "Draft Roosevelt" speech.

Outside the hall boys were selling Roosevelt buttons. One youthful salesman yelled "Be a preconvention third termer. Get on the band wagon."

Text of Bankhead's Keynote Address Praising Administration's Reforms

G. O. P. Forced To Indorse Them, He Says

'By Their Votes Ye Shall Know' Congressional Friends, Farmers Told

SPEAKER BANKHEAD

Mr. Chairman and Fellow Democrats:

I am, of course, very profoundly grateful for the honor and privilege of being named as temporary chairman of this great convention. It is a great personal gratification to be introduced by the man who has been of such inestimable value and service to the Democratic Party for two terms as our national chairman and who likewise has served with great success, ability and distinction as Postmaster General of the United States—your friend and mine, the Hon. James A. Farley.

It is a heartening and inspiring spectacle to look out upon this vast assemblage of the representatives of the Democratic Party of our Nation, as well as the thousands of loyal guests who will be so deeply interested in our actions and deliberations.

We are justified in our loyalty and devotion to a great political party, which, over a period of years almost as great as the life of our Republic itself, in victory or defeat, in power or removed from power, has, during all the decades of existence, proclaimed its allegiance to that fundamental political maxim announced by Thomas Jefferson, equal rights to all men and special privileges to none. That means, in essence, that our party in the ancient days as well as on this night, believes in and fights for the basic and irreducible human rights of the American citizen. We are here assembled to pledge renewed allegiance to that cherished creed, and to send forth to the people the assurance that if continued in power we shall not depart from the faith of our fathers.

Under our system of government, it is just and equitable for the electorate to judge, and to reward or punish a national party, not upon the basis of its platform promises alone, but strictly upon the record of its performance and accomplishments as an instrumentality of public service. It is my purpose to make that principle the yard and straight edge of this address.

People in No Mood For Exaggerations

In a great political campaign such as that which will be waged between now and November, there will be a temptation upon the part of some political leaders and politicians in both parties to indulge in a barrage of criminations and personal innuendo. There will be the charge of omission and commission; distortions of the facts of minor and secondary incidents. It is my earnest hope that members in my own party at least will not resort to that method of political campaign.

If we do not gravely misapprehend the present temper and disposition of the American people, they are now in no mood to be moved or influenced by petty vindictive exaggerations of issues or events that are of no vital concern to the safety and security of the United States of America as possibly the last surviving outpost of democracy upon the face of the earth.

The minds of the American people are now so deeply engrossed in matters of grave and profound concern with reference to the preservation of our established order of life and institutions that they will have no tolerance for the superficial banalities of politics. An election must be held, but aside from legitimate banter and the discussions of records of the two parties, their candidates and platforms, the major objective of both parties must be unity and solidarity of purpose in preserving inviolate the structure of our Government and the perpetual freedom of its people.

We all recognize that ours is a government by political parties and that, as instrumentalities of government, they are entitled to the largest possible measure of freedom in carrying legitimately disputed issues to the pople. But such issues should be fairly presented. They should be clothed in the garments of truth and tolerance and reason. Neither our party nor the opposition can, in terrible times like these, profit by a departure from this principle.

Record of Roosevelt's Administration

The Democratic Party has now been in absolute control of the Government for 7½ years. In order to get back to the postulate of party responsibility to the people and in order that the people might have a fair basis of appraisal as to whether or not we have done, on the whole, a good or an evil job under that responsibility, it is just and even necessary to look back to the conditions which prevailed in our social and economic status when, under the overwhelming mandate of the American people, a Democratic Administration took charge of the Government on March 4, 1933.

I think it is proper that it be said, in all candor, that none of us who have had part in formulating and administering the policies that have been enacted into law under this Administration can justly claim that no mistakes have been made. Temporary errors in policy and in the administration of policies were inevitable in underaking to cure and correct a situation that had attained the phase of national disaster and social and economic chaos. It is too much to hope that there will ever be infallibility in the arena of political action and the American people fully understand the fairness and justice of that statement.

No other Administration in peacetimes since the establishment of the republic had ever been confronted with such a desperate situation as that which we inherited on March 4, 1933, nor one which called for the instant exercise of greater genius and leadership and courage. It was without precedent in its forebodings of disaster to our democratic institutions. The American people have not forgotten that period of total collapse and desperation in all branches of human endeavor.

A decent respect for your indulgence will not permit me to attempt a detailed synopsis of the outstanding legislation that the Democratic Party has enacted into law to meet the staggering social and economic conditions which we had inherited.

The first heroic remedy adopted was to declare a national bank holiday which involved the temporary closing of our national and State banks which, until more adequate security for them could be obtained, was a most effective remedy against total collapse of the entire banking system of our people, although, unfortunately, many of them had already closed their doors, bringing heartbreak and immeasurable distress to millions of the American people.

This Administration enacted what, in my opinion, will forever be regarded as one of the major outstanding achievements in our history and that is the passage of the law guaranteeing the absolute safety of depositors up to $5,000 and that constituted 98 per cent of all deposits of all national banks and State banks which were affiliated with the Federal System. And now, instead of the American people having constant and daily apprehension as to the safety of their savings and deposits, they can always be assured that if any of such banks, either through bad business management or corruption, closes its doors, that every single dime of their money will be paid to them across the teller's cage within 48 hours.

Collapse of Insull Empire Is Recalled

Recognizing the terrible truth that millions of our people had been robbed and defrauded out of their investments by an unbridled and unregulated system of corporate manipulation which permitted crooked promoters, stock jobbers and holding company tycoons, we passed the Securities and Exchange Commission Act under the operation of which these robbers of the peoples' investments are now checked, restrained and regulated. We broke up for all time the ruthless and unconscionable holding companies allowed to flourish in all their ugly and wanton plundering of decent citizens under former Republican Administrations. I am just wondering if any of you people in this section of the country recall the collapse of the Insull utility empire, and the devastation it brought to thousands of your hopes and homes?

We provided for the organization and operation of the Civilian Conservation Corps, one of the most popular and successful instruments of government ever devised. It has acted not only as a medium of relief for the destitute families of millions of American youth, but at the same time has been of inestimable value in conserving the natural resources of the country and of giving to these young men a fine system of moral discipline which they would not otherwise ever have achieved.

When this Administration took over the reins of power, there were from 12,000,000 to 15,000,000 men and women of employable age without an opportunity whatsover to secure jobs that would enable them to support themselves and their hungry and naked families. It would have been a heartless and cruel omission of duty to have been indifferent to their necessities. It would have shown a wanton and reckless indifference to the fundamental duties of a great democracy had we not taken adequate steps to feed and clothe and shelter these men and women, our own people, who, without their fault, had been made the victims of the national catastrophe.

The Democratic Administration met that duty without fear and without wavering and, in addition thereto, contributed immeasurably to the permanent wealth of the Nation and the improvement and benefits that have resulted from its operation. Every single community in America has been prospered and benefited by this program and the expenditure of the Federal funds required to effectuate it. These are not fugitive and evanescent benefits, but they are tangible and enduring for future generations who will praise our foresight in establishing them.

Rivers God-Given Heritage of People

The Administration conceived and set up for all time a humane and necessary program for the softening of the hardships and bitterness of the aged and infirm of the rigors of illness and the despair of unemployment and for the support of widows and dependent children and the blind.

We established and set up on a firm and enduring foundation the great Tennessee Valley Authority which, for all time, will furnish a great vehicle for the development and conservation of the commerce and resources of that great geographical area which it serves which will be a potential factor in flood control and navigation and offers now ready assistance in our preparedness program for the manufacture of many of the essential ingredients of national defense.

As a yardstick for the control of excessive power and light rates, it has been largely instrumental in forcing the reduction of charges to consumers in the United States of $500,000,000 since its construction. This Administration has taken the position that the waters in our rivers are the God-given heritage of the people and that private utility companies have no vested right to monopolize their exploitation.

Democratic Party Friend to Labor

We have guaranteed for the first time in our history by law the basic principle of giving to labor in this country the right to organize and bargain with employers for the betterment of their wages and working conditions and through the wage and hour law, have assured to every man and women who toils in the industries of the country, a decent wage scale and fair hours of labor, and I predict here and now that the great masses of labor in this country organized and unorganized, will, when they go to the polls next November, not forget that the Democratic Party has been its friend and not its oppresor.

Upon that partial record of social and economic legislative action, we propose to wage the coming battle without any spirit of time serving or apology, but upon the contrary, with an aggressive justification o fthe record of this Democratic Administration.

The Republican Platform

We have now had opportunity to examine the Republican platform adopted at Philadelphia, which is supposed to represent the deliberate judgment of the best minds in the Republican Party. If that be the case, it reminds me of an incident that occurred in a Southern border State during the 1896 Presidential campaign, when, as you remember, the vital issue was free silver versus the gold standard. A certain shrewd old politician was running for reelection. He was to make a speech in a community where he was very doubtful as to the sentiment of the people on that issue. During the course of his speech, he was pressed many times by a bewhiskered spectator in the crowd to define his views on the money question, and finally, seeing that he was driven to make an answer, he replied: "My friend has asked me to state my position on the money question and I will do it with entire frankness and without equivocation, and here it is. I believe in the gold standard. I believe in the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. I believe in a large circulation of greenback money and a right smart little sprinkling of counterfeit." The Frank committee and their platform committee were in labor a long, long time and they finally brought forth a weasel.

It is a document filled with equivocation and political subterfuge, but the most remarkable significance of that platform is the fact that despite their clamorous and bitter denunciation of the legislative program of this Administration, they did not have even the confidence or courage to demand the repeal or abolition of any single major law we have passed for liberal government and a better state of life for the masses of the American people. No greater compliment could be paid to the wisdom and soundness of the legislative and executive program of this Administration. How can the Republican Party go before the electorate in November, urging the removal from power of that party whose wisdom and progressive policies they were compelled, even if by indirection, to indorse.

In nationl conventions heretofore there has been a vast amount of pointing with pride and viewing with alarm, but at Philadelphia, there was much viewing with alarm that there was no pointing with pride, for the obvious reason that they could remember nothing at which to point. That platform is a perfect example of the aphorism that "language was invented to conceal thoughts."

Farm Program

It is contended by Republican leaders that the farmers of the country will not support our party in November on the basis of the record of this Administration. I refute that assertion. I do it because those farmers are men of intelligence and with a high capacity for the appraisal of legislative action as it affects their personal and community welfare. At the end of a Hoover Administration, the farmers of America had on their hands an unprecedented panic an dthe Hoover Farm Board. The effects of the panic were immeasurable and the results of such Farm Board activities were worse, as our farmers will remember.

They also remember the prices they were receiving for their products in that fateful hour. Since we came into power we have progressively enacted for their benefit the soil and water conservation program; the lowest farm interest rates in our entire history; the benefits of rural electrification of their homes; marketing agreements; commodity loans; research into new uses and new markets; the stamp plan for distribution of surplus commodities; the long-range farm tenant program whereby such farmers may acquire, under reasonable terms, and on long payments, the benefits of owning their own homes; and the immeasurable benefits to them of the policy of parity payments.

I particularly call the attention of the farmers of this country to the attitude of the Republicans in Congres with reference to the parity payment program, and remember that this was a direct and vital issue as to whether or not the Government should undertake by this means to equalize, at least in part, the prices which the farmers secured for their products as compared to the cost of their production or the things they had to to buy in the open market.

On March 28, 1939, the House of Representatives, on a vote to appropriate $250,000,000 to provide for such parity payments, the Democrats voted for the proposition, 168, and Republicans voted for, 20, and against, 135. On May 9 of this year, the vote on the proposal for $212,000,000 for parity payments to farmers was for, Democrats, 183; Republicans for, 22, and against, 131. You there have a concrete example of the deep and abiding interest which the Republican membership of the House took upon this most vital question for the benefit of agriculture. By their votes ye shall know them.

Democratic World Peace Program

One of the most remarkable, as well as discretditable, efforts ever made by a political party to fabricate out of the whole cloth and without a shred of evidence to suport it is the charge of some Republican leaders that the Democratic Party and Administration are attempting slyly and covertly to lead the United States into the shambles of a foriegn war.

I here and now denounce that calumny and assert that, not only is this Administration opposed absolutely to a participation in any European war, but upon the contrary, both the President and our able Secretary of State, Cordell Hull, and a Democratic Congress have done everything possible within the bounds of reason, not only to preserve peace in Europe and in the entire world, but to so conduct our foreign relations that every precaution would be taken to keep us out of involvement in a foreign war. He has especially and consistently addressed his activities to the consolidation of that policy in this hemisphere and especially with our sister republics in Latin America.

When the President signed the first neutrality resolution on August 31, 1935, he did so with this statement: "I have approved this joint resolution because it was intended as an expression of the fixed desire of the Government and the people of the United States to avoid any action which might involve us in war. The policy of the Government is definitely committed to the maintenance of peace and the avoidance of any entanglements which would lead us into conflict."

Memorable Message To the Congress

Just a few days ago, on Wednesday of last week, he sent a memorable message to the Congress in which he specifically and definitely gave this assurance of policy to the American people, "That we are opposed to war is known, not only to every American, but to every government in the world. We will not use our arms in the way of aggression; we will not send our men to take part in European wars."

In addition to all this, he called a special session of Congress last year after the war broke out in Europe, recommended, and the Democratic Party passed, amendments to the existing neutrality law which prohibited the shipment in American vessels of cargoes into the waters of the beligerents nations, which, if it had not been done,, would doubtless long before this have inevitably drawn us into the conflict for the same reasons which induced America to go to war against the Central Powers in 1917. On the vote in the House of Representatives on this most vital proposal for keeping out of the European war, on the final roll call on the conference report of the neutrality bill, there were, yeas, Democrats, 223; Republicans, 18. Nays, Democrats, 29; Republicans, 141.

Shadow of Hitler

My fellow countrymen, we are assembled at the most fateful moment in the history of mankind. The sinister shadow of a cruel, savage and ruthless despotism hangs like a pall of doom over the homes and lives of every citizen of democratic and liberty-loving peoples. Already this juggernaut of physical force and brutal power has laid its blighting hand upon the freedom and sovereignty of eight small and defenseless nations. Now France lies in the agony and ashes of the totalitarian destruction, and only Great Britain alone stands against the hurricane of the blitzkrieg. And now Hitler and Mussolini have sworn her total annihilation. They have furthermore sworn eternal enmity against all so-called decadent democracies, and that includes us.

I conceive it to be a matter of profound regret that at the recent Republican Convention it took their committee on foreign affairs eight long days to compromise on a plank that means nothing, dares nothing, and confusedly faced both ways in such fashion that their candidate for the Presidency could construe it in any way the exigencies of the campaign might require.

I do not know what attitude this convention may take on that subject, and only can express a personal opinion when I assert that if the wishes of overwhelming American sentiment, including that of our loyal foreign-born citizens, should be expressed, the declaration would be that we are not only in deepest sympathy with the British commonwealth in its struggle for life, and that we should furnish them every possible material assistance in our power within the limits of our law, short of war; but, also, that we will resist to the death any compromise with our democratic principles with those malignant disturbers of the peace of the world; that we do not propose to appease those aggressors whose doctrines wage war upon every sacred principle of liberty for a free people that our Declaration of Independence announced and our Federal Constitution preserved.

National Defense

I now propose to expose another flagrant piece of Republican propaganda by which they are endeavoring during this campaign, as they have always done, to make the American people believe that this Administration has been indifferent to and neglectful of the necessary steps to prepare and make instantly available an adequate system of national defense at sea, on land and in the air. National defense is a sacred trust. When a matter involving the safety of our beloved country is at stake, we should all be united, both Democrats and Republicans, because we are all Americans. In critical times such as these, we should be thinking less of the political differences that divide us and more of the national interests that unite us.

Until the invasion just two months ago of Norway, Belgium, Denmark and the Netherlands, how many of us realized the full

Chile Police Thwart Nazi, Rightist Plot

Movement Aimed At Overthrowing Popular Front

Copyright by New York Times

Santiago, Chile, July 15.—Energetic measures adopted by the police today defeated a subversive movement staged by reactionary forces with the support of the Nacionalista Party, the Popular Socialist Vanguard Party (the former Chilean Nazi Party), and the various opposition elements grouped as the Frente de la Patria.

Raiding the offices of the Nacionalista Party, which for many months has been actively sponsoring Fascist principles, the police say they discovered proofs of a conspiracy to overthrow the existing Popular Front administration and lists of cell members containing the names of many leaders in the movement, which is stated to have been inspired by Rightists.

Another raid, at the headquarters of the Popular Socialist Vanguard, is said to have brought to light papers giving evidence of the existence of an organized plan embracing opposition groups.

Newspaper Closed

The Diario Illustrado, principal newspaper of the Conservative Party, was closed. The Chileno was put out of business when the government canceled the contract by leasing presses the paper was using. Well-informed circles asserted that the government would put down any uprising, regardless of its nature.

It is stated plans are being considered to reorganize the courts in view of their lack of energy in taking steps against numerous Rightist movements.

It is announced the internal security law will be applied to maintain order, but no state of siege, which requires congressional approval.

Many Arrested

The Nacionalista group was formed more than a year ago by a retired officer named Ariosto Herrera. A revolutionary movement was nipped at that time and its leaders deported.

Guillermo Izquierdo, a lawyer, continued to form the movement which ostensibly set forth Fascist ideals. The authorities did not attach much importance to the activities of this group, which has representation in Congress, but brought together only a few supporters at widely advertised meetings.

Trouble was suspected yesterday, however, when members of the former Nazi Party commenced to shower pamphlets over the city with unfavorable comments on President Pedro Aguirre Cerda's resolution calling for prison sentences against former police officers and others allegedly responsible for the massacre of 62 Nazi students September 5, 1938, after a short-lived revolutionary movement designed to bring retired Gen. Carlos Ibanez into power.

The police, however, effectively coped with the situation and many former Nazis were arrested.

Army Buys Tanks For Second Corps

establishments, had awarded contracts during the last fiscal year totaling $236,930,883. This was three times the total during the World War year of 1918, and by far the greatest in history.

Workers Trained

And the defense commission announced that 30,000 to 40,000 workers already are being trained in occupations of value to defense industries.

Nearly 40 States have submitted vocational training plans and 26 have been approved by the Office of Education, co-sponsor with the commission of the training program. The program is operated through a WPA project and enrollment is expected eventually to reach 150,000.

Ultimately the Army expects to have a fleet of 6,000 tanks, which would provide from 12 to 15 armored corps and smaller units for operating with Infantry troops. There are 492 light and medium tanks in service while a total of 52 were on order prior to yesterday's award.

Tanks Will Carry Cannons

Informed sources said the new American mechanized units would have more striking power than similar units in the German army. The Nazi light tanks range from 6 to 8 tons as compared with our 10 to 12 ton vehicles. German panzer divisions, moreover, have about four light tanks to one medium tank, while the new program approved by the War Department establishes a ratio of 2½ to 1 in light and medium tanks.

Each of the new light tanks ordered yesterday will carry a 37-millimeter cannon, four .30-caliber machine guns, and one heavier machine gun.

Chairman Woodrum of the House deficiency appropriations subcommittee conferred with President Roosevelt during the day on the new $4,846,000,000 defense program and announced his committee will begin hearings on the estimates Monday.

"We expect to go into the whole defense program very thoroughly in checking up on thees new estimates," Woodrum said after leaving the White House. "There is much routine work to be done and the House committee wants to be absolutely sure that when their funds are appropriated they are going to do two things:

"First, get 100 per cent value for the money spent, and second, get quick and effective action."

Other defense developments included:

The War Department announced the establishment of two new schools for training pilots for the expanding Air Corps, to be known as the West Coast and Southeast Air Corps training centers, with headquarters at Moffett Field, Calif., and Maxwell Field, Ala. The existing school at San Antonio was redesignated the Gulf Coast training center.

portent of such events. Prior to that invasion, I heard no Republicans urging a national defense program such as we have now launched.

During the 12 years of Republican rule the national defense record was one of continual retrogression. During the 11-year period between 1922, the year of the Washington Arms Conference, and in 1934, the year following Democratic charge of government, they laid down a total of 35 combatant ships, an average of about three units per year. During the same period, the British government commenced the construction of 110 units of comparable types and the Japanese government laid down 119 units. In other words, with the other great powers of the world building up their first line of defense, those Republican Administrations, after the Disarmament Conference, which proposed a 5-5-3 ratio as between us, Great Britain and Japan, proceeded to throw that ratio out of the window. During the last three years of the Hoover Administration, not one single vessel of war was laid down by our Government. Almost immediately after his inauguration, the President allocated $238,000,000 for the construction of 30 combatant vessels, aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyers and submarines, and the record of any changes laid down from that time to June, 1940, has been 8 new battleships, 12 new cruisers, 2 new aircraft carriers, 65 destroyers and 36 new submarines, a grand total of 153 new units in seven years as contrasted with 35 new units under the 12-year Republican regime.

Provisions Made For Larger Army

When we came into power, the Republicans had reduced our standing Army until it became a shadow of national defense. By 1933 the Regular Army had been reduced to 118,000 men, scattered all over the United States and our foreign possessions. Early in this Administration, provision was made to increase the enlisted strength of the Army to 165,000 men and for expanding the strength of the National Guard, and the first steps were taken toward the procurement of motorized and mechanized equipment.

The Enemy Within

There has been presented a summary of our program for a tremendous increase in our defense against an enemy from overseas. But such danger is not the only menace to our national security. There is abundant proof that lurking within the shadows of our Government's edifice, laying their mischievous plans at the opportune time to sap and mine it, or to put the red torch of revolution and disunion against our democratic form of Government, are those forces of evil, now commonly called "The Fifth Column."

No one knows how great are their numbers, but evidence already produced shows that they run into tens of thousands, all of them sworn enemies of our form of government. However great or small may be their number, there is no place in the United States for a single one of them to abide in freedom. I am happy to announce that Congressional legislation has already been enacted and approved by the President providing every possible restraint upon and punishment of these enemies of our institutions that could be devised within the limits of our Constitution.

At the conclusion of the recent Republican convention at Philadelphia, former President Hoover posed this question: "Republicans, are you ready to fight?" No such question will be propounded to the Democrats of this convention or those of the country. We began to fight in the election of 1932; we carried on the battle in 1936 to a magnificent victory, and we are already enlisted for the duration of the coming conflict to preserve to the people the advances we have made in liberal government for the benefit and protection of the average man. Fighting by our side will again be millions of Republicans and independent voters who have forever forsworn allegiance to the forces of reaction.

Spiritual Rededication

Let me conclude, my friends, upon a little more solemn note.

Sentiments and emotions and alarms of profound significance are stirring the minds and hearts of the American people as a result of the welter and destruction of the foreign wars, and they are in deep apprehension of the dangers to our processes of liberty. We can all somehow sense and feel a new consecration to the priceless patrimony bequeathed to us by Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Hamilton and their associates "in a time remote." It is an indefinable patriotic incursion that is touching the souls of men and women here in our country.

While this is no time or place for one to invoke the prerogatives of an ecclesiastic, I venture far enough to assert that there is no armament so potent and enduring as that of the observance of moral, spiritual and religious obligations of a great people. Without that sanctuary, there can be no perpetuation of the decencies and securities of any civilization. The Great Comforter as our shield and buckler, our wealth, our power, our preparedness, our love of liberty will forever make America unconquered and unconquerable.

'Faust' to Be Sung At Watergate Tomorrow Night

"Faust," second opera ever to be presented at the Watergate, will be sung tomorrow evening with the entire National Symphony Orchestra and the San Carlo Ballet taking part.

Three Americans will be heard in the principal roles at the performance at 8 p. m.; Helen Gleason, young Metropolitan Opera and musical comedy star; Sidney Rayner, former Metropolitan tenor, and Harold Kravitt, lyric basso of the San Carlo Opera Company.

Fortune Gallo, of the San Carlo Opera Company, who will be impressario and conduct the performance, will hold a rehearsal this afternoon at the Watergate.

The Symphony Orchestra, with Joseph Bambochek as guest director, will play on a separate barge between the main barge and the shore.

Tickets for "Faust" are on sale at the symphony box office in the Homer L. Kitt Music Store, 1330 G street northwest, at prices from 50 cents to $2.

Export Lines Win Atlantic Flying Rights

Aeronautics Board Approves Competition With Pan American

Transocean commercial flying was opened to competition by the Civil Aeronautics Board yesterday, as it granted temporary certificates to American Export Lines, Inc., to operate passenger, mail and express service between New York City and Lisbon, Portugal. Baltimore was designated as an alternate terminal when weather requires.

Pan American Airways already is operating across the Atlantic.

One certificate issued yesterday, good until the war ends and for 60 days thereafter, allows flights to Lisbon with Hamilton, Bermuda, or Horta, the Azores, as intermediate points.

Originally, American Export Lines had applied for permission to operate lines to Marseille, France, and to Southampton, England, but confined its application to Lisbon when the war began.

A second certificate granted, good until September 1, 1941, permits mail and express service to Lisbon, via Horta, while American Export Lines awaits delivery of three Sikorsky S-44 four-engined flying boats ordered some months ago. Delivery is expected in 11, 14 and 19 months, respectively.

J. E. Slater, executive vice president of the lines, announced yesterday that the great flying boats, will be used for a non-stop service, modeled after Navy patrol bombers, They carry a crew of 11 and 12 passengers, making the eastbound trip in 20 hours and 30 minutes, westbound 24 hours and 45 minutes.

The Civil Aeronautics Board saw in its decision a chance to uphold the theory that free competition is a healthy influence, even in such a prestige-laden business as transatlantic flying.

"We are unable to find," the CAB said in its decision, "that the continued maintenance of an exclusive monopoly of transatlantic American flag air transportation is in the public interest."

Pan American had contended that granting the certificate to American Export Lines would be economically harmful since competition of foreign government lines would have to be met in due time.

Pan American had also asked special consideration in view of the fact that it had done the pioneer work in opening up not only the Atlantic air route, but also routes to South America and the far Pacific.

Further, lawyers for Pan American had contended that the double mail subsidy that would have to be granted to a second transatlantic air line would be a waste of public money. The CAB did not believe this was an important consideration where the "public convenience and necessity" predominated.

American Export Lines officials have stressed the fact that their new flying boats, modeled on the Navy's XPBS-1 bomber, could be easily converted to defense work.

'The Merry Milkmaids' Tonight at Sylvan

"The Merry Milkmaids," fourth summer festival this season, will be presented at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the Sylvan Theater by the Tempo Choral Society, a colored organization.

The operetta is being given under the auspices of the Community Center and Playgrounds Department and the National Capital Parks Office. The WPA colored dance orchestra will participate.

Churchill Turns Eyes to China

Statement in Commons Today Expected To Reveal Details of Negotiations With Japan Closing Burma Supply Road

By the United Press

London, July 15.—Prime Minister Winston Churchill probably will make a detailed statement in Commons tomorrow on British-Japanese negotiations which envisage a concerted move to end the long, undeclared war between Japan and China, authoritative British informants said tonight.

The Prime Minister is expected to clarify Britain's Far Eastern policy and may reveal details of recent British-Japanese negotiations which have resulted in Britain's agreement to prohibit the movement of all military supplies for China through British Burma for the next three months.

The statement will be designed in part to reassure the Chinese government in Chungking that Britain is not making any arrangement with Japan designed to coerce China into an abject surrender. The Prime Minister probably will make it clear, however, that Britain has her hands full in Europe and is not in position to risk a clash with Japan in East Asia.

Chinese here were extremely worried tonight, believing that Britain is making a "deal" with Japan which will cripple the Chinese government in Chungking and make easier an eventual Japanese victory which will put most of China under indirect Japanese control.

Indicative of the Chinese attitude, Chinese Ambassador Quo Tai-Chi called on Parliamentary Undersecretary for Foreign Affairs Richard A. Butler and delivered a vigorous oral protest.

The Ambassador told American correspondents later that he made these points.

China considers Britain's action in agreeing to restrict traffic on the Burma road for the next three months an "unfriendly act." The suggestion that Britain use her good offices to induce China to enter into peace negotiations is "adding insult to injury."

China appeals to Britain to reaffirm her loyalty to the Nine-Power Treaty, sponsored by the United States and designed to guarantee China's territorial integrity and the rights of the powers in that country.

China is willing to explore the prospects for peace with Japan and would welcome an honorable settlement of the undeclared war. The Chinese government believes, however, that the prospects for a Chinese-Japanese peace are no greater than those of a British-German peace.

China feels that Britain is making concessions to Japan, an aggressor nation, and depriving China, a nonaggressor nation, of the means to defend herself.

If China must accept mediation of her conflict with Japan she would prefer the United States rather than Britain as the mediating power. Joint British-American mediation would be preferable to the mediation of Britain alone.

[Secretary Hull, in Washington, said the United States continues to pursue an independent policy in the Far East.]

Closing of the Burma road, over which American and other war supplies have been reaching the Chinese armies, will not cripple China immediately. She has reserve supplies to continue resistance against Japan for probably as much as nine months. The political and moral effects of British restrictions on the Burma road traffic, however, will have a very grave effect on Chinese morale and will tend, equally, to encourage the Japanese.

Burial Services Are Tomorrow For Mrs. Morris

Funeral services for Mrs. Florence Balderson Morris, 71, a member of a prominent Virginia family, will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow at the Hysong funeral home, 1300 N street northwest, with burial in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Morris died Sunday after a long illness at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harry B. Willson, at the Westchester Apartments.

She was born in Richmond County, Va., and spent the last 40 years in Washington. Besides Mrs. Willson, she leaves three daughters, Mrs. W. F. Hutchinson, Mrs. Hettie A. Duckett, both of Washington, and Miss Lillian V. Morris, of Albuquerque, N. Mex., and a son by a former marriage, Frederick M. Marks, of Washington.

She is also survived by six sisters, Mrs. Titus G. Spiker, Mrs. Ernestine A. Schneider, Mrs. Katherine Coats and John Mothershead, all of Washington; Mrs. Lorena A. Connelly, Newland, Va., and Mrs. Harry Coats, Oak Grove, Va., and three brothers, Russell A. Balderson, of Washington; Robert A. Balderson, Pittsburgh, and Thomas A. Balderson, of Warsaw, Va.

Funeral Today For E. Partridge, Revenue Agent

Funeral services for Everett Partridge, 67, special agent in the Bureau of Internal Revenue, will be held at 4 p. m. today at the S. H. Hines funeral home, 2901 Fourteenth street northwest.

Mr. Partridge, one of six postal inspectors selected to form the Internal Revenue Bureau's intelligence service when it was established in 1919, died Sunday in Homeopathic Hospital.

A native of Grand Island, Nebr., he entered Government service in 1900 as a clerk in the War Department. Five years later he joined the Postoffice Department as assistant superintendent of finance and postal inspector.

He lived at the Ontario Apartments, Ontario road and Eighteenth street northwest. Surviving is his wife, Mrs. Saidee Dingman Partridge.

Appeasement Offer Expected For Almazan

Copyright by New York Times

Mexico City, July 15.—A move toward a compromise between Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho and Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan, presidential candidates in the elections of July 7, was seen today in rumors that, when a final check of the votes has been made by congress, 50 seats in the house of representatvies will be assigned to Almazan supporters and 110 to Avila Camacho's adherents.

However, so far, any such suggestion is being rejected by Gen. Almazan, who is said to believe it would be a maneuver to split his political machine. He has threatened to disavow any follower who accepted a seat in a congress dominated by Avila Camacho.

Almazan still appears to be set on establishing a congress of his own if his claims to a complete victory in the presidential election are not recognized. Almazan ran as an independent against the administration-supported Avila Camacho.

The situation seems likely to come to a climax September 1, when the new congress will be inaugurated.

Temporary regulations forbidding the sale and carrying of arms expired today. A warning was issued by the commanders of all military zones that disturbances would be repressed, but indications of unrest persist.

In the state of Veracruz yesterday a sergeant, two common soldiers and several civilians were reported to have revolted. They were all shot dead, the report said.

In Pachuca, state of Hidalgo, a leader of the Avila Camacho campaign, Hector F. Ortega, was shot and killed last night, presumably for political reasons.

Various Almazanistas were reported to have been arrested in Puebla and other "reprisals" allegedly threatened against state employes who voted for Gen. Almazan.

The Federation of State Employes' Syndicates was said to have issued a circular to its sections reminding them that, in accordance with the by-laws of the organization, the "ideology" of any candidate for promotion must be considered before the promotion was granted.

Britain Appeals For U. S. Pilots And Radiomen

London, July 15.—The Air Ministry tonight appealed for an unlimited number of trained American plane pilots and Morse operators to serve with the Royal Air Force.

There is no shortage of untrained volunteers in Britain, but there is need for men between 18 and 35 who have at least 250 hours of flying time to their credit. The government also needs radio operators to serve in British bombers.

The official Air Ministry spokesman said that American pilots with these qualifications will be given commissions in the Royal Air Force, receive regular R. A. F. officers pay, and be formed into American flights, eventually into American squadrons.

It will not be necessary, according to this spokesman, for these Americans to swear allegiance to the King.

Vatican Supports Petain Regime

Vatican City, July 15 (U.P.)—The Vatican has formally given its support to the new French totalitarian regime of Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, it was stated in authoritative Vatican quarters tonight.

The papal nuncio to France, Msgr. Valeria Valeri, was said to have been instructed to support the Petain government in its work of French reconstruction.

New York, July 15 (AP).—The French Line will continue to maintain its shore organization in the United States and Canada until normal trade can be resumed, and contemplates no change in the status of the liner Normandie and other vessels now tied up in American ports, Henri Morin de Linclays, resident manager of the line, said today.

He made his statement in denying reports that the line was dismissing its employes and would discontinue operations.

Naval Victory Cost 3 Lives, British Claim

Admiralty Announces Italian Battleship, Cruiser Were Damaged

By the Associated Press

London, July 15.—At the cost of three men, the British navy damaged an Italian battleship and a cruiser and destroyed five planes in the pursuit of a heavy Italian squadron in last Tuesday's central Mediterranean battle, the admiralty announced tonight.

Its communique, amplifying previous accounts, said the Italian forces comprised two battleships, "a large number" of heavy cruisers and 25 destroyers, all of which fled as son as they came within extreme range.

The battleships exchanged a few salvos, with the British claiing one hit. British "swordfish" planes (torpedo carriers) hit an Italian cruiser, and pursuit planes downed five Fascist fighters.

Waited in Vain

Then, in sight of land, the British said their squadron stood offshore the rest of the day, waiting in vain for the Italians to come out and fight.

Finally, they returned to their duties as a convoy for ships which "have now arrived at their destination in safety."

It was in this phase, the admiralty reported, that bomb splinters from "near misses" by Italian planes caused three British casualties.

In a brush in the western Mediterranean on the same day, the British reiterated they could find no Italian surface ships and that no British ships, including the battle cruiser Hood and aircraft carrier Ark Royal, suffered any damage from Italian planes, four of which were destroyed.

Admit Loss of Sub

(The Italians claimed the Hood and Ark Royal were hit and said the British fled from the other engagement. Today they claimed destruction of two British submarines and a destroyer over the week-end.)

The British admiralty today reported the loss of the submarine Shark, one of the smaller coastal type carrying a complement of 40 officers and men. There was no indication of the number of casualties.

Another admiralty announcement stated that five officers and 54 seamen, including one Chinese, were lost aboard the submarine Grampus when she was sunk June 29.

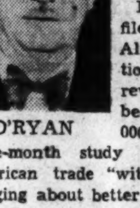
O'Ryan, World War General, Registers as Japanese Agent

Maj. Gen. John F. O'Ryan, United States Army, retired, wartime commander of the Rainbow Division, has registered with the State Department as an agent of the Japanese government, it was learned yesterday.



O'RYAN

His statement, filed under the Alien Registration Act of 1939, reveals he has been paid $15,000 to make a three-month study of Japanese-American trade "with a view to bringing about better economic relations" between the two countries.

The general, who is en route to Japan, said he has been retained by the Japan Economic Federation, which he assumed "is subsidized or supported by the Japanese government."

The contract was negotiated with T. Nisiyama, Japanese trade commissioner, and sealed by a letter on the stationery of the "Financial Commission of the Imperial Japanese Government."

O'Ryan, a lawyer and former New York City police commissioner, said he was to make an "impartial report based upon my own investigations." He added:

"I do not believe I can be classified as an agent of any principal, because the relation of principal and agent implies some measure of control by the principal, of the agent. However, the question is academic. I have been retained by the Japan Economic Federation of Tokyo."

The general made the headlines last May with an indorsement of active American participation in the European war. When he departed for Japan he declared he was on an "errand of peace" sponsored by American and Japanese businessmen.

The whole question of Japanese trade with the United States, he said, resembles many family quarrels, adding that long experience as referee in the New York Supreme Court had taught him that circumstances often intervene in controversies which are not the fault of either party.

The contract filed with the State Department revealed that O'Ryan, who is 66 years old, received in advance a $15,000 fee, with the understanding that he was to be paid at the rate of $5,000 a month if the survey last more than three months.

The investment firm of Eastman, Dillon & Co. was listed as cooperating in the making of the survey. One member of the general's party on the all-expense-paid trip to Japan is Warren Hunsberger, economics professor at Yale.

League Invited To Transfer Work To Princeton

Princeton, N. J., July 15 (AP).—An invitation has been extended to the League of Nations to transfer the work of three nonpolitical departments from Geneva to Princeton, it was announced officially today.

The three sections are of finance and economics, international health and opium control.

An announcement that Princeton University, the Institute for Advanced Study and the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research had issued the invitation was made by Dr. Harold W. Dodds, university president; Dr. Frank Aydelotte, study institute director, and Dr. Carl Ten Broeck, of the Rockefeller Institute.

The invitation was cabled July 12, but no response has been received.

District Plans Labor Survey For Defense

Type and Number of Workers Available To Be Determined

A survey to determine the type and number of skilled and unskilled workers who would be needed by local industries in event of emergency production increases, was announced yesterday by leaders of the District's national defense training program.

Details of the survey—to begin immediately—were discussed at a meeting of school officials and WPA representatives in the Franklin School. Data will be obtained in a scheduled series of conferences between educational authorities, employers, labor leaders and public employment operators, according to J. L. Cantrell, assistant superintendent of education, chairman of yesterday's meeting.

He indicated that steps to begin the training program would be delayed until the needs of local industry are known.

Carl Tranum, director of employment, District WPA, assured Cantrell part of the necessary workers could be drawn from WPA rolls. The number available, he said, would depend on the type of craftsmen needed.

The United States Office of Education still has before it a plan of the defense training project admitted by the Board of Education. Early approval is expected.

Hambro, Here, Says Not One Norse Official, Including Armed Forces, Played the Traitor

Germans Made Up Fifth Column Tales, Oslo Leader Insists

"There is not a grain of truth in the reports that Norway was conquered by a 'Fifth Column.'"

This was the statement made by Carl Johan Hambro, speaker of the Norwegian Parliament for the past 13 years, when he arrived here yesterday from Stockholm.

The burly, gray-haired statesman left the Swedish capital five weeks ago, completed a swift dash into northern Norway to meet King Haakon, then accompanied the King across the submarine-infested North Sea to England. A few days ago he arrived alone in Halifax and headed for Washington.

Not One Official Traitor

Yesterday, seated comfortably on a deep couch at the Norwegian Legation, he declared unequivocably:

"Not one Norwegian in any official position was a traitor to his country. And this includes the army and navy."

Surrounded by reporters, photographers and the knotted-pine walls of an ornate legation study, the genial Norseman insisted that tales of treachery were circulated falsely by the Germans "to create confusion" in his native land.

He denied that the German fleet sailed serenely up the Oslo Fjord, past spiked fortifications, to capture the Norwegian capital.

Lost Two Ships in Fjord

"In fact," he said, "the Nazis lost two of their biggest ships in their attempt to force the Oslo Fjord. Finally, they were compelled to land on the shores north and south of the fjord for their initial attack."

Hambro, who was elected president of the League of Nations Assembly last year, revealed that the German attack succeeded swiftly because it was launched with complete surprise in the middle of the night. The visibility was so poor, he added, that the defending forces did not know until the last minute whether the approaching vessels were English or German.

Nazis Radioed in English

At Bergen, he said, the city was captured without a shot because the approaching German squadron radioed ahead in English and convinced the defenders that they were British vessels speeding assistance against the German foe.

In Oslo, he said, the Germans seized control of the radio station immediately. Then, in faultles Norwegian, the Nazis issued "official government statesments," ordering the pople to disregard the mobilization call and assuring them that there had been no attack.

The extent of the surprise, he said, was indicated by the fact that mobilization was not scheduled to begin until April 11. The invasion began April 9 and the broadcasts in Norwegian convinced most of the country that the mobilization had been called off.

Hitch-Hikers Provided Maps

The role of the hundreds of German "tourists," he explained, was to act as the advance guard of the military intelligence.

"We saw these 'friendly' wandervogel, or hitch-hikers, who had sat peacefully, sketching waterfalls, returning to direct the blasting of bridges with the aid of their secretly drawn maps.

What of the future of the League of Nations?

"Well," he said, "the League is still functioning. But there has been a mass exodus of its employes from Geneva. They have left their institution of peace to seize arms and fight for their countries."

Arriving U. S. Diplomat Tells Of 2-Week Siege of Warsaw

Consul General Davis Describes Crying Children and Shrieking Women In Shell-Pitted American Embassy

Two harrowing weeks with a hundred shrieking women and crying children in the shell-pitted American Embassy at Warsaw were described here yesterday by an American diplomat upon his return from service abroad.

He was John Kerr Davis, consul general at the Polish capital during the German siege. He arrived here yesterday after a trip from Galway, Ireland, on the United States "refugee" liner Washington.

When Ambassador Biddle left Warsaw on September 5, 1939, to accompany the Polish government in its flight south from Warsaw, Davis moved his staff to the Embassy chancery. A few days later the offices of the consulate general were riddled by shell fire.

But things were little better at the chancery. Five direct hits were made on an adjoining building. Every plate of glass was shattered. Every wall in the huge building was gutted by shell fragments. A bomb, dropped by a diving Stuka, landed in the back yard, but did not explode.

"We had about 70 refugees in the building, most of them women and children," Davis said. "Each time the bombardment grew heavy we sent the women to the cellar. Shells landing nearby choked the house with fumes of picric acid.

"Each time, the fumes, reaching the basement, brought gasping screams of 'Gas! Gas!' from the cellar. And we had to face once more the necessity of combating hysteria by convincing that the 'gas' was merely shell fumes."

Sleeping, he said, was a matter of one-hour naps when complete exhaustion overcame the terrific strain. A huge bomb shelter, built specially, was flooded by rain water and rendered uninhabitable. Obtaining food for the 140 crowded residents was a matter of daily expeditions to far-off warehouses.

Davis' party, accompanied by 1,000 other foreigners, finally escaped from the city under a truce arranged by the Polish commander. Fighting ceased in one narrow sector and a strange motorcade of Polish army and private automobiles carted the refugees to the middle of no-man's-land.

There they were picked up by German army trucks and transported to east Prussia. The truce extended over so narrow a sector that two Belgian cars were struck by shell fragments. But through the entire two weeks, not a single American was scratched.

For Davis, a small, slight career diplomat, the experience was not new. In Nanking, China, in 1927, he led a group of Americans over the city wall to waiting American warships under a continuous artillery barrage.

"But in China," he said, "at least there were no planes. In Warsaw we could hardly see the sky there were so many. It made a great difference."

U.S. Squadrons Leave Hawaii On Maneuvers

Belief Prevails They May Patrol French, British Pacific Isles

By the Associated Press

Honolulu, July 15.—Two columns of United States warships steamed out of Pearl Harbor today, causing speculation the vessels were getting ready to patrol South Pacific islands owned by Great Britain and France.

Eight cruisers, headed by the Indianapolis, flagships of Vice Admiral Adolphus Andrews, commander of the scouting force, sailed with ten destroyers.

Another column of four cruisers and a number of destroyers were joined by the battleships Colorado and Nevada and the aircraft carrier Enterprise. They moved southeast toward Maui, one of the larger Hawaiian Islands.

The sailing inauguarted a three-week period of sea operations during which the fleet will be based partly at La Haina, Maui and partly at Pearl Harbor.

Speculation that the warcraft may be preparing for a South Sea patrol was based on the assumption that the fleet was strong enough to protect the status quo of all islands east of the international dateline in the south Pacific.

The bulk of the American fleet has been operating in and around Hawaiian waters virtually all year.

China Guerrillas Attack Shanghai

Shanghai (Tuesday), July 16 (INS). Shanghai underwent its first attack in more than two years today when Chinese guerrilla soldiers made an assault on the city from the South Nantao area.

Residents of the French concession were awakened at 4 a. m. by the sound of machine guns, rifles and hand grenade explosions. A heavy fog covered the attack.

Funeral Is Held For H. B. Wilkins, Musical Expert

H. Blakiston Wilkins, 69, honorary curator of musical instruments at the Library of Congress, died early yesterday at his home, 1701 Twenty-second street northwest, after a long illness. Private funeral services were held yesterday at his home.

Mr. Wilkins was born in Baltimore, and lived for more than 30 years in France and Italy. Returning to this country about ten years ago, he became associated with the Library of Congress where he was honorary consultant in the Stradivari collection as well as honorary curator of musical instruments.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Emily Howell Wilkins, and a daughter, Mrs. Alice W. Phillips, both of Washington.

U.S. Paper in Shanghai Bombed; Virginian Head of Staff

BY International News Service

Shanghai (Tuesday), July 16.—The offices and plant of the American-owned Shanghai newspaper Shun Pao were bombed early today by gangsters believed inspired by the Japanese puppet government of Wang Ching-wei. Several Chinese were injured.

The Shun Pao is China's largest independent daily newspaper. N. F. Allman, of Gladeville, Va., and Washington, D. C., a Shanghai attorney, and formerly with the American Embassy in Pieping, has been head of the staff for the past two years.

Allman was given the largest vote in the Shanghai municipal council election in April. He is an expert in the Chinese language, a major in the Shanghai volunteer corps and a famous polo player.

Allman comes of a noted Virginia family. Several brothers are practicing in international law in Washington.

The paper's plant has been under armed guards with special protection against raids, since the Japanese puppet government showed its dislike of the publication.

Allman was one of six Americans which the Wang Ching-wei government ordered out of China in an edict issued yesterday.

This is the second bombing of an American newspaper plant in three months, since the Chinese puppets at Nanking publicly announced they would not tolerate continued publication of papers considered unfriendly to the Japanese-sponsored group.

The Shanghai Evening Post was bombed on April 26 following a warning by the publicity director of the Japanese puppet regime at Nanking, Tang Liang-li, that the Post should halt its editorial and news policy considered unfavorable to the Wang Ching-wei government.

Germans Vow To 'Shatter' London by Air

Answer to Churchill's Defense Pledge; New Bombing Blows Claimed

By the United Press

Berlin, July 15.—Germany tonight raised the threat of a shattering bombardment of London in a sharp answer to Brtish Prime Minister Winston Churchill's promise of a street-by-street defense of the metropolis, even until it is "laid in ruins and ashes."

London no longer can be regarded as an "open city" as result of Churchill's defiant radio speech Sunday night, an authorized spokesman said.

Asked directly whether London was now regarded as an open city—a civilian center such as Paris became when French soldiers fell back around it in order to spare it from destruction — the spokesman said:

"No, absolutely the contrary.

Claim New Air Blows

"Churchill expresly stated that every house and every street in London would be defended to the last."

The German high command, preparing for its promised "annihilating" invasion of the British Isles, meanwhile claimed to have struck blasting aerial blows against British warships and shippings, naval bases, airdromes and munitions plants.

Waves of Nazi planes Sunday night and early today heavily bombed vital British military objectives in Kent, a short distance east of London along the southern rim of the Thames Estuary, the official DNB agency said.

In an attack on a British convoy in the English Channel (in the narrow straits of Dover) three British merchant ships totaling 18,000 tons were sunk by the German planes, the high command said.

A destroyer, a 30,000-ton auxiliary cruiser and four merchant ships were badly damaged and all "partly set on fire," it was claimed.

Bombed Naval Base

Ranging over Southeastern England in strong attacks Sunday night, the German air force was said to have bombed a military airdrome at Ramsgate, the big naval base at Chatham, oil supply tanks at Avonmouth and a dynamite works at Faversham.

Chatham, one of Britain's chief naval bases, is only 20 miles east of the London area on the Medway River.

"The effects of the bomb attacks on all objectives were visible from a distance through fires and heavy explosions, particularly at Faversham," the high command communique said.

During numerous week-end air battles between German and British pursuit planes, four British Hurricane fighters and two German planes were said to have been shot down.

British Retaliate

British planes Sunday night dropped bombs on northern and Western Germany "at random," causing "unimportant damage," the high command said. Two of the raiding British planes were shot down by anti-aircraft guns and another by Nazi pursuit planes.

In connection with the attacks on British convoys off the English coasts, a Nazi spokesman credited one German submarine with sinking 22,000 tons of British shipping and torpedoing a British destroyer.

The official news agency said that the German navy, in enforcing Adolf Hitler's blockade of the British Isles, was not hindered by "alleged" mine fields protecting the British sea lanes.

British to Get Ultimatum to Back 'Renovating' Plan for Europe or Face Destruction—Gayda

By the Associated Press

Rome, July 15.—A forecast was flung out of Italy today that the Axis powers in a few days would give Britain her chance to line up behind their "renovating, restorative" plan for a new Europe—or else face an onslaught of arms to force her "final overthrow."

The authoritative Fascist editor, Virginio Gayda, hinted that an ultimatum to that effect would be forthcoming. Gayda's editorials in Il Giornale d'Italia frequently are regarded as the voice of Premier Mussolini. In answer to Prime Minister Churchill's defiant speech Sunday. Gayda wrote:

"Britain will have to settle her last account. She will have to choose between submission to the renovating, restorative forces of Europe or extremely grim, violent war in which inexorable destruction, a fateful, precipitous step toward final overthrow, will be measured not by years or weeks of which Churchill spoke but by days or hours."

[Some quarters even saw in Gayda's editorial a connection with reports that Italian Foreign Minister Count iCano is leaving soon for a three-cornered conference with German Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop and Soviet Foreign Minister V. Molotoff regarding latest developments in the international situation, United Press reported.

[These reports dovetailing with the Gayda editorial brought rumors of a peace move.]

While Gayda made his prediction, the Italian air force stabbed at the British fleet in the Mediterranean.

These aerial forays, the Italian high command declared, cost the British two submarines and a destroyer over the week-end.

The British fleet was declared to be heading home to Alexandria, harassed by bombing planes, after an ill-starred foray into the open sea.

(Yesterday the British Admiralty told of the sinking of the 1,350-ton destroyer Escort, torpedoed in the western Mediterranean, and today it said the 760-ton submarine Shark is "overdue and presumed to be lost.")

The air fighting in the Mediterranean area and in Africa cost the British 10 planes over the week-end, said the high command, adding that Italian scouting planes had turned their machine guns on British troops near Buna, East Africa.

[The Italian press printed a dispatch from Berne today that two of the three Swiss newspapers, about which Gayda complained yesterday, have been suspended pending graver sanctions, the New York Times declared.

[They had printed the British version of the naval battle in the Mediterranean.]

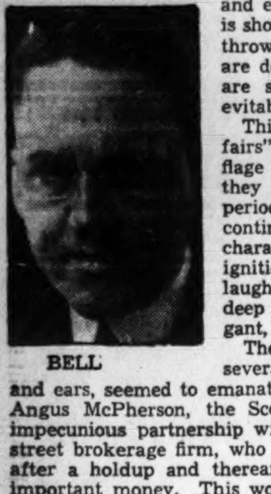
"Private Affairs" Made Public at RKO-Keith's

New Universal Comedy Is Sporadically Hilarious, Thanks Chiefly to 'Woo-Woo' Herbert and the Late Granville Bates

"PRIVATE AFFAIRS." Universal picturization of a screen play by Leonard Spiegelgass and Charles Grayson, featuring Nancy Kelly, Roland Young, Hugh Herbert and Robert Cummings, with Montagu Love, G. P. Huntley, jr., Douglas Wood, Mary Forbes and Jonathan Hale. Directed by Elbert S. Rogell. Reviewed Monday morning. At RKO-Keith's Theater.

PERHAPS THE GREATEST HANDICAP that "Private Affairs" has to overcome is that it follows "My Favorite Wife" on the screen at the RKO-Keith Theater. It purports to be another frivolously gay comedy, sparked by electric dialogue and explosive situations, but frequently is short-circuited by static intervals that throw off no fire whatsoever. Its cliches are definitely cliches and some of them are so hoary that "frost" comes inevitably to mind.



BELL

This is not to say that "Private Affairs" is stripped clean of amusing persiflage and galvanic climaxes—only that they come at too widely separated periods in the story to compound that continuous flow of humor upon which a charade of this sort must depend for ignition of all cylinders. When the laughs do come along, they spring from deep anatomical recesses and are elegant, while they last.

The comedy of the piece is piped from several sources. Most of it, to these eyes and ears, seemed to emanate from the whimsical character of Angus McPherson, the Scotch taxi driver, who went into impecunious partnership with the little board boy of a Wall street brokerage firm, who hadn't the price of his ride home after a holdup and thereafter ran his indebtedness up into important money. This would only be possible in a fictional frolic concerning a black sheep of Boston's Back Bay, his iron-willed father and a daughter whom he hasn't seen for something like 20 years. It is the daughter's tangled love life that principally motivates the fable, but there are sidelights of shady stock deals, social ostracisms and flaming youth that illuminate it into at least a half-glow of agreeable nonsense.

The dialogue is peculiarly spotty. At times, it will bore you stiff and then, of a sudden, burst out into momentary flashes of spontaneous combustion that will touch off your sense of humor in a fine blaze.

Most of this combustible quality smoulders in the role of McPherson, played with unusual repression by Hugh Herbert, who doesn't "woo-woo" quite so much as usual, but has most of the funniest lines to spill. Roland Young, as the outlawed son, who masquerades, unintentionally, as a Wall Street "big shot," doesn't sparkle in his most effulgent manner, but Nancy Kelly and Robert Cummings, as the eventual objects of his concern, do much to offset his lethargy. The piece really does not come to life until the late and greatly lamented Granville Bates takes his place on the bench as another comic judge, much like the one he played so magnificently in "My Favorite Wife." To him the closing sequences of the play owe the high-voltage comedy all of it obviously was intended to achieve. The lesser roles do not greatly matter, possibly excepting those of the elder Bullerton, played by Montagu Love, and the crooked stock manipulator, impersonated by Jonathan Hale.

The short subjects included in the new bill on Fifteenth street are thoroughly diverting. Walt Disney's pet pup, Pluto, has himself a time with an undershot bulldog in the Technicolor cartoon, "Bone Trouble," which finally finds its way into a "Hall of Mirrors" with astonishing effect. A new release of the filmed radio hit, "Information Please," shows Mr. Fadiman popping his questions at John Kieran, Franklin P. Adams, Oscar Levant and Republican Presidential nominee Wendell L. Willkie, who acquits himself on a par with Mr. Kieran, the human encyclopedia. The Pathe News is a bit longer and more repetitive than usual, presenting, as it does, two footages devoted to the same bathing beauty contest at Coney Island, N. Y. The curves of this particular "graph," however, seemed to meet with complete audience approval at yesterday's first performance, as the final fillip of a so-so bill.

In Hollywood

With Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, July 15.

If it's fun you're looking for, visit George Cukor's set when Katharine Hepburn, Cary Grant, Jimmy Stewart, John Howard and Ruth Hussey are making "Philadelphia Story." Cukor and Katie are a riot. The fun is fast and furious. Watch out for John Howard's smoke, now that he's left Paramount, where they considered him only good enough for B pictures. Mark my words, he's going to be in demand by every leading lady in Hollywood. The boy's learned to act on Paramount's time.

But just as they built up Gary Cooper, Cary Grant, Randy Scott and several others, they've released him and will be only too willing to hire him back at three times his present salary. Incidentally, Hepburn is driving the darnedest old rattle-trap Ford you've ever seen.

I'm wondering what Nancy Kelly has done that she doesn't get better parts. Before she was seen on the screen, Zanuck put her in $5,000,000 worth of pictures—three at once. She developed, through tension and lack of screen technique, some bad mannerisms which she's since overcome. She's a swell little actress, and can act rings around newcomers like Brenda Joyce.

Boris Karloff, now tank-treading his way through a chiller called "The Wizard of Death"—calls the tuxedo he wears his Little Lord Fauntleroy suit. It's the nearest thing to a civilized human he's played in ages. Boris asked me to nip in the bud any rumors that he's beating his wife Dorothy. Says the ex-monster man, "That sprained ankle she's wearing she got while skiing up in the mountains near Timberline, Oreg."

Ben Hecht didn't know what he was letting himself in for when he wrote "Before I Die" to take place all in one night in the pouring rain. Every exterior sequence drenches the actors and technicians till now Tommy Mitchell is down with a lulu of a cold, Hecht himself sniffles all day, Doug Fairbanks, jr., munches cough drops, and Cameraman Lee Garmes got a violent attack of flu and was out for a week.

Wonder if there's a slice of sadism in the author, making them suffer before that title comes true. B-r-r—sounds like "King's Row."

While everyone talked about single bills and Gallup polls, Louis B. Mayer decided to test Bob Leonard's "New Moon" as a single feature. In eight key cities where it's been shown, it's cleaning up. While a lot of people thought the musical reminiscent of all other MacDonald - Eddy "opuses," Louis showed me a letter the other day from one of the biggest exhibitors, saying, "Now this is the kind of a picture that always fills our theater. Why can't we have more? They never fail."

Richard Carlson is so good in "Too Many Girls" that RKO rewarded him with a long-term contract.

Caroline Jarvis, Bing Crosby's dancing discovery, who was the hottest thing in Havana, was too hot for Hollywood. They'd probably have said the same thing out here about Carmen Miranda.

And if you miss the Merry Macks at the Victor Hugo, you're just plain silly. They really are TERRIFIC.

Barbara Waite, Republic writer, did a story about a girl from Washington, Mo., who had won a beauty contest and been dubbed "Miss Washington." Part of her award was a college scholarship, and she was told to choose her school, so she chose Smith College. Story is to be made into a short and will be titled "'Miss Washington' Goes to Smith."

'The Skull' Provokes Glee And Terror!

Cross Roads Theater Offers a Funny And Chilling Mystery

By Richard L. Coe

From ghoulies and ghosties and long-legged beasties and things that go bump in the night no good Lord will deliver Cross Roads audiences this fortnight. Spiritedly crawling with the supernatural, the Virginia players' latest is "The Skull," a riot of bats and belfries, of wraiths and apparitions, of shades and shadows.

This unabashed howl will make you peer anxiously at those about you to be certain that they don't have a skull at the top of the neck. It's in an unused church that this chattering collection of the dead and the living congregate for any number of reasons. There's a definite interest among some of the characters in "communion with those of the other world." A couple of other people are looking for some strayed jewelry. Some have an inkling that there's been a pack of counterfeiters inhabiting the snug coffins. About the only thing not admitted in the Virginia barn theater is Trojan Horse activity.

There's also a newspaper man, a person of happy humor and elegantly brought to quaking life by Gordon Gray. Gray is a young chap, but his jittery reporter is keenly funny characterization and he takes credit for most of the Cross Roaders' many laughs. To Mr. Gray, then, for putting last night's audience in high spirits and keeping it there, a gold encrusted cow bell.

If you think you're going to learn much here about what happens in "The Skull," you know you're wrong. Its action is continuous and concerns an assorted batch of semihumans in a church whose organist was murdered, right over there, 10 years ago last Thursday. In the church, too, are coffins, green lights, suspicious noises, and the Cross Roads audience, clutching hands and screaming like idiots.

Clickity-Clack Direction

The people who wrote this play are Bernard J. McOwen and Harry E. Humphrey, two fellows whose addresses we know not of, but who certainly should send a Paramount Pictures' scout to look over their brain child as put on by Howard Wentworth's charges. Their Bob Hope might be almost as good as our Gray chap.

Of course, since from all this you may be getting the idea that "The Skull" is an ideal dramaturgical achievement, be herewith abjured to dispel that notion. It's so such thing, but the Virginians toss it around like a ball of fire and that's what counts in their league. To Howard Wentworth for his clickity-clack direction, another gold encrusted cow bell.

Frances Stuart Dewey, Ted Field, Robert Langley, William Draper, Rose Edmunds, Nancy Hutchison, Hugh O'Boyle, Rand Gardner and Fred Draper are others in the hecticly active cast, while those all-over-the-place thumpings, flashings and general havoc are given program credit in the following diplomatic language: "We are deeply grateful for services rendered by Bill Baynes, Julian Hatcher, Toni Poston and Bob Stuart." Neil Linger's setting is a sort of "Our Town"-with-a-veil creation and most acceptable it is, too.

Unless you've never been known to smile anyway, "The Skull" is a sure thing for an uninhibited evening.

2 A. M.: "Capt. Townley, skipper of the Elizabeth, and his wife came here to attend the wedding of Irene Arthur this week," one of the guests informs at the Pennsylvania. "The bride had just come over from England. Her wedding cake was made from the butter and sugar she had saved from her 4-ounce rations in London" . . . "So Shirley Temple retired at 11 years, with $3,000,000," Milton Berle laments at the Havana-Madrid. "At the rate I'm going, I'll be glad to retire with $11, at 3,000,000 years" . . . "A chain letter plea for Willkie contributions now is being sent," a recipient states at the Versailles. "Look at the one I got: 'The word liberty is on the front of every 25-cent piece. If Willkie gets enough of these as campaign contributions that word will mean something. Please send him a quarter and write this same letter to three of your most personal friends. Trusting you will do this small favor . . .'"

3 A. M.: "The Film Association, operating under a Rockefeller Foundation grant, sent cameramen to Memphis to shoot film on Negro life, in commemoration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the abolition of slavery," a lawyer reports at the Penthouse Club. "The Memphis police arrested the cameramen, suspecting them of being fifth columnists. They called the Rockefeller Foundation for help—while FBI men questioned the cameramen. The foundation board held a night session to decide whether they should acknowledge responsibility. They did—the next morning" . . . "One of the five books Willkie took with him on his vacation was Morris Ernst's "Too Big," a writer states at the Stork Club. "It describes the Curse of Bigness. Well, Burton Rascoe is preparing a list of all the big cases Ernst has handled, together with the countless committees to which he belongs."

5 A. M.: "Remember, there are four children in 'Life With Father,' the play based upon the stories by Clarence Day?" one of the cast declares in Reuben's. "Well, Mrs. Day is doing so well with royalties from the play that she's bringing over some English refugee children—four of them" . . . "Why don't you come to our Bucks County Playhouse and appear in the revival of 'June Moon'?" Moss Hart asks Oscar Levant . . . "I won't," Levant replies. "I refused to play even in the original Broadway production 10 years ago" . . . "But it's an easy role," Hart insists. "All you'd do is play the piano" . . . "No, I won't do it," Levant states. "I don't want to be typed."

Close-Ups and Long-Shots Of the Motion Picture Scene

Hollywood, July 15 (INS).—Big news! Jimmy Roosevelt has bought "Pastor Hall," a British-made motion picture, based on the life of the Rev. Martin Niemoeller, who was convicted by the Nazis and sent to a concentration camp a few years ago. So strong is the story of the pastor, who was a leader of the non-conformist confessional synod of the Lutheran Church, that it will be released as a special movie. Jimmy's mother, the First Lady of the land, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, will act as commentator, while Robert Sherwood will author a foreword.

LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Henry Henigson, of the Roosevelt company, said that the picture will be released by United Artists in a few months. Niemoeller only last September offered to command a submarine for the German navy and was refused. His treason consisted of remarks made from his pulpit, which infuriated the Nazi leaders, who felt he was unsympathetic to their cause.

Discount all those stories that the Brian Ahernes are expecting the stork. It's not true. Joan Fontaine told me that she is getting restless and would like to make a picture. I can just hear the exhibitors seconding that idea, for "Rebecca," the picture that brought stardom to the little Fontaine girl, is a box-office riot all over the country. Joan says she will make "Jane Eyre," the romantic Bronte novel which has been considered for several top stars. But with times as they are, Joan would like first to do a comedy, something light and amusing—and I think she is a smart girl. Whatever is decided on for her, she told me that she hopes David Selznick will let Alfred Hitchcock direct her, for she feels he was largely responsible for her success in "Rebecca."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Little doubt that Gaylord Hauser and Garbo are cooling. Saw him at Ciro's with Mrs. Otto Preminger, Lulu Desti, pretty Alice Hakim, sister of the Hakim boys, and Robin Thomas and Frey Brown; Orson Welles and Dolores Del Rio, attracting attention at the Venice Pier; Lois Andrews, George Jessel's pretty bride, has turned down a lucrative movie job, preferring to wait for movie fame until later. She and George deny the stork rumor; Eddie Norris, once wed to Ann Sheridan, and Evelyn Keyes nightclubbing.

Edith Head, Paramount designer, has been spending her evenings in New York in company with Frederick Drake, once rumored engaged to Mary Martin; Matty Fox, Universal executive, keeping the wires hot telephoning Patricia Morison; David Selznick has gone East to inspect his new farm in Connecticut. Irene and the children have been there for several weeks; Douglas Dawson sends Jean Parker a gardenia a day, reminiscent of the gardenia a day Franchot Tone formerly sent Joan Crawford.

Huntz Hall ("Dead End" kid), and Elsie Anderson, N. T. G. girl, talking elopement at the La Conga; the Lloyd Nolans bought a home in Brentwood with a nursery, of course; Spencer Tracy is spending these hot days on his 30-foot cruiser; George

D. C. Groups Mapping Child Refugee Aid

Wider Community Cooperation Is Sought In Planning Havens

Wider community cooperation in providing a haven for the refugee children from England will be sought here, it was announced yesterday in plans of the Washington branch of the Committee for the Care of European Children.

Meanwhile, a spokesman at the British Embassy said yesterday that a statement on the problem of transportation for the children was expected to be made in the House of Commons today.

Committees at work on plans for the receiving and placing of the children here will consult with the Health Department on obtaining medical examinations and treatment in clinics and hospitals; with the Board of Education concerning admission of the children to public schools, and with recreation agencies and churches for their help in other phases.

The subcommittee on child care, headed by Mrs. Milton King, has formed two smaller committees to handle two aspects of the problem.

With Maj. Charles Dodd, of the Salvation Army, as chairman, a committee to obtain "reception centers" for temporary housing of the children includes Mrs. Frank Linzel, woman's council of the Federation of Churches; Mrs. Mary Leute, Council of Social Agencies, and Capt. Rhoda Milliken, director of the Woman's Bureau of the Metropolitan Police Department.

Miss Mildred Terrett, director of the Children's Protective Association, chairman of the committee for the finding of foster homes, is assisted by Morris Klass, director of the Jewish Social Service Agency; Miss A. Patricia Morss, of the Child Welfare Division of the Board of Public Welfare, and Msgr. Lawrence J. Shehan, director of Catholic Charities.

Executives of the four recognized child placement agencies in the city—Children's Protective Association, Catholic Charities, Jewish Social Service Agency and the Child Welfare Division of the Board of Public Welfare—will provide a consultation service for relatives and friends who are bringing over specific children and undertaking responsibility for their full care.

First Lady to Tell Prologue in Film Son Will Exhibit

New York, July 15 (AP).—James Roosevelt announced today that he has obtained distribution rights to the English-made motion picture, "Pastor Hall," and that his mother, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt would narrate a prologue explaining why the picture was being shown in this country.

The picture, based on the life of the Rev. Martin Niemoeller, German Lutheran minister who was interned in a Nazi concentration camp, will be shown first in New York early next month, the announcement said.

Roosevelt said the picture would be released through the United Artists Corporation, with which he is associated as an independent producer.

4 Wedding Guests And Pilot Killed In Sierra Crash

Markleesville, Calif., July 15 (AP). A small plane carrying two couples from a wedding party in Reno to their homes in Los Angeles crashed into a rock bluff killing the pilot and four passengers.

The accident occurred late yesterday, but searching parties did not locate the wreckage until 12 hours later.

The dead were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bruce Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Cummings, and Clyde Hamilton Hodges, the pilot, all of Los Angeles.

Social Unit to Lay Cornerstone Today

The cornerstone for the new Jewish Social Service Agency building, 1131 Spring Road northwest, a Community Chest organization, will be laid at 12:30 p. m. today.

Construction was made possible through sale of the now-closed Jewish Foster Home and a property gift from the adjoining Hebrew Home for the Aged. Morris Cafritz and Hyman Goldman are co-chairman of the building committee.

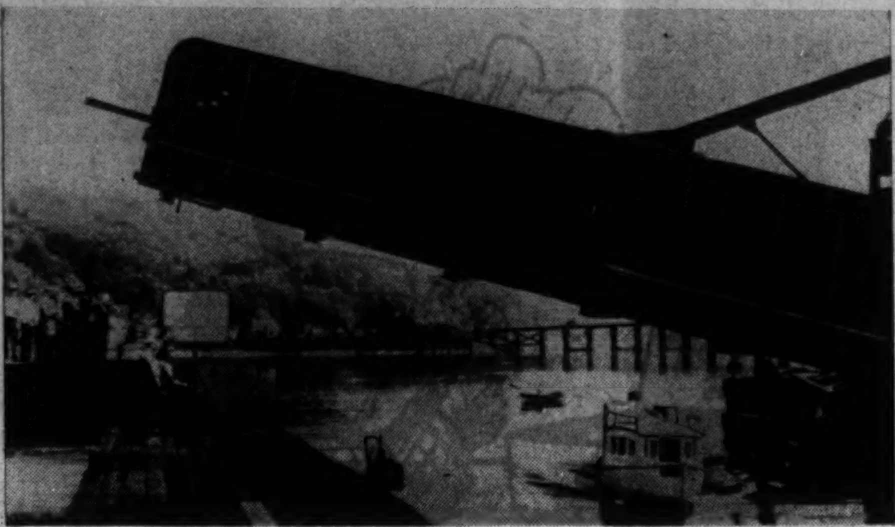
Mrs. Charles A. Goldsmith, founder of the Jewish Foster Home, will officiate at today's ceremony.

Station PDS Presents The Georgia Boys

Sammy and Smitty, two boys from Georgia, will broadcast over Station WMAL on the PDS program this morning. They play old and new songs on their instruments. These two young men have made R. C. A. Victor Recordings and have had 13 weeks engagement on C. B. S. They have appeared on numerous stations in the South.

"Station PDS Presents," broadcast by Lee Everett from the Peoples Drug Stores Studio, Eleventh and G streets northwest, is presented each week-day morning from 7:30 to 8:30 over Station WMAL by Peoples Drug Stores in cooperation with The Washington Post. Anyone over 18 years old may participate in the auditions at 7:30 p. m. Tuesdays at the N. B. C. Studios. Performers are paid $5 for their appearance on this program.

Dottie Demands Her Rights—and Up Come Rails and Draw



Associated Press WIREPHOTO

THE FORGOTTEN BOAT—Eight years ago the New York Central eliminated the draw of its drawbridge at Peekskill, N. Y., fastened down the rails and forgot that Dottie, a 22-foot cabin cruiser, was imprisoned in the inlet. Yesterday, Ray Douglas, Dottie's master, demanded his rights. A War Department ruling and 30 workmen opened the bridge to let Dottie out (above) and again to let her back. This can keep up forever, almost

Hampshire House, Recreation Center, Opens

Hampshire House, at 1105 New Hampshire avenue northwest, a place where children can play off the dangerous streets, opened its doors yesterday with slight formality and a troop of children rushed in.

Miss Bessie Baker, the house director, told a group of sponsors that she hadn't expected much difficulty in getting a membership list. The children proved it. Five-year-old Marta Sue Glass, 1139 New Hampshire avenue northwest, was first to enroll.

Then they began looking at the pictures in many magazines. Activitie planned will include games and sight-seeing trips about Washington.

The children are expected to like their neighborhood house because the area, bounded by Florida avenue, Sixteenth street, the Potomac River and Rock Creek, hadn't offered them much in the way of recreational facilities."

The house is a three-story structure and was established for all-age groups. The equipment now is limited, but there is considerable to attract the children off the streets—a piano, books, magazines and organized games.

Mrs. Warren A. Gardner, chairman of the First Ward Neighborhood Council, and Miss Baker, the director, explained the purposes of the house yesterday, and joined approximately 25 persons attending the opening in raising the flag.

The Guild of St. John's Church sponsored the center and received cooperation of various churches in the neighborhood.

5th Battalion Starts Drive Tonight To Fill Vacancies

A three-day drive for 50 recruits to complete the complement of the Fifth Battalion, Organized Marine Corps Reserve, will be launched tonight at the battalion's armory, 458 Indiana avenue northwest.

After Thursday, the battalion will be allowed to accept only applicants with previous military training, but before the "deadline" officers hope to fill most vacancies in the ranks with recruits from 18 to 35 years of age, with or without previous training.

Three Washington physicians, who are in charge of physical examinations of the new recruits, will receive bronze star service medals in ceremonies at 9 p. m. today in the armory.

The awards will go to Lieut. Comdrs. Don S. Knowlton, battalion surgeon, and Howard H. Strine, for service since 1930, and Lieut. William L. Schafer, for service since 1931. All three have 100 per cent attendance records for weekly drills and field training.

Raleigh Employes Hold Annual Picnic

Employes of the Raleigh Haberdasher, 1310 F street northwest, were at work yesterday with a few sore muscles after their annual picnic held Saturday at Baur's Beach Club, Bay Ridge, Md.

More than 400 employes and guests were guests of Clarence W. Grosner, president of the store. A motorcycle escort of police accompanied a cavalcade of four buses and more than a score of private autos to the District line.

Entertainment included a baseball game between store executives and employes, and swimming and field events.

Shipman Made Library Head At Hyde Park

At Present He Is Chief Of Division of State Department Archives

The appointment of Frederick W. Shipman, chief of the Division of State Department Archives, as director of the Franklin D. Roosevelt Library at Hyde Park was announced yesterday by Dr. R. D. W. Connor, archivist of the United States.

One of the first professional members of the National Archives staff in 1935, Shipman will have charge of the President's correspondence and private papers at the library.

Shipman, who is 37, is a native of Worcester, Mass., where he received the A. B. and M. A. degrees at Clark University. He came to Washington in 1929 to join the staff of the manuscripts division of the Library of Congress and was in charge of organizing reproductions of documents relative to American history, collected in European, Canadian and Mexican archival repositories under a grant from John D. Rockefeller, jr.

In 1930 and 1931 Shipman taught American history in the Boston University School of Business Administration and did graduate work in American history at Harvard University, after which he returned to Washington and joined the State Department. There he was principal assistant to Dr. Clarence E. Carter, editor of the territorial papers of the United States.

He became deputy examiner in the National Archives in 1935, in charge of a survey of the records of the State Department. In 1936 he was made chief of the Division of State Department Archives.

Pennsylvania Lawyer Sues Here for Fee

Isadore Stern, Shoreham Hotel, filed suit in the District Court yesterday for a $34,200 fee which he claimed was owed him by John McShain, Inc., contracting firm which has erected many large buildings here.

Stern's complaint, filed by Attorney Frank L. Warfield, said that Stern was an attorney in Pennsylvania and that he has obtained for the McShain Co. the contract to erect the Longfellow Building, Connecticut and Rhode Island avenues northwest, for $1,140,000.

Cuba's Election

The man who for seven years has been the power behind the throne in Cuba has now openly and with the full weight of constitutional sanction come forward to wield the scepter.

That is the principal meaning and significance of last Sunday's presidential election in Cuba. The leading candidates were Col. Fulgencio Batista, until recently head of the Cuban army, and Dr. Ramon Grau San Martin, president of the republic for a few brief months in the period following the overthrow of the Machado dictatorship. Batista was supported by the army and by a coalition which ranged all the way from the Communists on the extreme Left to the very conservative element headed by former President Menocal. Dr. Grau headed a coalition of moderate parties.

It is an interesting circumstance that both candidates had played a prominent role in the unseating of Machado seven years ago and do not differ markedly from one another on domestic matters and international policy. The campaign thus largely centered around the two personalities, the self-made Batista, who began his career as a stenographer in the Cuban army, and the scholarly Dr. Grau. It appears to have been vigorously fought. That the election was wholly free is not so certain.

Friends of Dr. Grau are now charging the army with "direct intervention" in the election and are said to be preparing an itemized protest for submission to the Superior Electoral Tribunal. That it was deliberately rigged in the manner not infrequently to be encountered in Latin-American plebiscites is unlikely. Although Batista received a sizable majority, the vote piled up for Dr. Grau suggests that a very large number of Cuban voters were not intimidated. The road toward real democracy in Latin America has proved a hard and difficult one. Cuba may not yet have reached that goal. But Sunday's election gives evidence that she is on the way toward it.

Middle-Aged Cities

Preliminary census figures indicate that the rate of growth of city populations has not only declined during the past decade but is less than the rate of growth for the country as a whole. Moreover, some of the largest cities have fewer residents today than in 1930, while others have remained practically stationary. New York City, to be sure, has gained nearly half a million residents during the decade. But while that is an impressive total, it marks a decided slackening in the rate of growth for the metropolis and is far below authoritative estimates of population published a few years ago.

Some of the problems which city planners and municipal authorities will have to face because of the arrested growth of the cities is graphically revealed in a series of maps and charts published by the Institute of Public Administration to show trends in New York City. Even more striking than the failure of the population growth line to maintain its sharp upward trend is the precipitate decline in New York's birth rate from a maximum of about 28 per 1,000 in 1908 to less than 14 per 1,000 at the present time.

The declining birth rate has been reflected in an extraordinarily rapid shrinkage of enrollment in the first grade of the schools. New pupils have dropped from over 110,000 at the beginning of the twenties, when the children of the high birth rate era reached school age, to less than 70,000 in 1939. That is only one of the adjustment problems resulting from population changes which arise from all sorts of causes. In case of New York and other large cities, the reduction of immigrant arrivals has played a large part both in affecting the age composition of the population and in reducing the birth rate.

The change in the age composition of New York City since the beginning of the century has certainly been profound. If the chart makers are accurate in their predictions, about 2,500,000 out of less than 7,000,000 residents of the city will be 45 years of age or over by 1960. That implies great changes in the buying habits and occupational requirements of the aging community.

The problem is, of course, one that affects not only the cities but the entire Nation. But it is more pressing for the cities which are becoming middle-aged faster than the rest of the country.

The Havana Parley

The importance which the Administration attaches to the forthcoming congress of foreign ministers of the Americas, scheduled to assemble at Havana next Saturday, is reflected in the high caliber of the delegation named by President Roosevelt to accompany Secretary Hull to Havana. The delegation includes some of the outstanding experts of the Departments of State, Commerce, Agriculture and the Treasury in matters relating to the financial, economic and political problems which are likely to be considered at the conference.

There can be no minimizing the difficulties and dangers which face the Americas as a result of recent European developments. This hemisphere has enjoyed almost complete freedom from external aggression for many decades. But the indefinite continuance of that happy state can no longer be taken for granted. On the contrary, the most pressing need of the moment for the nations of the New World is the creation of effective barriers that will prevent the tide of totalitarian conquest which has swept over Europe from spilling over into the Americas.

In this connection it is obviously a prime requisite of inter-American security that no would-be aggressor be permitted to establish a foothold anywhere on this side of the ocean. That is why the question of the fate of American colonies of European nations overrun by the German war machine is of real concern to every American republic and should receive the most careful consideration at the Havana parley.

But the most serious threat which the smaller and weaker nations of this hemisphere face at the present moment lies in the economic sphere. To no small extent the degree to which the American republics can work out a mutually satisfactory system of economic cooperation will determine the future of American security. It is that question of economic cooperation, therefore, which will dominate the discussion at the forthcoming congress.

It is fortunate that as a result of the inter-American conferences held during recent years at such places at Montevideo, Buenos Aires, Lima and Panama, the readiness and capacity of the American republics to work harmoniously together have been greatly strengthened. Yet it is hardly safe to ignore the difficulties that stand in the way of translating this readiness to cooperate into an effective program of action.

Some of these difficulties arise out of the circumstance that the United States is in no position fully to replace the European market for various categories of goods produced in Latin America. In addition, the nations to our south are and will continue to be under severe pressure from the new masters of the European continent to avoid entering into any inter-American combination in any way directed against them.

It is singularly fortunate that the American representative at the Havana meeting will be Secretary Hull. His presence at the parley will help lull suspicions aroused in Latin America by advanced publicity regarding the so-called inter-American marketing scheme, that the United States plans to ram its views and its wishes down the throat of the other American nations.

Nothing could be more dangerous to the success of the conference than to have such a belief gain ground. Because of its power and wealth the United States may be forced to assume a large part of the burden of financing any scheme of inter-American economic defense. But any such scheme will require the fullest cooperation of all the 21 republics if it is to be a success.

War And Research

Objective research of any kind is difficult to carry on in an atmosphere of war. The study of the social sciences is no exception to this rule. On the contrary, the dislocations caused by war make the task of investigators in this field exceptionally hard and often discouraging. However, the London Economist notes approvingly that the University of Liverpool is continuing a series of studies into the social life of Merseyside with a view to determining the effects of the war upon conditions in that area.

As the Economist points out, such studies are not luxuries to be given up in a national emergency. They are work that should be done in preparation for the years of reconstruction that lie ahead. Even though it is not possible—and in the case of Merseyside certainly not desirable—to return to prewar conditions, the nature and extent of postwar readjustments cannot be understood unless detailed knowledge of prewar conditions is available.

Great Britain will be fortunate if her universities succeed during this critical period in maintaining a sense of continuity with the past by constantly studying changes and considering their significance for the work of the future.

Britain And Japan

Whatever the extenuating circumstances, Great Britain's announced readiness to close the Burma road at Japan's behest constitutes an undisguised capitulation to the island empire.

The British are obviously not happy over the action they find themselves forced to take and are trying to put the best possible face on it. Thus government spokesmen in London argue that the closing of China's sole remaining supply route will not really handicap the Chinese since, during the next few months, the road will be impassable anyway because of heavy rains. Great Britain, they insist, is not abandoning her freedom of action. What is now about to be done will, they say, be undone if, in the meantime, the mediatory efforts now being undertaken by British representatives fail to achieve a satisfactory peace between Japan and China.

These explanations and qualifications of the British move in closing the Burma road are clearly designed for face-saving purposes. They do not conceal the fact that Great Britain has given way to Japanese pressure. Nor can the British be at all certain that this latest exercise in appeasement will have any more constructive results than past efforts of that kind have had in the Far East and in Europe.

The fact must be recognized that Great Britain's situation is extraordinarily difficult. Alone and unaided she faces the Third Reich whose powerful war machine may soon strike with full fury against her. It is, therefore, understandable why the British government has chosen not to resist Japanese pressure to close the Burma road. By giving way to Japan only when absolutely necessary and only to the extent necessary the British hope to avoid a fight in the Far East at a moment when they are engaged in a life-and-death struggle in Europe.

It is doubtful whether Japan, now that Britain has exposed her weakness, will long be content with piecemeal gains and minor concessions. In trying to save something from the wreckage of her interests in the Far East Great Britain may thus be opening the door to the total destruction of those interests.

Insofar as the closing of the Burma road will contribute to China's weakening and may lead to her capitulation it constitutes a blow to all powers with interests in the Far East and a triumph for Japan. Already a spokesman for the Chungking government has stated that if Britain is "betraying China" China might make peace with her invaders "freeing the latter for military action in southeastern Asia."

That threat may and may not be carried out. But the alternative can be equally unpleasant for the western powers. Cut off from all access to the overseas world China would then be forced to depend wholly and entirely on Russia for the means with which to continue that war against the island empire which, despite enormous difficulties and tremendous losses, she has waged for more than three years.

The Third Horseman

From the Chicago Daily News.

Comrade Stalin's conquest of Bessarabia looks like the most valid conquest of this year of European conquests. It was a conquest of an asset; most of Hitler's acquisitions to date are on the liability side of the dinner-table balance sheet.

But in Bessarabia Stalin grabbed something to eat, including a huge crop of soybeans that had been planted by the Rumanians on orders of Hitler with seed furnished by the Nazis. This is the most unkindest cut of all. Soybeans make oil, and right now grease is more esteemed than rubies in Germany.

This quest of the greasy grail by the knights of the Kremlin may be the principal reason why Stalin has been moving his army into the border states. Such weather and crop reports as have filtered out of Russia are reminiscent of the years before the famines of the last decade. Heavy Russian troop movements toward the frontiers east and west and away from the starvation belts took place then, eliciting a vast amount of speculation about possible Russian aggression and the spread of the Red revolution. Afterward it was discovered that the primary reason for these troop movements was to prevent revolutionary disturbances in Russia.

The Red army, like the Roman army of the third and fourth centuries, is mostly made up of peasant boys. Such an army is a dangerous thing to have around when farmers are going hungry and the old folk at home complain of being robbed by the city slickers. The senatorial families at Rome were terribly afraid of their army, and had good reasons for their fright as every now and then the farm-bred legions would raise the cry of "farm relief," elect a rebel emperor, and march back to town to plunder the money-changers.

Fear of famine in the rear rather than Czaristic ambitions of territorial aggrandizement toward the west may well be the explanation of present Russian military movements. That would also explain Hitler's reluctance to move east at this time. He has enough feeding problems on his hands already.

Wants a Greeley

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I want to commend the timely appearance of the piece by Mark Sullivan July 9 on the "Spread of Totalitarianism." A capable bit of writing, to be sure, in which Mr. Sullivan traced the growth of democratic ideas over the world, only to contrast that growth with the spread of totalitarianism. But he could have gone further and been a trifle more specific.

Paradoxically, the news of the day gave Mr. Sullivan's article added import. In the same sheet that carried it, the news announced a Fascist regime was to be proposed for the world's once most colorful republic—France. Also on the same day Ralph Ingersoll wrote in PM that the "expansive force of Fascism" was doing a pretty good job in America.

But why? That's the question I want to ask Mr. Sullivan. Thoughts along this line cause curious reflection.

Why should our people seem predisposed to Fascism? Why do they seem ready to bow before power, force and a form of government that would revert to the prostitution of human rights similar to feudalism? Why is the bloody hand and murderous heart of imperialism finding sanction in America?

Mr. Sullivan could answer these questions. The answer should have logically been the positive conclusion to his article on totalitarianism.

Crusading went out of journalism with the passing of Horace Greeley, Mark Hanna and the pioneering spirits of their ilk who laid the foundation for what has become known as the spirit of America. In that spirit, Mr. Sullivan, the American people want the facts.

Undebatable Doctrine

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In the issue of The Post of July 9 there appeared a communication titled "Value of Debate," in which the writer seems puzzled at the firm stand taken by Secretary of State Cordell Hull on the Monroe Doctrine as being nondebatable.

Naturally, the question arises which element in this country and in our present state of unsettled affairs and within our own land, proposes and wants to "debate" and question the soundness and common sense embodied in the provisions of the Monroe Doctrine.

The writer advances the proposition that there is no question which is not debatable, in his opinion.

Quoting from the text of the Monroe Doctrine: "We owe it to candor and to the (then) amicable relations existing between the United States and the Allied powers to declare that we should consider any attempt on their part to extend their system to any portion of this hemisphere as dangerous to our peace and safety."

Again quoting, from Mark Sullivan's column of July 9: "On the entire western shore line of Europe, from the Arctic Circle to the Mediterranean, totalitarian government is poised for future conquest, future conquest westward. Within a few days it is expected to leap upon England and if successful, it will try to leap the Atlantic to South America and ultimately to us."

When this shall have taken place we must resort to defense and not to debate of the Monroe Doctrine.

Are we to sit supinely by and permit this and in the meantime debate the soundness of the Monroe Doctrine and see propaganda, infiltration, and finally the military force of naziism invade the Western Hemisphere? The Monroe Doctrine is not debatable when confronted and threatened by the insidious and dangerous propagation of the principles and overt acts of totalitarianism and naziism in the Western Hemisphere.

CCC Appointment

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As an "ex" CCC enrollee, who worked up to a supervisory job with the Forest Service, and then by more hard work got a commission, and was for a year and a half an officer in the camps, I would like to ask a few questions through your paper.

When Mr. Fechner died, the acting assistant or executive director, Mr. McEntee was made director. The position Mr. McEntee had held was not filled until about a week ago. When a man was picked for the job in question it would seem natural that he would be picked from the department or the corps or from somewhere within the setup. But this was not the case; the job was given to a man who knows nothing about the CCC except what he has learned in the last week.

From four years' experience in the CCC I believe that I can say that the greatest fault with the corps now is that those in head offices do not known enough about the actual operation of the camps. They ride around in official cars, and ask a lot of questions, and seldom get the actual truth, and when appropriations are asked for they usually ask for dollars, where half-dollars would do the job just as well.

I believe that when the job mentioned above was filled that a man should have been taken from one of the camps, and unless he would be swamped by the others, he could have done a good job in Washington, and probably saved the taxpayers a lot of money and made the CCC more efficient.

This writer does not mean to take a "crack" at the man who got the job, and although I have never met him, he is probably a very fine gentleman, ~~but~~ why was not a man picked for the job who did know something about it when they are so plentiful? Also no "sour grapes" are in the mouth of the writer, because when I left the CCC, I left of my own free will, to take a nongovernment job here in Washington.

Defense Of England

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Britain is the last hope for all the liberty loving people of Europe, including France. Had Britain not partly destroyed and partly captured the French fleet she could not have hoped to stand against the Axis powers. Hitler promised not to use the fleet, but the breaking of his promise at Munich was the "writing on the wall" which all men and nations should have heeded. That was the time when the democracies, great and small, and Christian men, the world over, should have banded to oust the greatest liar and barbarian of all times.

Let us look facts in the face—unpleasant though they be. Britain did not wish to fight—hence the appeasement. She knows, as we know, that nothing is to be gained by war; but she also knows that a great deal may be lost by a peace such as France made.

Britain is holding the fort, beleaguered and alone until we are ready to defend ourselves. Her fine young manhood is trying by every means in its power to hold back the mechanized, revolutionary forces of totalitarianism. The hope of all free men is in the hands of these brave boys overseas—the boys of the navy and the R. A. F. They are giving their lives to save others—let us not belittle the land that gave them birth.

The Road To War

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Are we on the road to war? asks a letter writer. We are! When France and Britain let Germany occupy the Rhineland, Austria and Czecho-Slovakia they were on the road to war—and to defeat by Germany and Italy. When the United States helps Hitler conquer Europe and Japan conquer Asia, the United States is on the road to war—and probably to defeat by Germany and Japan and Italy. When the manpower and resources of Europe and Asia are organized against us, we cannot win, and probably cannot force a stalemate.

Our neutrality legislation gave the go sign to Hitler. We prohibited shipment of arms to the Allies; by keeping American ships from English waters, we still help Hitler starve out the British. Yes, I know we are belatedly preparing to sell the British some arms, and we finally got around to an embargo on airplanes and machine tools for Japan; but in sober fact the main effect of our policy in Europe has been, and in Asia still is, to give economic support to our enemies.

The letter-writer suggests that Hitler cannot police Europe and have men enough to attack us. The day of revolt against a conqueror is past. With 100 planes, 200 tanks, 10,000 soldiers and 10,000 secret police (and 100 executions a week) Hitler can keep a Fascist government in control in France. French youth will be slaves in German fields and factories; and Hitler can use his 8,000,000 men against us.

"For ten years," says that same writer, "all America has agreed that no good came out of our intervention in the last war." Three comments:

1. If true, it does not prove that our best policy now is to wait and fight alone rather than to join the fight of the British Empire.

2. It is false. Much good came of it. It postponed German domination of Europe for 20 years and gave a chance for establishing world order—a chance ruined by American isolationists just as they are now opposing the world's best chance—probably only chance—of resisting Nazi domination.

3. Not all Americans have swallowed the German propaganda against the Treaty of Versailles, against the British, against any action to safeguard American interests abroad. The propaganda has had great success, as did that in Europe to keep the smaller powers "neutral." It has lined up the wishful thinkers, the appeasers, the shortsighted; it is reserving them for slaughter when Hitler decides to strike. But a few Americans know history and see the necessity of fighting while there remains an Ally and a European base from which to carry on the fight.

Pedestrian Aid

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: We are visitors here, and due to the great width of the streets, are usually in doubt as to whether it is safe to cross on foot in front of a line of arrested traffic.

To correct this, I would like to suggest the following, although I am not sure that the idea is new.

Have the red and green lights as at present. In addition, have a vertical line of about six lights between the two—about the size of walnuts, perhaps. Have these small lights light in succession leading from green to red, the last one going out just before the red is reached.

This arrangement would do away with the light now flashing between green and red and would inform those on foot how much time they have to cross before the red will appear.

Hants Ain't Ghosts

Invaded by schoolmarms, billboards, hard-surface roads, radios, power lines, CCC camps, mail-order catalogues and hikers in shorts, the hills retain, with few concessions to machine civilization, old beliefs and fears deep-rooted in the people, close-clinging as lichens on a rock. However, genealogically speaking, Virginia mountaineers are inclined to deny or forget Old World origins. This phenomenon of Anglo-Saxon individualism surpasses the most crackpot European theories by declaring that all inhabitants outside a ten-mile radius of Hoot Owl Hollow are foreigners and outlanders. Such attitudes, along with a belief in the evil powers of salamanders and hoop snakes, are probably indigenous to regions where escape from humdrum existence depends upon the fertile imaginations of story-tellers and singers.

Many a mountain Lochinvar who is unafraid of man or beast will shout his songs along a lonely road at night—not from happiness, but because he is disturbed by the dark, and by the ways of the dark he does not understand.

The ignius fatuus, or will-o'-the-wisp, has been accepted by Virginians of the hills as a rather harmless sprite since the first English, German and Scotch-Irish settlers cut their home sites from the wilderness, but other States and countries are more critical. Kentuckians claim that if a jack-o'-lantern gets on your back, it will ride you until morning. The only way to avoid this fate is to turn your coat wrong side out. Some bluegrass dwellers claim it is bad luck to follow a jack-o'-lantern, a belief shared by the sceptic's song in "Faust." In South Carolina a new knife that has never cut wood is considered an effective charm again such evils.

Arkansas, although patent medicine vendors and conjurers are prosperous within its borders, has a more practical explanation in the story about Big Sixteen and the Devil. Called Sixteen for the size shoe he wore, he was such a strong colored man that his boss said he believed he could catch the Devil. Sixteen said "Yassuh, I kin wid a nine-pound hammer." So he dug a hole for a month and then knocked Mr. Devil in the head and brought him up to earth, but his boss was so scared Big Sixteen had to throw the Devil back and fill the hole up. When Sixteen died he went to heaven, but St. Peter told him to go away because he was too big and might get the place all upset. He went to hell, the Devil's children saw him coming and cried, "Mama, mama, dat man dat killed pappy is out here." Mrs. Devil reached in the fire and handed Big Sixteen a red-hot coal and said, "You get out of here. Take dis piece of fire and find a place to start a hell of your own." The jack-o'-lanter is Bix Sixteen looking for a place to start his own hell, Negroes throughout the Deep South tell variations of the same story.

In Donizetti Muller's poem, "The Origin of the Will-o'-the-Wisp," Cupid is accosted by Beauty, who doubts his "boasted heavenly birth" and challenges him to harm her with his darts. Cupid bathes in a woodland pool—Beauty steals his bow and arrows and flees into the forest. Awaking, Cupid becomes angry at the prank, gathers his clan and captures Beauty, who begs forgiveness, but Cupid replies that she must "roam the earth a fickle light through all eternity." Beauty asks him to relent and Cupid compromises by giving her certain impossible tasks, "O'er lonely marshes doomed to glide" until the work is completed.

A sort of St. Elmo's light or will-o'-the-wisp seen among the Hebrides is called teine sith, or fairy light, but no explanation has been given for its name. The same light in Eire becomes a jack-o'-lantern and is believed to be the spirit of a man banished from both heaven and hell because he had offended both God and the Devil.

Welsh tradition says that St. David prayed before his death that some special sign of divine assistance might be granted his people. His prayer was heard and a promise given that no one should die in the archbishop's diocese without receiving a previous intimation of his end. The warning was to be a light proceeding from the person's dwelling to the future burial place. This light is the canwyll corph, or corpse candle. We are warned in Howell's "Cambrian Superstitions" that "When anyone observes their approach, if they do not move aside they will be struck down by their force, as I was informed by a person living, whose father, coming in contact with one, was thrown off his horse."

In Scott's ballad of "Glenfinlas" a coronach, or lamentation for a Highland warrior slain by sorcery, "the corpse-lights dance," and when they disappear, "No more is given to gifted eye." Corpse lights may not be the same as will-o'-the-wisps, but they are obviously closely related, both as to appearance and feats of strength. In Eire, depending upon the region, such lights are generally connected with omens of ill-fortune or death. Recently, in the Page Valley of Virginia, a farmer asserted that a jack-o'-lantern had driven his cousin through brambles and torn most of the clothes from his body. When a neighbor dismissed it as an "old wives' tale" the farmer replied, "I believe it. My cousin is an honest man."

Once, as I helped a Negro mountain farmer saw up blighted chestnut timber for fuel, I asked him if he had ever seen a hant. "Hant is a plat-eye," he said. "A plat-eye some of these old-timey folks what been dead a long time. Ghost a evil spirit. Some folks see 'um better than others. Got to be borned with a caul over your face to see 'um all the time. Some say hants is white cat wid a red eye and some say they is a dog. I ain't seed none and I ain't gwine round looking for 'um. Jack-o'-lanterns I seed, but I ain't let them whar I is—I keeps moving."

Today And Tomorrow

Where Is America To Be Defended?

MANY SPEECHES AND newspaper articles, not to speak of party platforms, are appearing in which the underlying notion is that the United States can defend itself by drawing a line on the map of the world and preparing to fight if this line is crossed. No sound policy can ever, I submit, be derived from this notion; in the realm of foreign affairs and national defense this manner of thinking is a dangerously misleading illusion.

It is the ancient illusion of the Chinese Wall, behind which the Chinese people became vulnerable to all manner of aggression from essentially weaker peoples. It is the illusion of the Maginot Line behind which French military power disintegrated.

THIS SAME illusion is rampant in the United States. We have asked ourselves whether our frontier was on the Rhine. Whether it is in the English Channel and at Gibraltar. Whether it is 300 miles at sea on the line drawn at the Panama Conference last autumn. Whether Greenland is or is not in the "Western Hemisphere." Whether if Greenland is in the Western Hemisphere, Iceland, though it is east of Greenland, is also in the Western Hemisphere. Whether if 30 degrees west longitude is the boundary of the Western Hemisphere, those islands in the Azores which are west of this line are in "Europe" or in "America." Whether if the International Date Line, 180 degrees west longitude, is the other boundary of the hemisphere, Russia, which protrudes toward Alaska across this line, is in our hemisphere.

There are some who tell us that in effect our frontiers, where we must be prepared to fight aggressors, are on the beaches from Labrador and Alaska to Patagonia. They wish to repel invasion of those beaches. Others think this is too large an order. They wish to defend only the beaches from Canada to Venezuela, Colombia, and northern Brazil. There are others who wish to repel attack only when there is an invasion of American territory represented in the electoral college. The argument is confusing because the premise is a fallacy. The fallacy consists in forgetting that a nation does not defend geographical positions. It defends itself against its enemies—against its potential enemies by diplomacy and military preparedness and against its actual enemies by striking them down.

TO ANNOUNCE solemnly where you will defend yourself is a military absurdity, and there is not a military leader of any competence in the world who does not think so. If the theory of the national defense is that the government must fix a line which it will not cross or permit others to cross, then, confronting a powerful and determined foe, such a government is already self-defeated. It has given him the initiative. It has given him the chance to strike when it suits him, to strike where it suits him, and to strike as often as it suits him. It has denied itself the right to strike him down before he strikes. It has placed itself in the impossible position of defending itself on a hundred potential battlefields to be chosen by the enemy rather than of bringing him to battle on a battlefield chosen by it.

Under such conditions as these, a strong man can be beaten by a much weaker one; under such rules as these, if I were sure Joe Louis would abide by them, I should be willing to enter the ring and fight Joe Louis. For consider the rules of the match which Joe Louis would be offering me: He would agree to stand back up into a corner of the ring, his back to the ropes, a chalk line on the floor which neither his feet nor his fists may cross. That is Joe Louis' hemisphere. The rest of the ring is my hemisphere. In my hemisphere I shall have a comfortable bed, plenty of books to read, a radio and a phonograph, and an electric switch by which I can turn on or off all the lights. I may also hire two or three other heavyweights to help me, none so good as Joe Louis. But together we would be a strong squad.

We shall then wait for hours, playing soft music to soothe him, letting him become tired standing on his feet, bored and inattentive, waiting while nothing happens. Then when he nods and drops his guard, we shall kick him in the stomach, in the shins and in the jaw. This does not knock him out. For Joe Louis is a tough fellow. But since he cannot cross the chalk line to come after us, we retire to our hemisphere until we are rested and he is more tired. Then in the dark we kick him again. After a while Joe Louis will be asking me for terms of peace if he continues to feel that out of respect for Senator Wheeler he can defend himself only by a purely defensive strategy.

IT IS THE greatest of all military fallacies to be hypnotized by a geographical position and to be diverted from attending to the armed force of the enemy. For the United States the defense of the hemisphere, "the quarter-sphere," or the 48 States, all depend upon the same thing: The control of the Atlantic Ocean. If we and nations we trust control the Atlantic Ocean, we can defend everything from Iceland to Patagonia. If we lose control of the Atlantic Ocean, we can no more defend Canada and the northern shore of Brazil than we can defend Uruguay and the southern part of Brazil. The question is not what we shall defend or where we shall defend it but whether the Atlantic Ocean is ruled by fleets which protect the Americas or by fleets which have designs against the Americas.

If the only fleets are fleets of the British and of our own there is no line that needs to be defended because there is no enemy that can get at us. If, on the other hand, there is a powerful and unfriendly fleet in this ocean, then the line of our defense will be wherever that fleet attempts to go.

THEREFORE, IF we defined our policy lucidly, we should declare that, as against Europe, our policy is too keep the Atlantic Ocean under the control of ourselves and of our friends, and that even if this control were impaired or lost, we should be bound to struggle to regain it. For if we cannot control the ocean, this hemisphere can be invaded as easily now as it was invaded by European armies in 1776, in 1812 and in 1861. The ocean, our isolationists to the contrary notwithstanding, has never been a barrier to the invasion of this hemisphere, or even of the territory of the United States. Yet they just cannot seem to remember, even when they are reminded of the facts, that crossing the ocean and invading this hemisphere was the regular practice from 1492 until as recently as the invasion of Mexico by troops of Napoleon III in 1861.

There ought to be some way of persuading these gentlemen to study American history in order to correct the mischief caused by the ordinary American history teaching and American history textbooks. These are simply lamentable; they disregard crucial facts and suppress essential facts. For if it were not for this historical miseducation to which Americans have been subjected, it would be evident to all that the defense of the United States rests and has always rested squarely upon the control of the Atlantic Ocean.

Fair Enough

Chicago, July 15.

IF THE DEMOCRATIC national convention of 1940 had been held a few months ago it would have been unfair to say that it was being conducted under the auspices of the most corrupt local politico-criminal machine in the United States. It would have been unfair to such zealous and accomplished crooks as Dick Leche, then the Governor of Louisiana; Prof. Jingle-Money Smith, the two fisted, all-around or decathlon thief who was president of the late Huey Long's State university, and to the jovial and incorrigible Seymour Weiss, the political agent and confidante of James A. Farley.

The Louisiana mob had set a high standard of larceny and, as long as they lasted, they had a legitimate claim to the national championship. It is possible that in a photo finish they would have run second, but it would not have been fair to count them out arbitrarily, for they were awfully crooked.

But, of course, when a mob of thieves is broken up and its best crooks are sent to prison it automatically loses its standing in the league. That has happened to the New Orleans crooks, and so at the present time there is none to dispute the city government of Chicago, which is the local union, so to speak, of the National Democratic Party. This organization is beyond challenge today and, with the ripening of time and historic judgment, may prove to have been the most disgraceful offense against decency and the prestige of popular government in the entire life of the United States.

IN MOST CROOKED political organizations there are some departments in which the corruption is negligible or timid. But in Chicago there is no such flaw. Most of the local courts are beneath a pickpocket's contempt, the school system has been looted, gorillas of the old hootch and prostitution rackets now run labor unions under charters from William Green's A. F. of L., and the underworld is the dominant element of society, with acknowledged rights of representation in the city government.

Details of this corruption have been published repeatedly, and it need not be assumed that they have been neglected in the local press. They have been given full, persistent publicity, and the people of Chicago cannot be regarded as innocent dupes who do not know the score. In fact, they keep the score, but, like the rooters for the home team, take pride in the rising total of civic depravity, including such home runs as the appointment to public office a short time ago of Mr. Frank Zintak, a leading statesman who was tried twice a few years ago on a charge of embezzling $10,500 as clerk of the Superior Court.

The jury in the first trial disagreed and one juror subsequently got a year in jail for accepting a bribe to vote for acquittal. The second jury acquitted Mr. Zintak, and subsequent revelations of helling around by night in custody of court bailiffs while the case was on trial led to the conviction of most of these civic peers of Mr. Zintak on charges of contempt.

IN HIS DEFENSE in that trial Mr. Zintak, in reply to the simple question, "Whose check was that?" testified as follows:

"That's what I say if you would only let this go until tomorrow there would be nothing to it because here is the idea, even if it is on record, you are stirring up something that probably will be worse in the political line than anything, because I represent the largest group of people in Chicago.

"They have all the faith in the world in me for things I done squarely because there was not anything we done in politics that we did not do it in accord with what those people wished. Some people may think there should not be anything like groups, but there will be Polish groups and maybe others as long as we exist for the simple reason that fraternal organizations they encourage youth to belong to them and the only way they can do that is by keeping that spirit up because they are insurance groups and they would diminish if they did not."

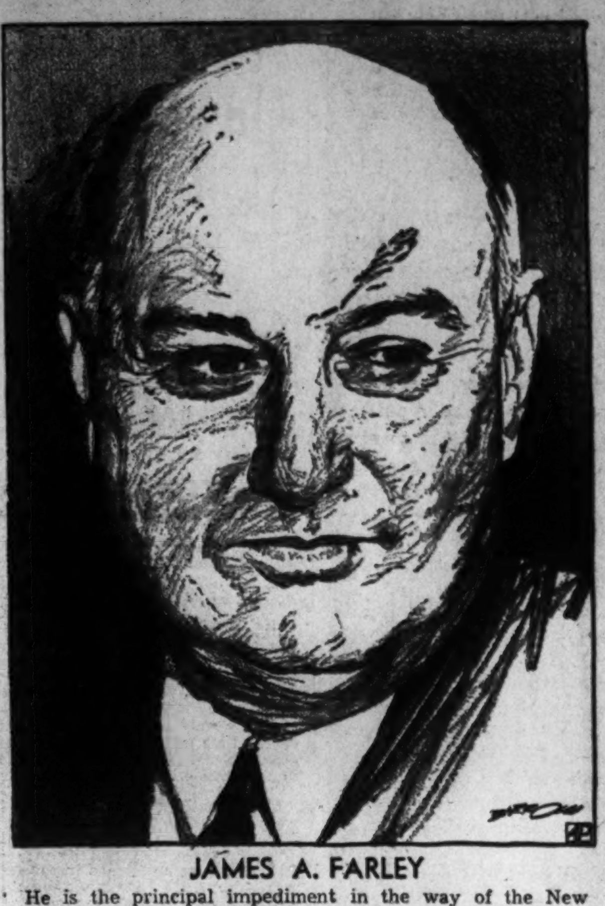
NEEDING the Polish vote which Mr. Zintak delivers, the mob recently appointed this exemplary Chicago spirit superintendent of construction and betterments at $4,800 a year, plus $47 a month for automobile maintenance.

As Mr. Ed Kelly, the mayor, needs Mr. Zintak's Polish vote; as William Green, in the A. F. of L., needs the votes of criminal labor officials, so does the National Democratic Party need the support of the Chicago gang, and thus this week the convention meets, unashamed, as the guest of the most loathesome and defiant alliance of crime and politics in the United States at present and possibly in the Nation's history.

French Dismiss Normandie Crew

New York, July 15 (AP).—The French Line—operators of the giant liner Normandie—was reported today to have given dismissal notices to its 50 remaining New York employes.

The notice, waterfront sources said, told pier and office workers the New York branch of the line would "be no more" after July 20. The Normandie—$60,000,000 83,432-ton former queen of the seas—was the only French Line vessel known to be in a United States port.



JAMES A. FARLEY

He is the principal impediment in the way of the New Dealers who want President Roosevelt renominated by acclamation, says Mark Sullivan in his dispatch from Chicago

Mr. Farley Dissents

By Mark Sullivan

Chicago On The Eve

Chicago, July 15.

AS THIS is written, Speaker Bankhead is about to make what is called the "keynote speech" of the convention. But the true keynote of this gathering is in the hearts of the delegates—and a most unusual keynote it is, indeed a completely unprecedented keynote.

It is a strange combination of earnestness accompanied by questioning puzzlement; intention to do something, accompanied by dawning apprehension about the consequence of doing it. The delegates came here in the holiday spirit in which most delegates go to all conventions. But, when they arrived, they found an atmosphere which lowered their mood. The result expresses itself in inertia; delegates moving about the hotels with dragging feet; lack of that buoyance of spirit which characterizes most conventions; lack of cheering, for anybody; lack of music, bands.

THE WHOLE of this extraordinary atmosphere might be expressed by one of the oldest quips in American folklore. It might be said that the delegates comprising this convention are like the Maine lumberman who said: "Goin' down to Bangor to git drunk—and gosh how I dread it." Like that lumberman, the delegates feel they are going to do something exciting—but are troubled about how they may feel after it is over.

The specific, overt cause of this spirit in the convention is a thing simple and concrete enough for the delegates to see and be infected by. They see their party President, Mr. Roosevelt, apparently wanting, or willing to take, a third term. At the same time they see Mr. Roosevelt's long-time loyal friend and political manager, Mr. Farley, obviously dissenting, and dissenting for reasons of judgment and conscience. They see the third term advocated mainly by New Dealers, whom the delegates do not understand or greatly trust; and they see the third term disapproved by Mr. Farley—whom the delegates perfectly know, and sincerely like, and completely trust.

That is a picture easy for every delegate to grasp, and to be troubled by. In addition, some of the delegates have come to sense vaguely the relation between this Chicago convention and the world as a whole—the relation which a third term for an American President may have to the political upheaval which is sweeping the world. With the world outside America a shamble of falling governments, shattered traditions, old political forms uprooted—in that situation, the instinct of an average American, of the type of these delegates, would be to sit tight, to hold fast to our own. Yet at this very moment, they are asked to destroy one of the oldest and most cherished of American political usages. Little wonder if there is here a note of troubled apprehension.

BECAUSE MR. FARLEY is the visible symbol of disapproval of a third term, and because Mr. Farley is so liked and respected, the almost desperate effort of the New Dealers is to bring Mr. Farley into line.

The New Dealers, including those who are Mr. Roosevelt's intimates, fully expect Mr. Roosevelt to take the nomination. They feel that his conduct over many months is an assurance that he will take it. At the same time he seems, by his manner, to say to them that he must have the nomination on a platter. It must come to him in such a way as to leave him with a record of not having sought it. It must come by acclamation, or near-acclamation. It must come under circumstances which hold out the greatest possible certainty of election in November.

In order that the nomination might come that way, it was necessary for Mr. Roosevelt to refrain from saying, in so many words, that he would take it. It is probably correct to say that Mr. Roosevelt has given no one any binding assurance that he would accept. In the minds of the New Dealers is still a haunting fear that Mr. Roosevelt might refuse.

Hence the New Dealers are almost frantic to create the conditions which would put the nomination in the best possible light. Their principal impediment is Mr. Farley. So long as Mr. Farley resists acclamation, acclamation is impossible. And if Mr. Farley refuses to continue as party manager, in the event of a third term nomination, his refusal would be a sanction for Democrats to refuse to vote for a third term in November.

SO UPON Mr. Farley, the coterie of New Deal Presidential intimates focus all their arts of private persuasion and public pressure. But Mr. Farley is firm.

In at least one detail of his firmness Mr. Farley is supported by many Democratic leaders—Democratic as distinguished from New Deal. When Mr. Farley stands in the way of acclamation, he does so in part because acclamation would probably necessitate a change in the historic procedure of Democratic conventions. Historically there must be a roll call by States, with each State given opportunity to propose a candidate for the Presidential nomination.

To waive roll call by States would be a further demeanment of the States, another step toward that reduction which the New Deal has already made in the identity and dignity of the States as governmental units. When old school Democrats realize this, they demur. They may wish Mr. Roosevelt to be nominated, because a situation has been created in which anything else is difficult. But they realize that any attempt at a third term is portentous violation of American tradition. Having become committed, reluctantly to this major violation, they balk at the minor one of waiving the roll call of States in a Democratic National Convention.

These Democrats are learning the most somber lesson of our time—that a first step away from the settled forms of government and society leads to a second step and the second to a third; that the process becomes automatic, cumulative and finally fatal.

Fight to Save Gold Begins

U. S. Hoard at Stake

The United States and Great Britain began yesterday to map plans for a financial counterattack on Nazi Germany in an unprecedented battle to maintain gold as an international currency.

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau told reporters that he conferred during the day with Sir Frederick Phillips, British undersecretary of the treasury, and it was learned that the subject of their talk was the precarious position of gold.

That Sir Frederick planned to visit here was announced only last Thursday. Secretary Morgenthau planned to see him again today, and perhaps several more times this week.

SITTING IN on yesterday's discussion were Daniel W. Bell, Undersecretary; Merle H. Cochran, assistant in charge of the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund; Harry D. White, director of monetary research and a noted authority on gold; Walter Stewart and Jacob Viner, economists retained as special advisers to Morgenthau.

Morgenthau met with silence repeated attempts of reporters to discover the topic of the talks with the British official. It was learned, however, that the two treasuries are greatly disturbed over the uncertain future of gold and that this was the leading subject of discussion.

The United States, holder of more than 65 per cent of the world's gold, amounting to almost $20,000,000,000 worth, is distressed at German threats to make the world of tomorrow a goldless world.

Most of the yellow metal held by the American Government represents an investment of $35 an ounce. Large amounts are held in American banks under earmark, where they serve as a basis for credits, contributing to the easy money condition that has prevailed in this country for the past few years.

GREAT BRITAIN is worried by the fact that its dominions, South Africa, where British investors have invested millions of pounds sterling, lives on production of gold, which eventually is sold in large part to the United States.

South Africa leads the world in production of gold. The industry exists mainly by reason of the fact that nations have for centuries set gold as a standard against which to measure their currencies.

Cause of worry about gold in the United States and Great Britain is fear that a satisfactory medium for international payments might pass from common use. The continued recognition of gold, in the official view, leaves a road open for the world to return to what some economists like to call "normal" world trade.

Thus Great Britain and the United States have viewed with anxiety the tendency of most nations, including themselves, to do without gold in everyday exchange.

THEIR ALARM increased this year when German spokesmen began threatening to rid international economic life of gold as a standard of value. This would probably render almost valueless the huge piles of gold held in storage here and in the ground in South Africa and other gold-producing areas.

Thus it is believed that the conversations between the American and British treasuries have as their object the finding of some means to combat Nazi "work standard" theories which threaten the accepted gold standard economics of the democracies.

Door Is Window Of Home's Soul

Your front door gives the visitor his first impression of your home. Unattractive hardware, chipped paint, or drabness indicates an unattractive house.

Distinctiveness is easily obtained. Bright red, blue, green, or orange doors are gaining favor. Consider the type and style of your house and then decide on the type of door you want.

Stops Leaks

When brick walls leak they can sometimes be cured by what is known as pointing the joints. The mortar joints are often the vulnerable points in the wall, and if they can be made tight the leaks should stop.

Roof Ventilation Necessary

Flat roofs should have a ventilated air space between the roof rafters and the top ceiling joists to prevent condensation in this space and to allow the heated air to escape in summer. Insulation of attics without ventilation is of little use.

Fan, Kitchen Need

A ventilating fan installed in the exterior wall or a window of the kitchen, will assist in removing undesirable odors and hot humid air when the temperature is uncomfortable.

Cake Rejuvenation

A cake, several days old, will regain its youth if you give it a filling and new frosting. Put a creamy, caramel, nut or fruit filling in white, yellow or spice cake and frost with white icing. If the old frosting on cake becomes hard, remove it and freshen up the cake with a new icing.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Windsors Get The News

Duke (opening message)—It's a message from Buckingham, dear.

Duchess—Not really! I didn't know they'd remember your name there.

Duke—Look! It's an appointment. I wonder where I'm being sent.

Duchess—If you're wondering, just imagine what I'm doing! Read it.

Duke—Let's open it later.

Duchess—No, let's get it over with, good news or bad.

Duke (reading it)—It's an appointment to . . . er . . . ahem . . .

Duchess—Speak out, please. To where?

Duke—To the Bahamas.

Duchess—That's not an appointment; it's a disappointment. The Bahamas, of all places!

Duke—Now, honey, don't be like that. The Bahamas are lovely. Do you know where they are?

Duchess—Everybody who's ever read any travel literature knows where they are. Does your brother think we are a couple of tourists?

Duke—Well, we are, aren't we?

Duchess—This makes it official!

Duke—Don't be so pessimistic, honey. Do you realize all the things the Bahamas have?

Duchess — Everything but a branch of Mainbocher's.

Duke—Hats and clothes will be of no importance there.

Duchess—That's what I'm mostly afraid of.

Duke—They are isles of loveliness, retreats from all the turmoil and clatter of the modern world. Few taxicabs, no traffic jams, no skyscrapers, no night club life . . .

Duchess—What will you do with your evenings?

Duke—It will be like going back to a sweeter, simpler, more peaceful life. Don't you like to go back?

Duchess—Not that far back.

Duke—Come now, darling . . . Paris is impossible, the Riviera is out of it . . . what does that leave us?

Duchess—It leaves us the Bahamas!

Duke—Well, at any rate, I shall accept. You'll get to love it. We shall be King and Queen, after all . . . King and Queen of our own domain . . . absolute rulers of our own little kingdom in the blue Atlantic.

Duchess (brightening)—That's a thought. King and Queen?

Duke—Won't you adore it?

Duchess—There's only one thing that would make it perfect. That's to have Stanley Baldwin drop in for a visit.

Duke—Ah, my dear, cheer up. After all, this ends our exile.

Petain! What magic in the name
To men once brave and swarthy!
Who ever dreamed they'd ever see
It changed to Charles McCarthy?

Maybe President Roosevelt's attitude has been that he did not choose to choose.

It is this column's belief that the Duke of Windsor should be delighted with his new job as "King" of the Bahamas. The climate is swell, the fishing is good, the bathing is perfect, the scenery is wonderful—and $12,000 a year is not bad, considering the planter's punches that can always be had down there.

A WOMAN'S

WASHINGTON

Dorothy Dunn, Who Picks Boys for CCC Camps, Also Acts as 'Auntie' and Job Finder for Them

SOME 850 Washington boys are now enrolled in CCC camps; many more will join up this month. All owe their place at camp indirectly to Dorothy Dunn, supervisor of CCC selection for the Public Assistance Division. She passes on their eligibility for camp. If she finds a physical handicap that would prevent a boy from joining, she does what she can to remedy it; she has arranged for appendectomies, new glasses, even new sets of teeth.

Dorothy Dunn

Selection is only a part of her job. She serves as liaison officer between the boy and his home after he leaves for camp. She writes to him and checks up on his family's needs. When a mother became seriously ill recently, she arranged to have the son transferred from a Cumberland camp to one near Washington. Boys who have completed the two-year period at camp report to her for help in finding jobs.

Mrs. Dunn is a lawyer and former school teacher. She has had experience in the Woman's Bureau and at Juvenile Court. Many of the youngsters she helped out of scrapes in her court days now come to her to apply for the CCC.

SHOPPING AROUND—A housewife bent on securing a premium offered by a flour company asked her grocery clerk—a young colored boy—for 2 pounds of the flour and a sales check to mail with her coupon. She told him she would have bought more than the minimum required for the premium except that she had nearly 5 pounds in her pantry already. He handed her the 2-pound package, with a sales check for 5 pounds. "That will make a better impression," he explained.

BOOK SECTION—A Charleston matron, stopping at one of our better hostelries, asked at the hotel bookshop for a copy of "Christ in Cement." . . . Then there were the Sunday School girls who presented their teacher with "Christ in Concrete" because the title sounded religious. She exchanged it for the latest Lloyd Douglas opus, but not until she had read the original gift from cover to cover, "just to see how far he dared to go." . . . Among titles requested at the Public Library are "Gone with the Grapes" and "The Rapes of Wrath."

TODAY'S CAB DRIVER—While attending the Housekeepers' Association convention in New York, Mrs. Hazel Wood, Wardman Park housekeeper, stumbled on a curb at the World's Fair and broke her wrist. Wishing to have the bone set by her own doctor, she resisted all efforts of Fair officials to have the damage repaired there, and took a train back to Washington. She was in great pain by the time she arrived; at one point she had to ask the cab driver who took her from Union Station to stop swerving around corners on two wheels. He listened to her explanation and then said unsympathetically, "What's a little thing like a broken arm, lady? You ought to be glad you ain't in Europe."

Attention to Detail Assures Home Decorative Distinction

By Elizabeth MacRae Boykin.

They are a genial, hospitable famliy, yet with pride and dignity and great taste in the appointments and routine of their home. You might not realize this when you see them on the golf course having such fun in old tweeds.

But at home again, and in a twinkling, they are in and out of the shower and downstairs in their best bibs and tuckers, all ready to make as much of an art of tea as they have been to finish off their golf game to a tee.

The entrance hall is papered in silver with a round flowered rug, deep mauve taffeta draperies, a pair of gilt framed mirrors, a walnut cabinet and bench. In the adjoining living room the mauve is a secondary color and the floral design is secondary accent; the walls here are painted olive green and the rug is the same dull green ground and in the same mood as the floral rug in the hall.

The upholstered furniture is in mauve velvet, in old gold with one or two pieces in a striped fabric and a pair of side chairs with seats in the flowered chintz. Wide gold picture frames, a Sheffield silver tea set and silver canadelabra, heavy crystal drop lighting fixtures, a few pieces of old pink and copper lustreware—these are the accessories that give the room accent.

In the dining room, the old gold is the tone repeated and played upon. The rug here is a Persian with a dull golden glow as its predominant color. The walls are painted dull gold and the draperies are in old gold in dull surfaced satin over white ninon sheer curtains. Accessories here are old pieces of silver, a fine collection of china and, in season, fresh flowers in the lavender and mauve colors.

We'll admit that only one woman in a crowd can wear the severe lines and pattern of this striking evening gown. If you are the type to affect the unusual, however, you have confirmation for your tastes in this black and white striped crepe which was lustily applauded at a recent World's Fair fashion show. The apron skirt, slim lines and statuesqueness of design are all indicative of the new fall silhouette which will often be slim and column-smooth. The Gentler Sex

By Malvina Lindsay

'The Other Children'

"Yes, it's a very nice neighborhood—that is, except for some of the children. There's one especially bad boy two doors down. You know he shot Forrest with a popgun! . . . No, it didn't hurt, but it might have. Anyway, I just marched down there and told his mother I didn't want him coming around my place any more . . . Say? . . . Oh, she said he just couldn't have done it, that he was a good boy at home, and all that. I just told her, 'Well, I saw him do it, and I don't want him coming around my place any more because my boy is well behaved and I don't want my training undone.'"

"What, Forrest? . . . No. you can't go to the movies until you've finished your violin practice . . . No, you know what your teacher said . . . But I've already promised you one nickel . . . No! . . . No! . . . When I say 'No' I mean 'NO' . . . What? . . . Well, are you sure? . . . And not bother me another time? . . . Oh, well, all right, bring me my pocketbook."

He's been a lot worse about practicing since the boys next door called him a sissy. They're very rough. Their mother's to blame. She just runs around to bridge and cocktail parties . . . and clubs all the time. And when she's home she doesn't have any control over them."

"Forrest! . . . Have you quit practicing? . . . Oh, Forrest! . . . Now where do you suppose he's gone? . . . Oh, there's the radio! Upstairs! . . . Forrest! You come down here this minute and finish your violin practice! . . . Well, you know what your father said . . . Well, how much longer is the program? . . . Oh, w-e-l-l, all right."

"Both of these boys next door failed at school. . . Yes, they're really problem children . . . Forrest? . . . Oh, yes, he passed, but he didn't get as good grades as he should. You see he's terribly nervous and I don't think the teacher understands him—wait, there's somebody at the door."

"Good morning, Barney . . . No, Forrest can't come out to play . . . No, he's practicing his violin . . . No, he'll be busy all morning . . . No, he can't come out this afternoon, either. His grandmother's coming."

"That's another boy I don't like for Forrest to play with. He's always starting a fight. Now Forrest is not that way at all. I always tell him 'Now, don't start anything, but don't let the others run over you, And he doesn't . . . Say, I believe that radio's stopped."

"Forrest! Where are you? . . . Oh Forrest! . . . Wait a minute . . . If he isn't out there in the yard with that little Barney! . . . Forrest! . . . Come right in here this minute! . . . Well, I'll tell your father on you tonight! . . . Well, I will, too!"

"There, you see what I'm up against with all these boys hanging around. . . . Yes, there's a little girl on the other side, but she's so rotten spoilt he can't play with her. And her mother's one of these people who are always right. Yes, she came over here and complained that our dog chased their cat and I was right there and saw it. The cat started the whole thing!"

"What, Forrest? . . . An ice cream cone . . . No, indeed! It'll ruin your lunch . . . No, besides you have to finish your violin practice. No! No! Sh-h-h! Don't make so much noise! . . . No! No! No! . . . Forrest! Get up off that floor! . . . Sh-h-h! The neighbors'll hear you . . . Sh-h! No, no, don't kick Mamma's nice Chippendale table! . . . Well, listen—if I do give you a nickel for an ice cream cone will you come right back and finish your practicing? . . . All right."

"You see what I'm up against? . . . Now that little Barney put that in his head!"

Some Foods Need Added Vitamins

The problem of the restoration of lost vitamins to foods received considerable attention at a recent meeting of the American Institute of Nutrition in Toronto. Various speakers advocated the fortification of our common foods with the vitamins and minerals in which they are often deficient.

Some progress has already been made. Milk has been enriched with Vitamin D for a number of years, but the irradiated, metabolized, and fortified Vitamin D milks are not as yet used by a majority of the general public.

Our national diet can be made more nutritious, says the American Journal of Public Health, by improving economic conditions, by furthering public health education including information on nutrition, and by the development of additional methods to retain or restore the natural minerals and vitamins in foods.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Wife Feels Suffocated by Husband's Intense Love; He Wants No Society But Hers, While She Yearns For Larger Life; Can She Claim It Tactfully?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: To you, and to others, my problem may seem to be of my own making, and I fear that you will have but slight sympathy for me. However, I find it serious and distressing, and I feel that some solution must be had at once. My husband loves me too much, strange as it sounds—and that is what I complain of. (As soon as soon as I wrote the word "complain" I realized that was not at all what I had planned to say.)

We were married when we were 20 and we are now 26. I can honestly say that I have been happy for these six years, in spite of the fact that our only child was injured at birth and will always be a source of heartbreak to us. She requires more care than I can give her, so she is living with my husband's people in a nearby small town, where we can see her often.

Her care is more expensive than my husband can afford, so I am working, too. At first, I regarded my work only as a means of supplementing my husband's earnings. But lately, I have come to look upon it as my only relaxation and contact with the outside world. I sincerely love my husband, but he is shy and completely indifferent to other people. He wants to associate with no one but me, and he wants to be with me constantly.

I feel that I do not have one moment's privacy or peace, and absolutely no chance to develop my own personality and be myself. We have no friends in common—although I have made some valued friendships at the office, where I seem to be well liked. But somehow these friendships seem to be confined to office association. I feel that this is because my husband and I are smug about loving each other so much, and give the impression that we need nothing more.

I, too, give that impression, as a defense. My pride will not let me admit to my office associates that I am lonely for the company of my own sex occasionally, and that often (too often), I am miserably bored with my husband. Maybe I have the wrong idea, but it seems to me that it is impossible to be with one person constantly and continue to find his company relaxing and stimulating.

I have nothing specific to complain of. He is just about the best husband ever made. He has never been known to go out at night with "the boys;" never denies me anything that he can possibly afford; in fact, he spoils me dreadfully. Am I wrong in wanting more than that? I can honestly say that I do not want more for myself alone. He, too, needs contacts with others and some freedom from me. I feel that only in that way can we be normal, happy persons. I love him dearly and have only the greatest respect for him, but he is unintentionally stifling me and doing the same thing to himself.

This has gone on for so long that lately I find myself beginning to shy away from office friends; refusing luncheon dates with the girls, etc., because I honestly have nothing to say to them. I never go the places they go, never do any of the things they do, and so have nothing to contribute to the conversation.

Several men in the office (one married man and two single men) have indicated ever so slightly that they would like to have dates with me, and I shudder to recall how hard it was for me to refuse in each instance. I do not want to get involved in anything of that sort, but I must be released from this bondage in some way and find some interest in life other than just [illegible] husband.

I would not discuss this with him, as he would feel that I had stopped loving him altogether and had gone a bit crazy. His feelings would be extremely hurt. Please give me some of your excellent advice. And remember, I would not hurt him for anything in the world. Sincerely,

S. S.

Letting In Fresh Air From the World Outside

DEAR S. S.: This is a problem to be solved by diplomatic, direct action, rather than by serious conferring, heavy resoluting or explosive upheaval. You feel (and rightly so) that the psychological health of your marriage is suffering for lack of exposure to continuous currents of fresh air from the outside world.

Well, instead of furtively glowering at your husband about it, and secretly charging him with full guilt for the stale atmosphere, the corrective thing for you to do is (figuratively speaking) to step around quietly and throw open the doors and windows, so as to let in the life-giving elements. And, also (continuing the metaphor), to lure him out into the garden, and into the highways and by-ways, where the winds of chance will blow on his brow and abate the fever of his too-intense preoccupation with you.

Since he loves you so much, whither you go he will also go, and together you may absorb as wide a range of (literally) re-creative experiences as your imagination, social abilities and joint means can encompass. You haven't said so, but I infer (from the alleged introverted life you lead) that your shared diversions so far have been of the bought-and-paid-for variety, such as dining out occasionally, seeing a movie, taking in a lecture or concert, etc., none of which is related to playful or purposeful group activities.

And whose fault is it that your married life is a tedious two-some routine, so monotonous that it is boring you to the point of morbidity? The fault, I think, is yours. For, according to American tradition, it is primarily the wife's responsibility to create and maintain the family's purely social status in the community. Whether the family has a large or small circle of friends (or none at all); whether it has a considerable or negligible prestige; a colorful or drab existence on the recreational side; all this is determined more by the wife's objectives, talents and competence than by the husband's basic preferences.

You submit that your husband "never denies you anything" you want that he can provide, and it stands to reason, therefore, that he would string along with you in playing the kind of social game that would make you happiest, no matter how grim or frivolous the going seemed to him. But since he is contented as he is, cherishing your companionship as the alpha and omega of his social need, it likewise stands to reason that he isn't going to change his stride until your own change of pace makes it necessary for him to do so.

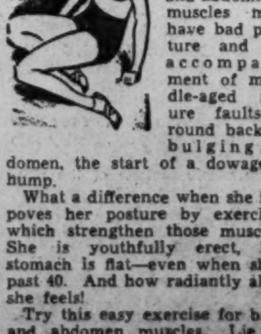
My advice to you is to become a "joiner," to the full extent that your income, credentials and leisure will allow, and carry your husband along with you. You have a choice, or the whole repertory, of inexpensive country club (for good fellowship, social get-togethers and athletic recreation); a church and Sunday school group; a politicial club; a civic-betterment group; an amateur theatrical organization (if you are interested in such); a night class of study (in art, literature, history, sociology, or what-have-you); a weekly bridge session; your respective State societies and so on, ad infinitum.

Once in a while you can make impromptu arrangements with girls at the office to stay downtown for early dinner and a show, after remarking to your husband—some time in advance—that the idea has been broached and you are considering it. Or you may bring the girls home with you for pot luck (as many as your table will accommodate), or ask them to bring their beaux for a round of bridge and mint juleps. You may cultivate the folks next door or across the hall, and after due acquaintance bring them down on your husband's devoted head for Sunday supper and suchlike.

As a political, civic or church worker you can, if you're smart, industrious and gracious, become a member of committees and conduct meetings in your home, making a little party of the occasion. You may fetch people home from the country club as you get to know and like them. Discovering your own kind among the folks from back home, you may make a practice of asking a select few in for a round of refreshments en route to State society dances in season. And by way of explaining this revolutionary change to your husband, you may say, simply, that you feel it's your social duty as his conscientious helpmeet. He may protest at first, but he won't really resist. And in time he probably will be genuinely appreciative of the livelier domestic tempo. M. H.

Trim Figure By Exercising

THIS revealing bathing suit season! Many a woman cringes at the thought of the limelight on her sagging figure. Young women, too!



For, no matter how young she is, the woman with weak back and abdominal muscles may have bad posture and its accompaniment of middle-aged figure faults—a round back, a bulging abdomen, the start of a dowager's hump.

What a difference when she impoves her posture by exercises which strengthen those muscles. She is youthfully erect, her stomach is flat—even when she's past 40. And how radiantly alive she feels!

Try this easy exercise for back and abdomen muscles. Lie on your back, with knees pulled up to chest, hands clasped around knees. Then, on Count 1, roll up to sitting position. Pull from the knees, straighten the back and hold the head high. Count 2—Slump and roll back to floor. Repeat three times. Rest. Do six to nine times.

Figure faults and ills related to them are so insidious. Suddenly one day you realize that you have too heavy hips or an ugly throat line, or that you suffer from backache or painful feet.

Protective Diet Needed For Expectant Mother

She Must 'Eat for Two' in Elements Needed for Body Building; Vitamen B Should Be Obtained by Food, Sunshine

By Ida Jean Kain

THE ONE time in a woman's life when a protective diet is of the utmost importance is when she is going to have a baby. But the expression, "eating for two," applies only to the protective foods, not to the carbohydrates and fats. It isn't a reserve of energy foods, or stored fat, that makes for healthier babies, but an abundant reserve of the protective building materials.

So the mother who indulges in rich desserts, sweets and all types of fattening foods with the comforting thought that she is "eating for two" or that the pounds won't show anyway is on the wrong track.

There is an excellent article, "Diet in Pregnancy and Lactation," by Dr. Carl R. Wegner in the June issue of the Journal of the American Dietetic Association. Dr. Wegner makes it clear that the process is one of biologic precision in which each element required is called for when and as often as needed.

The mother's body is a storehouse of reserve material, and the problem of diet in pregnancy resolves itself into supplying adequate protective elements for her own use, plus a reserve for building material for the baby. The extra building material needed is supplied in milk, eggs, cheese, lean meat, fruits, vegetables and whole grain breads and cereals; or, in effect, the foods which furnish vitamins, minerals and complete protein. To this protective list can be added the fuel foods in accordance with individual needs.

Since one common complication of pregnancy is an excessive gain in weight, Dr. Wegner has divided the dietary requirements for the pregnant woman into two parts—the daily minimal protective diet, and the second part into the energy yielding portion. Here are the two dietary plans:

DAILY MINIMAL PROTECTIVE DIET

	Calories
1 quart of whole milk—as beverage or used in cooking	650
1 egg	70
1 serving of lean meat	150
3 servings raw vegetables, lettuce, celery, tomato, cabbage, carrots, etc., without sugar or oily dressing	75
3 servings of cooked vegetables, green beans, carrots, greens, spinach, etc., without fat	180
3 servings of fruit (one-half to be uncooked), oranges, grapefruit, pineapple, peaches, lemons, apples, berries, etc., without sugar or cream	200
2 slices of whole grain bread, or 1½ ounces of whole grain cereal	130
1 square butter, ½ inch thick	100

SUPPLEMENTARY ENERGY YIELDING DIET

2 squares butter	200
4 slices whole grain bread	240
1 serving cheese, eggs or meat	150
2 servings potatoes, rice or macaroni	200
Sugar and cooking fat	200
1 dessert, pudding, ice cream, cake, etc.	200
	1190

By dividing the diet into two parts the protective portion can remain unaltered, while the supplementary part can be adjusted to fit the individual needs. So the expectant mother who gains too much weight can restrict some of the calories in the energy yielding part of the diet. She could practically eliminate the last 600 calories in the supplementary diet and restrict the servings of butter, bread and eggs and meat. But the minimal protective diet should not be altered in quantity or quality.

And unless the expectant mother has several hours a day of exposure to direct sunlight, 800 U. S. P. units of vitamin D must be taken daily. This is extremely important, as vitamin D is essential to the utilization of calcium and phosphorus.

Beetle Traps In Montgomery Snare 31,000

Nine-Tenths of Total From Silver Spring, Takoma Park Area

Montgomery County's campaign against Japanese beetles has netted a total of approximately 31,000 of the omniverous pests this season, Harry T. Rhodes, of Poolesville, Md., reported yesterday. Rhodes is county supervisor of the Japanese beetle control program.

The beetles are especially thick in the Silver Spring-Takoma Park area, Rhodes said. Approximately nine-tenths of the beetles have been captured there, he said.

The beetles are captured in 5,000 traps furnished by the Federal, State and county governments. Ten county youths on bicycles tend the trap lines. After the youths count the beetles, they destroy the pests, either by crushing or burning.

The trapping method is but the beginning of the campaign against the beetles which have caused thousands of dollars damage to growing things in Maryland and other sections of the country. Enemies of the beetle are being propagated and will be released to prey upon their natural foe in areas which have been attacked by the beetles.

Parkway Contract May Be Awarded

The Montgomery County Commissioners today are expected to announce the winner of the contract for construction of the Kensington parkway from North Chevy Chase, Md., along the route of the old Kensington street railway to Kensington. Bids for the contract were opened several weeks ago and turned over to the county engineer and county accountant for tabulation.

The parkway will provide a new road to Kensington, carrying traffic past the old business section of the town, which was left isolated when the Kensington overpass was constructed over the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks. A number of county civic groups had opposed the construction of the road through a bond issue. One vociferous group pointed out that the project had been left standing while other sections had their roadway needs furnished by bond issues which the Kensington residents must help pay.

The commissioners also are expected to announce agreement on a contract for rental of voting machines by the county, the money expended on rental to be credited to the purchase price of the county decides to buy the machines.

Voting machines will be placed in all polling places of the county and will supersede the old manual method, which required weary election officials to stay up for several days and nights until the count was completed. Voting machines also will do away with the picturesque squabbles which preceded the discard of every ballot thrown out in the elections.

"I counted my losers, mentally, and found I had two clubs, one diamond and possibly one spade, as it would be difficult to get in my hand to take the spade finesse.

"The problem was to eliminate one loser. This could be done by discarding a club on the third round of hearts. I won the opening lead with the ace, laid down the spade ace, then played three rounds of hearts.

"If the opponent holding the spade king decided to ruff the heart I would double up on losers and discard a club. However, both opponents followed and my remaining hearts in dummy were set up. I then played a spade, which West won. He returned the king of clubs and continued a club. (If he shifts to a diamond his partner can win, holding me to four.) I ruffed and reentered dummy with a spade, discarding my two diamonds on the hearts for five-odd.

"At five tables no one else made game. Two teams went down one trick. I asked one of them, who was set, what lead she got and how she played the hand. Her lead also was the king of diamonds, but then she played spades twice! West won the second spade and cashed two clubs and a diamond for a set of one.

"If the defenders lead the club ace, continue a club and then play diamonds, declarer can't help himself."

Special Casket Being Built For Wadlow, Tallest Human

Manistee, Mich., July 15. — A special casket was being constructed tonight for 22-year-old Robert Pershing Wadlow, the tallest human being in medical history.

ROBERT WADLOW

The giant youth, who weighed 491 pounds, died early today of complications following a foot infection caused by the chafing of an ankle brace. He had been ill since July 4. Burial will be in Oakwood Cemetery, Alton, Ill.

Last measurements of Wadlow were taken at a St. Louis, Mo., hospital June 27, when doctors said he was 8 feet 10.3 inches tall.

Harold F. Wadlow, the young giant's father, said today that his son's body will not be turned over to medical men for scientific investigation. Wadlow's abnormal height, scientists said, was due to an over-active pituitary gland.

In all other respects, Wadlow was considered normal. At Alton High School he won a scholarship to attend Shurtleff College at Alton. He completed the freshman year.

Both parents and his two brothers and two sisters were of normal stature. At birth, February 22, 1918, Wadlow weighed 9 pounds. Although he reached 30 pounds at the end of six months, his unusual growth was not noticed until he was a year old.

His favorite dish was ice cream and his favorite diversion was travel. "I like to see everything," he remarked last year while visiting Hollywood.

Clothes and shoes were Wadlow's toughest problems. Everything, including neckties and pocket handkerchief,s was made to order. An ordinary suit required 9 yards of material. His shoes were size 39.

Naval Attache Denies Treason Took Norway

Capt. Hjalmar Riiser-Larsen, naval attache of the Norwegian Legation, who witnessed the Nazi invasion of Norway, yesterday asserted that "there is no means too low to be used by the Germans."

He addressed University of Maryland students in a special "World Today" lecture series.

Capt. Riiser-Larsen denied that treachery in Norway facilitated the blitzkrieg, claiming that the invaders disguised themselves as Norwegian soldiers in many cases to make it appear that way.

He concluded that, "It is you Americans who are going to carry on the work for civilization, now that it is dying in Europe."

Today Dr. H. R. Van Houten, secretary of the Netherlands Embassy, will speak. Thursday's scheduled lecture by a member of the Italian Embassy on "Italy's Participation in the War" has been cancelled by the embassy, it was announced yesterday.

J. S. Galloway, Ex-Railroad Man, Is Killed by Train

James S. Galloway, 54, retired railroad man who was known here, was killed Sunday in Galesburg, Ill., by a train.

A former engineer for the Pennsylvania, he was reported by the Associated Press to have been watching a freight train pass when his glasses fell off. He stooped to retrieve them and was struck by a boxcar, suffering fatal skull injuries and a mangled right arm.

He moved to Galesburg about six weeks ago. Union Station officials here said that he had lived previously in Baltimore.

Business Failures Rise

New York, July 15 (AP).—Business failures during the week ended July 11 advanced only slightly from the previous week, which included the Fourth of July holiday, Dun & Bradstreet reported today. The latest total of 261 compared with 259 in the previous week and 272 a year ago.

State Poultrymen To Meet July 31 In Elkton, Md.

College Park, Md., July 15 (AP).—The sixth annual summer meeting of the Maryland State poultry council will be held at Elkton, July 31, Wade H. Rice, council secretary, announced today.

A full day's program has been arranged. Harry H. Riech, of Preston, council president, will preside at the meeting. Dr. H. C. Byrd, University of Maryland president, will be toastmaster at a banquet in the evening.

Morning session speakers include H. R. Baker, Delaware State board of agriculture; Roy E. Jones, extension poultry husbandman at Storrs, Conn.; Charles H. Pearsall, manager of cooperative poultry auction, Hamden, Conn.; Dr. H. R. Bird, University of Maryland, and Claude E. Truslow, Maryland State Hatchery Association president.

The afternoon speakers will be Leon Todd, secretary of the Northeastern Poultry Producers' Council; William Blum, of Bethesda, and Mrs. Alice Wolfe Sattler, of Monkton.

32% of Highway Toll Pedestrians

Thirty-two per cent of the Nation's total highway fatalities during May were pedestrians, it was reported yesterday by the Aetna Casualty & Insurnace Co., of Hartford, Conn.

The most unsafe walking habits were crossing streets or highways at points other than intersections, walking in the roadway and crossing from behind parked cars.

Smathers' 7½-Hour Walk Ends—It's a Boy

He waited and walked for 7½ hours Friday night before a son, James Foley Smathers, was born to Mrs. Smathers at the City Hospital in Atlantic City. Yesterday mother and child were doing well.

Nazis Take Over Paris Art Works

Paris, July 12 (delayed).—German authorities have taken all works of art in Paris under their protetcion, insuring the safety of the capital's invaluable treasures.

The Germans have, everywhere, respected statues, busts and other public works of art, although for esthetic or other reasons they have condemned certain statuary, such as the Gen. Mangin group behind Les Invalides and the Edith Cavell relief on the east end of the Jeu de Paume Museum in the Tuileries Gardens. Gen. Mangin's statue featured an honor guard of four colored soldiers.

Montgomery Prepares 50,000 Tax Bills

Indiana Politician Greets Those Attending The Conclave and Serves Tea (Honest) With Magnificance of Prewar Versailles

By Hope Ridings Miller.

Chicago, July 16.—With donkeys the favorite decorative motif, Democratic partying is knocking the Gold Coast for a loop of lorgnettes.

Both informal and impromptu are most of the fetes, arranged on the spur of the moment in the hotel lobbies and on Michigan boulevard.

HOPE RIDINGS MILLER

"Don't write, telephone—or telegraph," seems to be the invitation theme of the hour, since wires best express the informality that keynotes the convention. Anyway, the Windy City's old guard of society is reputed to have taken out en masse for lakeside resorts, while the Democrats are turning the town upside down and wedging a record number of parties into convention intervals.

Most purposeful shindig on today's calendar was the mammoth tea given this afternoon at the McNutt headquarters. In a setting that has all the magnificence of a prewar Versailles, to say nothing of the largest Roosevelt photograph in America, a couple of thousand convention attenders turned out to shake hands with Indiana's political Appollo, to meet his pretty wife and their daughter, Louise, and to toss off a cup of tea (and it was tea, not cocktails), with a couple of hundred women whose bosoms were plastered with Roosevelt and McNutt buttons.

Meanwhile, several stories up in the same hotel, Gov. Stark of Missouri, who still insists he's "not running for the Vice Presidency," and Mrs. Stark greeted a hand-picked group of friends, all of whom arrived breathless with reports that the Stark boom for Vice President is a ground swell that cannot long be ignored.

Trimly turned out were both Mrs. McNutt and Mrs. Stark, each one attired in what might be called ladies' convention uniform dark blue two-piece frocks, with a touch of white at the throat, and dark blue broad-brimmed hats, becomingly tilted.

Small Luncheons Are Plentiful

Practically every woman you see wears either a navy blue and white outfit, or a print frock with a white halo turban. The typical woman delegate has a gardenia corsage on her shoulder, just over her badge. Only the women's committee officials wear orchids.

Small luncheon parties accented the social whirl shortly after the opening session. Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Jones and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, who are staying at the Blackstone, caused a ripple of excitement as they entered the main dining room.

"He's running for the Vice Presidency," said a deep-bosomed woman wearing a delegate's badge.

"As who isn't," retorted her companion, also be-badged.

Across the street in the Stevens Hotel Continental Room, the spotlight fell on the Finnish Minister and Mme. Procope, who were in a small luncheon group, and Senator and Mrs. A. B. Chandler, in a party of eight that included Mrs. Catherine Connor, of Washington and Bardstown, Ky.

The latter was recently elected national committeewoman from her State for the third time, but she's dead set against a third term for Roosevelt.

Mrs. J. 'Ham' Lewis Plans Cocktail Party

Over in the Rose Room, Solicitor General and Mrs. Francis Biddle had a couple of guests at luncheon, while at the Drake Hotel the Undersecretary of State and Mrs. Sumner Welles lunched with friends in their suite. Also staying at the Drake are Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Breckinridge Long and Mrs. Ralph Worthington.

Mrs. Henry D. Flood and her daughter, Miss Eleanor Flood, came in early this morning and are staying at the Congress Hotel, where the entire Virginia delegation is ensconced. Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis, registered at the Ambassador Hotel, has invited a number of friends to stop in for tea later this week.

Having been established at the Blackstone for a couple of weeks, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wood (Chip) Robert have their social calendar well under control, and definitely have made up their minds not to accept any more invitations. Already on their schedule, however, are several parties, including the cocktail party and buffet supper to be given for them tomorrow night by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kirk at their Lake Shore drive apartment.

Mr. and Mrs. Le Ray Berdeau, who have visited in Washington frequently, have telegrams out for "cocktails and a snack in honor of Evie and "Chip" on Wednesday evening at the Blackstone Hotel.

Mrs. Melvyn Douglas, better known as Helen Gahagan, of stage and screen fame, will entertain at a tea tomorrow afternoon at the Palmer House in honor of Mrs. Henry F. Grady, of Washington, vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Ken Murray Spreads The Word Around

Miss Gahagan recently was elected national committeewoman from California but is serving at this convention as the most effective piece of window dressing on display. Handsome and regal, she is a center of attention wherever she appears and she appears everywhere—plugging Gov. Olson of California as a likely candidate for Vice President. She and Mrs. Thomas F. McAllister, head of the National Committee's women's division, are sharing honors as "glamour girls" of the convention.

A stunning figure in a wide-brimmed blue straw hat and a very Hollywoodish blue tailored suit, Miss Gahagan was spotted in the Palmer House lobby early yesterday with Ken Murray. The latter has been making it his busineed to spread the word around: "I don't know how much luck the Republicans will have with Willkie. They're not very successful with their utility connections. You know, they never could make their Hoover work."

Bride of Yesterday

MRS. FRANCIS F. TALBOT

Florence O'Donoghue Married To Dr. Francis F. Talbot

St. Matthew's Cathedral Is a Setting Of Gladioli and Palms for Ceremony; Niagara University President Officiates

In a setting of white gladioli and palms, Miss Florence O'Donoghue, daughter of Mrs. John A. O'Donoghue, of Washington, and the late Dr. O'Donoghue, was married yesterday morning at 11 to Dr. Francis F. Talbot, son of Dr. and Mrs. Francis J. Talbot, of Niagara Falls, N. Y.

The ceremony took place in St. Matthew's Cathedral, the Rev. Joseph M. Noonan, president of Niagara University, officiating. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue. Her gown of Chantilly lace over satin was made on princess lines with long, tight-fitting sleeves and a high sweetheart neckline. Her veil of tulle fell from a cap of Chantilly lace, caught at either side with clusters of orange blossoms, and she carried lilies of the valley and gladioli.

Her matron of honor was Mrs. James F. Leahigh, her sister. She chose pale blue mousseline de soie made with full skirt, a low round neckline trimmed in seed pearls and full three-quarter sleeves. On her head she wore a shoulder-length veil of the same material as her dress, caught at the top with rosettes trimmed with seed pearls, and carried an old-fashioned bouquet of white blossoms.

The bridesmaids were the Misses Jeanne Murphy, Mary Catherine Johnston, Madeline Cotter and Mrs. J. O'C. Coffey and were similarly attired.

Dr. Charles L. O'Neill, jr., of Newark, N. J., was best man, and the ushers were Dr. John E. Carey and Dr. James Creighton, of Buffalo; Thomas Rice, of Pittsburgh, and the bride's brother, Dr. John A. O'Donoghue.

A reception at the Carlton followed the ceremony. Mrs. O'Donoghue wore a dusty rose chiffon with navy blue accessories, and the bridegroom's mother was attired in a blue print with lighter blue accessories. Both wore orchids.

Later the couple left for a honeymoon in northern Ontario, Canada. The bride wore a brown and white plaid suit with a hat of the same material. After August 15' they will live at 1354 James avenue, Niagara Falls.

Mrs. Talbot attended Georgetown Visitation Convent and Trinity College, and Dr. Talbot studied at Georgetown University and its Medical School, where he was a member of Phi Chi.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mrs. Thomas Rice, of Pittsburgh; Miss Eugenia Taylor, of St. Louis; Gardner Creighton, of Buffalo; Mrs. William A. Curtin and James Curtin, of Syracuse, N. Y.; the Misses Kearney, of Baltimore; Miss Rose Murray, also of that city; Miss Helen O'Hea, of Newark, and Miss Helen Toolieg, of New York.

Mrs. Leslie Reid, Ex-Capitalite, A War Refugee

Former Miss Wright, Wife of British Officer, Arrives in New York

A refugee from England, who is known in Washington, is Mrs. Leslie MacFarlane Reid, the former Miss Leslie Wright, of this city. With her tiny daughter, Robin, she arrived in New York the other day and was met by her mother, Mrs. Hamilton Wright.

Mrs. Reid is the wife of Air Vice Marshal Reid, commander of the British air forces in Aden. Several weeks ago she left Aden with her daughter by plane for Scotland, where she hoped to weather out the war. However, with the situation growing daily more dangerous, she joined the hundreds of American women married to Englishmen who have sought safety in the United States.

Mrs. Wright and her daughter went from New York on to the country home, The Norlands, at Livermore, Me. Mrs. Reid is the sister of the Misses Rosalind and Barbara Wright, both of whom live with their mother here.

Mrs. Peters Will Design Her New Home

Mrs. Horace Peters, who was a full-fledged architect until marriage intervened, will design the house which she and Mr. Peters are planning to build. They have just bought an acre lot in the Foxhall road region and hope to have a home built by Christmas.

Mrs. Peters is a graduate of Smith College and the Cambridge School of Architecture, but "hasn't done anything about it" for five years. She and her husband now live in Georgetown.

Others with moving plans made well in advance of the traditional moving day, September 1, are Mr. and Mrs. John de Sibour. They have been occupying a house on the grounds of Downscrest, near McLean, Va., but early in the fall will return to town.

Further real estate news concerns the Robert Pells, of Cornwell, near McLean. They bought this lovely old home several years ago, but, it's rumored, have decided to sell as living so far from town made life too complicated for a couple who had to go to as many parties as the Pells.

Gen. McClure And Wife Mark Golden Wedding

Gen. and Mrs. Nathaniel Fish McClure, who make their home at the Wardman Park, entertained at dinner Sunday night in honor of Col. and Mrs. Stewart Stanley, who have just returned to Washington, and Gen. James Fechet, retired, and Mrs. Fechet. When all the the guests were seated in the colonial dining room of the hotel, they learned that they were helping Gen. and Mrs. McClure celebrate their golden wedding anniversary.

The other guests were Gen. and Mrs. E. D. Scott, Col. and Mrs. Paul S. Bond, Col. and Mrs. Harry Mitchell, Mrs. Daniel Carr, Mrs. Heath Moorman, Col. William C. Young, Gen. and Mrs. Joseph O. Mauborgne and Col. Blackington.

Keith Officer Guest of Davises

Keith Officer, Counselor of the Australian Legation, was among the Washington friends who spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Dwight F. Davis at their summer home, Bayberry Land, in Southampton, Long Island.

Other members of the house party included Mr. and Mrs. Reeve Schley, of Ripplebrook Farm, Far Hills, N. J.; Dr. and Mrs. Henry James and Miss Cynthia Davis, of New York, daughter of Mr. Davis.

Another week-end visitor to Southampton was Mrs. Joseph Kennedy, wife of the United States Ambassador to Great Britain. She was guest of honor at a luncheon given by the Assistant Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Basil Harris. Mrs. Kennedy has since returned to her summer home on Cape Cod.

Betrothal Announced

Hessler Studio.

Of interest to Washington is the announcement by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Cotter, of this city, of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Madeline Cotter, to John Lewis Smith, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis Smith. The wedding will take place in the fall.

Miss Dodge Plans Party For Hawkinses

McLeans Entertain Couple Who'll Sail Soon for Australia

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hawkins, who sail July 23 for Australia, are being sped on their way by a number of farewell parties.

Mr. and Mrs. Gale McLean gave a small dinner last night for the couple, and this evening Miss Alice Dodge will entertain at a similar party in their honor.

Mr. Hawkins, a member of the United States Foreign Service, has been assigned to Brisbane, Queensland. He and his wife, who is the former Miss Christine Ekengren, will leave by train on Thursday for the West Coast. As Mrs. Hawkins has never been even as far West as Chicago, she is looking forward to the journey. En route to Australia she and her husband will visit Tahiti and several other South Sea spots.

When the Clipper to New Zealand is inaugurated, Mrs. Hawkins hopes to fly back for a vacation in the States. The journey will take only six days by air, whereas almost a month is required by boat.

Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins were hosts at a party over the week-end for Miss Betty Shouse and her fiance, Cuthbert Train. Their engagement was announced the latter part of June, and they plan a fall wedding.

Brazilian Going to Cuba

Paulo Hasslocher, Commercial Counselor of the Brazillian Embassy, has been named adviser from his country to the Pan American conference in Havana. He will leave on Thursday by train for Miami and will get to Havana early Saturday in time for the opening of the conference.

Notes of Society

Official and Residential

Rear Admiral and Mrs. Ben Morreell, of Washington, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. D. S. MacBride, of Philadelphia, and Dewey Thompson, of New York, have arrived at the Homestead in Hot Springs, Va. Also there from Washington is Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic Society, with Mrs. Grosvenor.

Ralph A. Miller and Miss Amaralice Miller have arrived at the Homestead from Havana to join their grandmother, Mrs. Ralph Miller, of New York. Their father, Ralph Miller, jr., is secretary of the United States Embassy in Havana.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Chatfield Taylor and Richard Chatfield Taylor have arrived in New York from Washington and are at the Hotel Weylin.

PGad B. Morehouse, director of the Radio and Periodical Division, Federal Trade Commission, and Mrs. Morehouse, of 9419 Second avenue, Silver Spring, Md., announce the birth on July 8 of a son, William Jonathan Morehouse.

Mrs. Leo Kasehagen has motored to Tamaqua, Pa., for a week's visit with her son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Leo Kasehagen 3d, who spent the week-end here with her. She gave a dinner for them on Saturday.

Mrs. Raymond G. Moore, of Western avenue, Chevy Chase, Md., will have as her house guests her cousin, Mrs. Harry Shannon and her daughter, Miss Claire Shannon, of New Orleans, La. Mrs. Shannon and Miss Shannon will arrive this morning and will be here about two weeks. Mrs. Moore will entertain for them later in the week.

Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Tegge, of the Broadmoor Apartments, spent the week-end at the Skytop Club, in northeastern Pennsylvania.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Ayre, of the Shoreham, are spending several days at the Shelburne in Atlantic City.

Rosalie Tomkiel Will Wed in Fall

Mrs. Pauline Tomkiel, of Grand Marais, Mich., announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Rosalie Tomkiel, of 1530 Sixteenth street, this city, to John Henry Vaughan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Vaughan, of Lubbock, Tex. The prospective bride is the daughter of the late Mr. Tomkiel and a sister of Miss Josephine Tomkiel, of Washington.

The wedding will take place in the fall.

Jewish Women Aid Red Cross In Benefit at Woodmont Club

Refreshments Are Foregone to Free Proceeds for Cause

By Jessie Ash Arndt
The Post Club Editor.

A benefit party for Red Cross war relief was given yesterday afternoon at Woodmont Country Club and no refreshments were served—every penny of the proceeds went to the cause for which the affair was sponsored. The event, a mah jong and bridge party, was planned by the leading Jewish women's organizations of Washington with Mrs. Lester J. Pollock as general chairman.

Mrs. Pollock, assisted by the presidents or other representatives of 25 women's groups, worked for nearly a month on the arrangements, planning so all of the money received could go to the relief fund. The tickets were donated, the clubhouse offered without charge, and even the use of three buses that provided transportation from the Jewish Community Center to the club for those who did not drive their own cars, was given without charge.

More than 500 women attended the benefit and many more bought tickets, bringing the proceeds to approximately $1,000. The check was presented yesterday by Mrs. Pollock to Gen. F. R. Keefer, chairman of the District Chapter of the American Red Cross, and will be used for the purchase of an ambulance.

James T. Nicholson, assistant to Norman Davis, chairman of the American Red Cross, talked on the war relief work, especially what he himself had seen in Poland, and assured the women that the supplies were being administered there by the representatives of the American Red Cross and that the Germans were permitting their distribution without discriminations such as were originally reported.

He told the story of a refugee woman who stood beside him as the boat came into New York Harbor on his return to America. "My Lady, My Lady," she sobbed as she caught sight of the Statue of Liberty.

As a climax to the program, Anna Cherkassky, lyric soprano, sang "God Bless America," in which the audience joined, while volunteer Red Cross workers, in the colorful uniforms of the nine different branches of the service, stood behind her. She also sang a group of other numbers for which Max Kobre accompanied her.

Mrs. L. E. Harris, chairman of the District of Columbia Red Cross Motor Corps, brought out an ambulance of the type to be purchased with the group's contribution.

Among contributions received by the committee were one from Lord Lothian, Ambassador of Great Britain, and another from Hjalmar Procope, Minister of Finland.

The presidents of the 25 cooperating organizations comprised the committee assisting Mrs. Pollock. They were Mrs. I. E. Levinson, of Adas Israel Sisterhood; Mrs. A. Lastvogel, of Beth-El Sisterhood; Mrs. Herman Hertzberg, president of B'nai B'rith Auxiliary; Mrs. Emanuel Haas, representing the Council of Jewish Women; Mrs. Charles Davis, of Ezras Israel Sisterhood; Mrs. Moe Offenberg, of Hadassah; Mrs. Simon Davis, Hebrew Home Auxiliary; Mrs. Ethel Novak, Jewish War Veterans Auxiliary; Mrs. Nathan N. Wallack, Jewish Consumptives Relief Society; Mrs. E. Stolar, Kesher Israel Sisterhood; Mrs. I. Cymes, Mizrachi; Mrs. Ruth Youngman, of Woman's Ort; Mrs. Samuel Horovitz, Pioneer Women; Mrs. David Simon, of the Sisterhood of the Washington Hebrew Congregation; Mrs. Harry Levinson, of Hadassah, who acted as treasurer for the event, and Mrs. Fred Pelzman, from the Hebrew Congregation, who was chairman of transportation.

Music, Dancing and Acrobatics on Bill For Federation's War Relief Benefit

THERE WILL BE a program tomorrow at the benefit party for war relief being sponsored by the coordinating committee of the District Federation of Women's Clubs, at the Women's City Club. Beginning at 4 in the afternoon and interspersed through the remainder of the evening, it will include music, tap and acrobatic dancing and dramatic readings.

The Wiegand Sisters, acrobatic troop, eight girls from 2 to 16 years old, will appear in dances and an acrobatic performance; Mary Conroy, soprano, and Maurice Cornell, tenor, will sing; two young pianists, Earl Donoho, 10, and Patricia Morales, 11, will play; Stanley Miller, 6, will present a recitation, and there will be selections by the Bruderer mandolin and guitar trio. There will also be songs by Dorothy Skinner Walsh and Pauline Holcomb, sopranos and a reading by Ruth Dollarhide.

At 5 o'clock in the afternoon Virginia Smith and Daniel Brealove will appear in Gypsy costumes as strolling accordionists, and at 9 o'clock in the evening they will be presented again in concert numbers.

Radio personalities familiar to women radio fans also will be on hand to greet the audience—Elinor Lee, of WJSV; Mary Mason, of WRC, and Frances Northcross, of WOL.

Although the plans are to have some of the booths and refreshment stands outside in the clubhouse garden, there is plenty of room indoors should it rain, and wet weather can't interfere with the success of the party.

Mrs. John T. Lucker and Mrs. LeVerne Beales, cochairmen of the coordinating committee, are being assisted by representatives from the various clubs in the federation in their preparations for the event.

SUMMER HOLIDAY—Mrs. H. Lyle Campbell, president D. C. Branch, League of American Pen Women, will leave Wednesday for Chautauqua, N. Y., where she will spend several weeks "just visiting." She has announced the following chairmen of committees for the District Pen Women, who will serve during the coming year:

Committee on committees, Mrs. Helen Orr Watson; membership, Mrs. Katherine Hinton Wootten; studio, Miss Mattie Richards Tyler; ways and means, Ella May Colvin homas; book reviews, Mrs. Theodore Hanse Tiller; calendar, Mrs. Frank L. Abee; fellowship teas, Mrs. James T. Marley; hospitality, Mrs. Tomas Cajigas; motion pictures, Mrs. Harriett Chambers; art, Mrs. George Gaydash; radio, Victoria Faber Stevenson; publicity, Mrs. Edward R. Seal.

Mrs. Watson, immediate past president of the District Branch, is enjoying the summer at South River Park, Edgewater, Md., and Mrs. William W. Smith, recording secretary, is traveling through the West.

Kappa Gammas Hold Meeting

An inter-chapter meeting was held last night by the members of Kappa Gamma sorority at their headquarters in the Raleigh Hotel. Dr. Walter H. E. Jaeger, professor of international law at Georgetown University, and a member of the educational staff of the sorority, spoke on the European situation.

He was introduced by Mrs. Helen McChesney, national president of the organization, who presided during the program. The music included songs by Miss Kathleen Kearney, accompanied by Miss Genevieve Petcavage; a musical burlesque, presented by the Misses Bernice and Nora Woodward; a piano duet by Mrs. Dorothy Hutcheson and her father, Prof. Raymond Litzenberger.

Democratic Club To Hear Dimock On Alien Control

Marshall E. Dimock, the new administrative assistant in the Immigration and Naturalization Service, will address the summer study group of the Woman's National Democratic Club on "Control of Aliens in Time of Crisis," at its meeting tomorrow at 11 o'clock.

Mr. Dimock has been Second Assistant Secretary of Labor in charge of the Immigration and Naturalization Service. Prior to taking this office he headed a committee appointed by the Secretary of Labor to study administration and procedure in the Immigration and Naturalization Service. He also served as a research consultant for the Secretary of War, making surveys dealing with the reorganization of the Inland Waterways Corporation and the Panama Canal Zone enterprises.

State Rights Ebbing, G. O. P. League Hears

Nonpartisan consideration should be given the drift away from constitutional government, Seth W. Richardson declared yesterday in an address to members of the League of Republican Women at their headquarters, 1301 Seventeenth street northwest.

Richardson, who was an assistant Attorney General during the Hoover Administration, pointed out that, in our Nation, as evidenced by the Constitution, it was intended that the State and local governments should be dominant and that the Federal Government should possess jurisdiction only over certain delegated powers.

The drift away from this conception "depends upon a single formula of government," he said—one which assumes "that, due to changed national and international conditions, the Federal Government must be dominant and State and local governments subordinate. The present controversy with reference to an alleged departure from Constitutional principles lies in the conflict of these two formulas of government, he said.

"The issue might be said to be whether the Federal Government should be permitted either to remain in the new fields now occupied or to extend its activities further into the general operations of the citizens. In other words, should the Government be doing what it is doing in agriculture, in stock-market regulation, in labor matters, in relief activities, in aeronautics, in the field of communications and in the general control and supervision of industry generally? Should the Federal Government compete in various forms of business with the citizens and should such competition be further extended?

Richardson was introduced by Mrs. George C. Thorpe, program chairman for the series of summer teas planned by the league.

A.A.U.W. Hears Talk on Art

Members of the local branch of the American Association of University Women turning, for a session, away from international problems, devoted themselves to art yesterday. Mrs. Heber Votaw, former president of the Chevy Chase branch of the National League of American Pen Women, discussed the Taj Mahal and the Lincoln Memorial. Introduced by Miss Louise Newell, chairman of the art group that has studied architecture of the Capital during the past season, Mrs. Votaw compared the simplicity and beauty of the two great architectural masterpieces.

"No visitor to Washington ever loses the memory of the Lincoln Memorial," she said. "It is as masculine and great in its strength and simplicity of design as the Taj Mahal is feminine in its exquisite beauty.

Mrs. Votaw told of the suggestion she made for having a reflecting pool, designed after that of the Taj Mahal, when Charles Moore, then chairman of the Fine Arts Commission, asked her for her idea of what should be in front of the Lincoln Memorial. It was at the time of her brother, President Warren G. Harding's Administration.

National Heads Of Chi Sigma Arriving Today

Sorority Officials Plan Preconvention Conferences Here

National officers of Chi Sigma Sorority will arrive today to conduct conferences preliminary to the annual convention of the organization opening Thursday at the Mayflower Hotel. About 100 delegates are expected from out of town.

Mrs. Dorothy Walker, of Collingwood, N. J., is the national president; Miss Mabel Biddle, of Little Rock, Ark., vice president; Miss Helen Brokaw, of East Orange, N. J., treasurer; Mrs. Loretta McCleery, of this city, secretary, and Mrs. Irene Cribbs, of this city, editor in chief of the national publication.

Alpha Province, which comprises the Washington chapters, will be hosts Thursday night at a Monte Carlo costume party at the Mayflower. Friday, following business meetings in the morning, there will be a boat trip to Mount Vernon, with luncheon aboard the boat and dinner on the return at Hogate's Restaurant on the wharf. Friday night, election of officers will take place at the business meeting.

Miss Biddle is scheduled for election as national president without opposition.

Installation of officers will take place Saturday night followed by a dance. Saturday morning there will be a business session and, in the afternoon, a tour of the Department of Justice.

The convention will close Sunday with a memorial service and a buffet "brunch."

Democrats Convene in Chicago

2. . . . a Hollywood touch as State delegattions gathered under their banners to await the gavel's fall. The proceedings got the undivided attention of these delegates from movieland. Florida Angler-Artist Exhibits Rare Fish

ANGLER-Artist-Sculptor-Taxidermist Francis West has come here from his home in Pompano, Fla., with 45 mounted fish for display in the Commerce Department aquarium and string of fish stories that starts with the one about the trigger fish biting a chunk from West's hand and swallowing it.

He talks in the slow way a fisherman should, but not so much about the catch as what he does with it—which betrays the fisherman in him. Anyhow, he has some rare varieties, some of the sort aquariums can't keep well, and among these the four-stripe pompano.

Despite the fact that one bit the hand that caught it, the queen trigger fish is one of the prettiest in Florida waters to West. It has two stripes across its nose, showing the finer nuances of evolution because its neighbor in the case, the mud fish, said by West to be the progenitor of all things on earth, is an ugly affair, mud colored and with no stripes any place.

He has a trigger fish and the trigger flips up on the fish's back and won't flop down until an appended safety catch is pressed. There is a scabbard fish and a cow fish that has horns before and behind, and a surgeon fish, a free-lance underwater practitioner that uses its lance according to its anger.

Forty years ago West, a member of an old Martha's Vineyard family of whalers, went off to the Negagon country of Ontario to paint Indians and observed them engaged in mounting fish. He, since, has developed the art until his exhibits now seem so real he might try of moments to re-catch them.

Capital News In Brief

Silver Spring Boy Injured in Dive

Cecil (Bucky) Callis, 16-year-old senior at Montgomery Blair Senior High School, Silver Spring, Md., was in a serious condition in Garfield Hospital last night after he fractured his neck diving into Rock Creek near Meadowbrook, Md., Sunday.

Cecil Callis

Cecil, son of Mrs. C. R. Callis, 902 Gist avenue, Silver Spring, Md., was injured when he hit a stump after diving from the branch of a tree overhanging the creek. He was with two companions who summoned aid and took him to Garfield.

Sharpe Recovering After Operation

C. Melvin Sharpe, Potomac Electric Power Co. official and a member of the District Board of Education, was reported recovering last night at Doctors Hospital, following an operation.

The civic leader suffered a spinal injury in an accident two weeks ago, requiring an operation Thursday.

Landlord Beaten to It By Gunmen For Rent

Held up at gun point yesterday, Hasper Thompson, 44, colored porter, of 1602 Levis street northeast, was left to the fate of facing his landlord after being robbed of his rent money by two colored men.

Thompson told police a colored man whom he described as "walking like his feet hurt" struck up a conversation with him near New Jersey avenue and Third street northwest. Thompson said the stranger flashed several $50 bills and asked where he could obtain change.

As they walked toward a store an accomplice of the man with the foot ailment joined them and the two strangers forced Thompson into an alley. One brandished a nickel-plated revolver while the other went through his pockets as Thompson was deprived of $52.

Got a Four-Leaf Clover? Well, Send It to Charlie

C. E. (Clover Charlie) French, of 2727 Olive street, Huntington Park, Calif., hopes this four-leaf clover appeal will bring him luck. He wants a lucky piece from the District of Columbia.

"Last year I was able to procure four-leaf clovers from every State in the Union—also Alaska, Hawaii and the Philippines," French writes The Post.

With this collection "Clover Charlie" has made, he believes, "the only U. S. A. four-leaf clover man in existence." But the map isn't complete because French's efforts to get a four-leaf clover from Washington, D. C., have been futile. Anyone who sends him one will get a California clover in return, the collector promised.

Practical Joker Keeps Police, Firemen Busy

A practical joker with little regard for life and limb last night sent police and fire apparatus screaming through Washington streets on futile calls.

Audience to Be Jury For Willard Roof Players

"The Night of January 16," a murder mystery with a jury chosen from the audience determining the outcome, will be presented three nights a week next month at the Willard Hotel.

The Wednesday, Thursday and Friday night performances will begin July 31. The Willard Roof Players, reorganized by Harry Somerville and Bess Davis Schreiner, will stage the production.

Workers, Not New Units, Is Red Cross Need

As much as the District Chapter, American Red Cross, needs volunteer workers producing war relief articles, it does not wish to cope with new production units. Brig. Gen. Frank R. Keefer, chapter chairman, asked yesterday that volunteers report for work at one of these five centers, already operating:

Linthicum Hall, 3116 O street northwest, Georgetown; St. Matthew's Parish Hall, 1814 N street northwest; All Saints Episcopal Church, Chevy Chase Circle; Wheatley School, Monticello avenue and Neal street northeast, and Garnet Patterson School, Tenth and U streets northwest.

Two Cyclists Hurt in Traffic Mishaps.

Two children were injured yesterday when their bicycles were struck by automobiles on District streets. Both were sent home after treatment at hospitals.

Morris Green, 14, of 5710 Georgia avenue northwest, sustained injuries to the face and head when he was struck in the 5600 block of Georgia avenue by an automobile police said was operated by Carl D. Mace, 26, of Seat Pleasant, Md. At North Capitol and I streets, Ralph Corley, colored, 16, of 44 Defrees street northeast, received minor injuries when hurled from his bicycle by an automobile operated, according to police, by Paul R. Souci, 30, of 1729 Third street northeast.

'Cheap Justice' Court Upheld in Test Case

Judgment Reversed, But Small Claims System Ruled Valid

The United States Court of Appeals yesterday declared that the small claims branch of the Municipal Court must accomplish its objective of cheap and speedy justice without invading the rights of defendants to due process of law.

The court reversed a $39.67 judgment against Mrs. Alfred J. Wise, wife of a contractor, 1733 Thirty-first street southeast, who claimed she did not know she had been sued until her automobile was seized January 5, 1939, nad sold.

Claims Service Mailed

Conrad J. Herzog, 1102 Eleventh street southeast, sued Mrs. Wise in 1938 for $38.67 for truck hire. Following the law authorizing registered mail service on defendants in the Small Claims Court, the clerk of the court mailed a summons to Mrs. Wise at "Thirty-first street and Westover drive southeast." This was returned marked "unclaimed." Another registered mail summons was sent and returned marked "refused." A plain mail letter was then sent, warning Mrs. Wise that the proceedings would be carried on as though she had been served.

The court gave judgment against her September 10, 1938. After her car was seized, Mrs. Wise swore that she never got a letter from the court and never refused one. Louis Ottenberg, her counsel, contended that the court thus had no right to try the case and asked that the judgment be quashed. Judge Ellen K. Raedy refused and Mrs. Wise took the case to the Court of Appeals.

No Proof of Service

Justice Justin Miller found no fault with the Small Claims Branch rule that service is made by delivery of a summons to the defendant by registered mail or by refusal of the defendant to receive the registered mail summons. However, said Justice Miller, there was no showing that Mrs. Wise got the letter, received information about it, or refused to receive it.

"In other words," said the opinion, "the record fails to show exactly the things which it should show, in order to comply with the statute, with the rule (of court) and with the requirements of due process."

Chief Justice D. Lawrence Groner and Justice Fred Vinson concurred in the decision. Justice Miller remarked that the decision "will not defeat the purpose" of the Small Claims Court Act, even if evasion of registered mail summons is widespread, because the law provides other means of service. Mail service costs 20 cents and service by a marshal costs 50 cents. Miller suggested that commercial message services might be used at a cost of about 25 cents.

Judge Cayton Pleased

Judge Nathan Cayton, of the Municipal Court, who wrote the Small Claims Court Act, said the higher court's decision "clarified the procedure we must follow when a defendant refuses the notice."

Judge Cayton's statement said in part:

"I am delighted with the decision. It will save litigants about $6,000 a year in costs—the difference between postage fees and marshal's fees. The Court of Appeals has upheld the validity of the statute providing for registered mail service in the Small Claims Court. It has upheld our right to make rules and upheld the rules we have made for registered mail service to promote the purposes of the act. It has upheld the validity of judgments based upon registered mail notices, even when a defendant has refused to accept the notice. It has repudiated the contention that a defendant may defeat a court action by the simple dodge of refusing notice. It helps establish registered mail service as a valid, simple, business-like effective method of court notice. The decision has clarified the procedure we must follow when a defendant refuses the notice. I am confident the Postoffice Department will cooperate in helping us to comply with the procedure prescribed by the Court of Appeals.

"Although this ruling affects less than 1 per cent of all small claims cases, it is a happy circumstance that even in this small number all procedural doubt has been removed and our course definitely charted by our highest court. While the Court of Appeals orders the case to be reopened in order to resolve a procedural question, it upholds the small claims law and the rule on registered mail and indicated that Judge Raedy was correct in her general interpretation of both."

Motorboat Speedster Forfeits Collateral

A 19-year-old youth charged with speeding in a motorboat forfeited $10 collateral yesterday when he failed to appear in Traffic Court to answer the charge.

Warren E. Barwell, of 1008 Douglas street northeast, was arrested by Harbor Policeman C. A. Parker Sunday in the Washington Channel of the Potomac River. The policeman charged Barwell with traveling 22 miles per hour as he passed the excurion steamer Mount Vernon which was turning into her dock.

Speed limit in the channel is 6 miles an hour.

Stolen Car Sighted Third Time, Chased, Escapes

For the third time since the car was stolen on July 4 police yesterday spotted, but were unable to overtake a heavy blue cabriolet after a wild chase in the vicinity of Rock Creek Church road and the Soldiers' Home.

A metropolitan police scout car lost out in pursuit when the fugitive car headed through Rock Creek Park at high speed.

Park police were unable to locate the car, which is being driven by a white man who must be in possession of several sets of plates—for each of the three times it has been spotted the car has carried different stolen tag numbers.

2 Legislators Get Traffic Tickets Fixed

Reps. Beam and Coffee Among 86 Having Summons Adjusted

Representative Harry P. Beam (Democrat), of Illinois, was among 86 persons whose traffic tickets were adjusted last week, according to a report made yesterday by Maj. Ernest W. Brown.

The Congressman's ticket was for parking too close to a corner. It was canceled at his request.

Also appearing on Maj. Brown's "Traffic Primer" last week was the name of Representative John M. Coffee (Democrat), of Washington, who arranged a warning for his wife, Lillian, after she had been charged with parking overtime.

68 Warnings, 18 Canceled

Five persons escaped fines by pleading diplomatic immunity. There were 64 warnings and 18 tickets canceled outright.

Two persons who said they suffered broken arms were pardoned for overtime parking. They were Theodore W. Brown, 1510 First street northwest, and Carl K. Leibe, District Heights, Md.

A member of the Animal Rescue League, George W. Brown, 78 P street northwest, was pardoned for parking during restricted hours when he explained that he had called to get a crippled animal.

Dark Night Is Excuse

It was a "dark, rainy night," explained George J. Rowe, 4611 Forty-fourth street northwest, who talked himself out of a fine for parking too close to a stop sign when he said he couldn't see the sign.

Another successful excuse was that of Cecil H. McLendon, 125 Oglethorpe street, charged with parking during restricted hours, who was let off with a warning when he said he was attending cornerstone laying exercises at Emanuel Baptist Church.

Those who pleaded diplomatic immunity were: Jules Aubrey, 2633 Tenth street northwest; Senora Lila H. deCardera, Chiean Embassy; Augusto Tono, Colombian Embassy, 1520 Twentieth street northwest; Enrico Pennesse, Italian Embassy, 1601 Fuller street northwest, and Bert Nisonen, Finnish Legation, 2146 Wyoming avenue northwest.

Permission Sought To Alter Trolleys

The Capital Transit Co. yesterday applied to the Public Utilities Commission for permission to convert 15 conventional type street cars from two to one man operation.

PUC Secretary James L. Mar-vestigate the application and a public hearing on the question would be held at a later date. The one-man cars would be used during rush hours, the transit company reported.

Policeman Dies After Virginia Hit-Run Crash

5th Precinct Officer Succumbs of Broken Neck, Skull Fracture

Victim of a hit-and-run driver, Policeman Julius E. Fleischhauer, 42, of the Fifth Precinct, died at 9:55 p. m. yesterday in Emergency Hospital.

The officer suffered a broken neck and a fractured skull early Sunday when an automobile struck him and two other Washington men as they stood beside their cars near Triangle, Va.

Fleischhauer and the others, Carl Hardison, of 12 R street northeast, and Samuel Walters, 27, of 32 R street northeast, were discussing a minor accident which involved the automobiles of the policeman and Walters.

Mrs. Fleischhauer, who was driving with her husband to their cottage at Colonial Beach when the accident occurred, said later she took the officer to the Marine Hospital at Quantico before bringing him to Washington but that he was refused admittance there because he was a civilian.

Fleischhauer had been a member of the Washington police for 23 years.

Retrieved Stolen Bicycles

He had served variously as a foot and scout car patrolman, motorcycle traffic officer and plainclothes detective. At the time of his death he was a foot patrolman.

Connected with the detective bureau when bicycling was at its height, he was one of the original members of the squad detailed to recovery of stolen bicycles and made "an outstanding record" as such, his superiors on the force said last night.

A native of Washington, Fleischhauer was a son of the late Julius Fleischhauer, who for many years operated an oyster restaurant at North Capitol and Myrtle streets. He attended Blake School and spent two years at business high school.

In addition to his wife, the former Miss Lillian Owens, of Washington, he is survived by two children of a former marriage, Julius Fleischhauer, jr., and Billie May Fleischhauer. They made their home at Arlington, Va.

Flags at Washington police stations will fly at half-staff today in the officer's honor.

Dog Owner Too Smart, Law's Wording Changed

Norfolk, Va., July 16 (AP).—Better enforcement of the local ordinance prohibiting dogs from running at large is expected as a result of city council's deletion of the word "allow" from the law.

Owners had been winning dismissal of charges against them by testifying they did not "allow" their dogs to leave home.

Greenbelt's Fish No Suckers, 70 Anglers Find

Surprised fish in Greenbelt's (Md.) well-stocked lake have encountered 70 fishermen equipped with hooks, lines and special permits since the season opened two weeks ago, marking the first time angling has been allowed in the community.

Still in the experimental stage, the Greenbelt Fishing Project is a complicated affair.

Prospective fishermen first obtain a State license for $1.25, then buy a Greenbelt one-day permit for 50 cents. If Junior goes along, he may submerge a worm for 25 cents. Boats are furnished by the city fathers while they last.

The fish, which have not been too cooperative as yet, are descendants of the Bureau of Fisheries' finest brought to the lake in 1936. More fish will be added next spring by the bureau, subsidized by Greenbelt's fast-growing permit fund.

Anyone with a Maryland license may fish in the lake, according to Recreation Director Vincent C. Holochwast. An attendant is on duty during fishing hours—from 5 to 10 a. m. and 4 to 8 p. m., on Wednesdays, Saturdays and Sundays.

Complications to this otherwise flawless scheme are:

Not more than eight permits (they are good for only one day) will be issued to the same persons during the season.

Statistics must be furnished at the end of the day's fishing on such things as number of undersized fish released, bait used, anglers' address, length of fish caught, species, etc.

Not more than four bass of legal size may be caught, nor more than 10 yellow perch, 10 sunfish, 10 catfish, or 8 crappie.

This third provision has caused no inconvenience yet.

SEC Asked To Amend Pepco Plan

D. C. Utility, Capital Transit Affected by Moves Of Holding Firm

Legal maneuvering by the North American Co. yesterday indicated that the wide-flung utilities holding company might attempt to retain control over the Potomac Electric Power Co. and the Capital Transit Co. instead of releasing them to local control as expected.

The Securities and Exchange Commission, in a hearing yesterday, gave the giant holding company permission to amend its voluntary integration plan, under which it would have set up two major systems, but would have released its controlling 89.78 stock in the Washington Railway & Electric Co. The latter organization, in turn, holds all the common stock of Pepco and half that of Capital Transit.

The integration plan had been submitted to the Securities and Exchange Commission May 16 in compliance with the "detah sentence" clause of the Holding Company Act.

Status Changed

By its decision yesterday, the SEC granted North American Co. the right to include in the integration proceedings a description of the status of the holding company's Washington properties. The commission's action overruled objection by its counsel, Ralph C. Binford, that testimony regarding the Washington properties—Pepco and Capital Transit—was irrelevant in view of the company's integration plan which offered to dispose of the District utilities.

The integration plan, as submitted May 16, also contained a proposed merger of the Washington Electric & Railway Co. with Potomac Electric Power Co., which, in effect, would fuse the services that supply Washington with its electricity and transportation facilities. The rest of the vast holding company would be broken into two major systems, with one centered in St. Louis and the other in Cleveland.

'Death Clause' Challenged

During the hearing yesterday on North American's integration plan, S. P. Browning, jr., holdnig company counsel, contended that if the commission held the "death clause" to require disposition by North American of any assets, the question of the clause's constitutionality is falsed. The "death sentence" clause of the Holding Company Act requires the parent utility organizations to integrate their systems within reasonable geographical limits.

W. J. Lank, assistant development engineer with Pepco, testified as to the territory served by the company an das to its economic characteristics. The hearing will be continued today.

Mrs. Glass Better; They May Attend Convention Today

Mrs. Carter Glass, wife of the senior Senator from Virginia, was "so much improved," the Senator reported last night, that he expects to attend the Democratic National Convention in Chicago after all.

Senator Glass canceled his scheduled trip to Chicago Sunday because of his wife's illness.

"Mrs. Glass is much better and believes she will be able to start Tuesday afternoon," he said. "We'll go out together."

But the Senator said he had no plans, as reported, for placing the name of Postmaster General James A. Farley in nomination for the Presidency.

"I talked to Mr. Farley on the telephone this afternoon," said Glass. "Nothing was said about my nominating him. He hasn't asked me to do so. But if he should, I think I'd make the speech."

Correspondent's Mother Dies at 78

Funeral services for Mrs. Emma Field Leach, 78, mother of Paul R. Leach, sr., Washington correspondent for the Chicago Daily News, will be held at 2 p. m. today in Lafayette, Ind.

Mrs. Leach died Sunday in Lafayette after a long illness. She leaves another son, Donald A. Leach, of Tulsa, Okla. Also surviving are four grandchildren, Elizabeth, of Washington; Paul, jr., of Hammond, Ind., and Barbara and Donald, jr., of Tulsa.

20,000 Boys and Girls Fete Capper's Brithday

Topeka, Kans., July 15 (AP).—Twenty thousand boys and girls attended the seventy-fifth birthday of Senator Arthur Capper today.

The parties, started 32 years ago, are the veteran Republican's pride and joy. The youngsters took over the bus system and a city park. Capper mingled with them, watching them frolic on free carnival rides and devour ice cream and soda pop.

Science Finds There's Rhythm In the Sun's Heat Waves

Smithsonian Data Shows Changes Have A Definite Pattern

Let the moon have romance. The sun's got rhythm.

And yesterday the Smithsonian Institution found three Harvard University mathematicians had struck the groove. They reported the "solar constant" isn't constant—that it fluctuates as surely as a maestro's baton in a march by Sousa.

The "constant," which is a measure of the sun's heat output, experienced "at least six periodic fluuctuations in a ten-year stretch," it was found. And the fluctuations weren't hit and miss; they formed a perfect pattern of rhythm.

The three Harvard men—Theodore E. Sterne, Karl F. Guthe and Walter O. Roberts—reported all this to the Smithsonian, because they used the institutions figures in their calculations. The figures represented sun observations covering an interval of 15 years.

WHAM!
Oooooh!!
WOW!!
WHEE!

The Smithsonian passed the report along without comment, or practical suggestion for using the new-found rhythm.

"The Harvard observers were concerned only with determining whether solar radiation actually does fluctuate," said the Smithsonian. "The only other possible hypothesis would be the highly improbable one of systematic errors."

The sun doesn't err; it just goes truckin' along.

D. C. Women Form Military Training Unit

'Green Guardesses' To Practice Shooting, Study Defense Tasks

Nearly 70 women, most of them clutching $1 and $5 bills for deposits on uniforms, last night enlisted in an organization to be known as the "Green Guardesses," which will be devoted to military drill and rifle practice.

The recruits came from more than 225 Government workers, business women and housewives, ranging in age from the early 20's to the middle 50's, who came to a meeting in the Odd Fellows Hall, 419 Seventh street northwest, at the call of Mrs. Virginia Nowell, 1747 Church street northwest.

Mrs. Nowell told the group that they would receive free training in the following courses in addition to small arms instruction: Motor repairs, first aid, canteen cookery, knitting, bicycle riding, signals.

Shooting Instructor

She said funds for paying the organization's expenses, including the salary of a full-time shooting instructor, would be realized through the sale of uniforms. She said the sale price of $9.50 each for the uniforms is $3 below the usual retail price, and that the uniforms were being bought in bulk and sold to members through a Washington store.

"The difference between the retail and the wholesale price will pay expenses of the organization for a year," Mrs. Nowell told the women. "We may ask you for a dollar at the end of a year."

She emphasized that purchase of uniform is not compulsory, although there will be come curtailment of activities for members without uniforms. With a $5 deposit, recruits are guaranteed delivery of a uniform. With $1 they signified intention to purchase and entitled themselves to full participation in the program.

May Hold Benefits

For members unable to buy uniforms, Mrs. Nowell said, an attempt will be made to raise money for their purchase through benefits.

Julian B. Cullins, laundry superintendent at Glenn Dale Sanitarium and past adjutant of Almas Temple of the Shrine, was introduced as drillmaster.

The women voted to hold their first drill from 8 to 10 tonight. Mrs. Nowell announced she had obtained the use of McKinley High School stadium for the purpose.

After explaining that the police department would be unable to provide shooting instruction as announced because of the large enrollment, Mrs. Nowell said a pistol and rifle expert had been engaged for her by Sergt. Sheldon McKee, police pistol expert.

All other training, she said, will be by volunteer instructors and will be given without charge. A Washington undertaking establishment, she declared, will provide an ambulance for training and several garages have agreed to instruct women in motor repair.

Film Stars to Arrive Today in Charlottesville

Charlottesville, Va., July 15 (AP).—Miss Madeleine Carroll and Fred MacMurray, stars of the Paramount motion picture, "Virginia," will arrive here tomorrow evening from New York, it was learned today.

Also coming tomorrow will be about 150 persons, including cast and crew, in addition to those who are already here. Most of them are from Hollywood, but some are coming from New York.

Church Fiesta Tonight

The thirtieth annual midsummer fiesta of the Church of the Nativity, 1340 Massachusetts avenue southeast, will be held tonight and Wednesday on the church lawn, from 8 to 11 o'clock.

Citizens Open Drive to Free D. C. of Litter

Slums Are Wherever Trash Is Tossed, Group Declares

Citizens' efforts to make "Washington the beautiful" worthy of its name moved forward yesterday with the revelation of plans of the District Cleanliness Association to "enlist every aavilable District citizen" in a campaign to clean trash and refuse from the city's streets and alleys.

Washington's slums exist wherever crumpled papers and empty bottles litter streets, parks and private yards, said Jesse Suter, vice president of the organization, which was incorporated last month.

A Citizens Group

Created by a group from the Dupont Citizens Associaton headed by Dr. Harry A. Garfield, the District Cleanliness Association was formed on the pattern of the New York City Cleanliness Association. Dr. Garfield has been elected its first president, and other officers announced yesterday by Suter include Mrs. R. Thomas West, secretary; Hoffman Philip, treasurer, and Rear Admiral C. R. Train, assistant treasurer.

All persons joining the association must sign a pledge stating "I pledge myself not to add, through carelessness or otherwise, to the litter in the streets, parks, parking spaces, alleys or vacant lots of Washington."

General membership in the organization costs $1; contributing membership, $2; sustaining membership, $5; and patron's membership, $10. The money will go toward a permanent headquarters with an executive secretary in charge, Suter said. Temporary offices are in Room 425 of the Star Building.

Autoists Blamed

"Groundwork is being laid this summer to open up a strong organization in the fall," Suter said in describing wide interest already shown in the formation of the organization.

Motorists who throw trash out of their autos while driving through District streets are the greatest offenders, members of the association believe. They emphasized that the large numbers of people coming here to take Government jobs for the first time "must begin their education in public cleanliness the moment they enter the city."

Henrico Launches Drive Against Quarry Swimming

Richmond, Va., July 15 (AP).—Henrico authorities asked the owners of all abandoned stone quarries in the county today for full police power and the right to arrest on sight persons found trespassing on the property or swimming in the deep water-filled pits.

The action was taken as a safety project and was a result of the drowning last month of a young Richmond couple in a Bryan Park quarry.

Shoremen Live 4.2 to a Home

Salisbury, Md., July 15 (AP).—William E. Lednum, district supervisor of census, said today the Eastern Shore's 194,993 residents live in 52,296 different housing units.

The units include homes, apartments, rooms, trailers, houseboats, cottages, shanties and tents.

A total of 4,971 dwelling places were listed as vacant. On the basis of occupied dwelling places, the Shoremen are living 4.2 to a home.

Wicomico County led the other eight Shore counties with 9,740 housing units. Dorchester was next with 7,270.

Gas Tax Rise In District Seen Doomed

Senator Overton Joins Opposition; Increase Appears Blocked This Year

Any move to increase the District gasoline tax in the Seventy-sixth Congress will be blocked by influential members of the Senate and House District Committee, it was indicated yesterday as Senator Overton (Democrat), of Louisiana, joined the opposition.

Objections to the tax hike have come from Representatives Dirksen (Republican), of Illinois, and Nichols (Democrat), of Oklahoma, and other members have suggested that the whole matter go over until next year.

Representative Poage (Democrat), of Texas, chairman of the special subcommittee making the investigation, was in Texas, but his office said that no replies have been received to his invitations to the Governors of Maryland and Virginia to attend a conference in Washington August 6.

Senator Overton, chairman of the Senate subcommittee on District appropriations, said an increase of one or two cents a gallon in the District gas tax is unnecessary. The highway fund is sufficient, he said, and the diversion of part of this revenue to the general fund would result in the loss of $700,000 a year in Federal highway aid.

Overton said he did not agree with Poage that Maryland and Virginia might be induced to improve the highways leading into Washington. Such improvements, he said, will be effected only if the residents of the State demand them.

Poage, in inviting the governors to the conference, had said he would ask for assurance that the States would improve the main highways out of the Capital if the District gas tax were brought into line with their higher levies.

Guard Head Hits Plan to Release Married Members

Richmond, Va., July 15 (AP).—Col. J. Fulmer Bright, Richmond's bachelor mayor and Virginia's senior regimental commander, disagreed today with the War Department's plan of permitting married National Guardsmen to quit the service.

"Nothing would please the enemies of the Nation more than to learn that we are excusing those already in the military service," he asserted, adding that "the entire manpower" of the Nation should be at the disposal of the Government.

Speaking as commanding officer of the First Infantry Regiment, Virginia National Guard, and not as a single man, Col. Bright also urged immediate passage of a selective service act "so that all men of proper military age and physically fit should be required to make whatever sacrifice is necessary in the interest of national defense."

Slugging Nats Topple Tribe From Lead, 8-6

Sid Hudson Takes Sixth Game in Row

Victory Sends Nats From Cellar to 6th Place; Rick Ferrell Is Star of Triumph

By Shirley Povich.
Post Staff Writer

Sidney Hudson, who never saw a big league ball game until April, made his presence felt in American League circles again yesterday. By pitching his sixth straight victory for the Nats—an 8-to-6 job against Cleveland—he messed up the league standings for several clubs.

He hauled the Indians out of the lead and enabled the Detroit Tigers, coincident with their victory at Philadelphia, to take over. His triumph was bad news, too, to the Browns and Athletics, what with the Nats leaving the cellar and vaulting into sixth place.

The gangling, somber-faced kid from Florida found himself pitted against Al Milnar, who carried a record of 12 victories and 3 defeats timely batting outbursts by the Nats he outlasted four Cleveland pitchers.

Wobbly at Finish

Hudson held the Indians to seven hits, but he was staggering at the finish, after moving through the first five innings without allowing a hit. After threatening to dissipate an early 6-0 lead, he was forced to bend himself to his labors to get away with the ball game.

Milnar lasted only three innings against the Nats, and the man who hastened his exit was Rick Ferrell who delivered the important blow of a five-run uprising in the third inning. With two out and the bases full, Ferrell swatted a long two-bagger against the fence in left center and produced three important runs.

Hudson found time also to lend a hand with the Nats' batting. He contributed two of their 11 hits, notably a two-bagger in the eighth inning that fetched the Nats their last run at a time when he appeared to need runs.

Retires First Ten Foes

He retired the first 10 men to face him in order and the Indians failed to reach base until Weatherly was safe on a wild throw by Pofahl with one out in the fourth. The optimistic were entertaining faint visions of a no-hit performance until Rollie Hemsley led off the sixth with a two-bagger against the left center wall.

Jimmy Bloodworth and Buddy Myer set the Nats' first run in motion when they led off the second inning with singles. The run scored when Bodreau muffed Pofahl's high-hopping grounder, but Mack started a double play on Ferrell's roller to avert further damage at that time.

Nine Nats went to bat in the uproarious third inning which produced five Washington runs. Case led off with a single to left, and Lewis drew a walk. Walker was no help with a short fly to right, but with Bonura at bat, Case and Lewis pulled a double steal. Then Milnar

Krakky Pitches Today as Nats Seek Sweep of Series

The Nats today will attempt to make a sweep of the three-game series with the Indians by pitching Joe Krakauskas in the series' finale.

The big left-hander is making his first start since being batted out by the Athletics in the sixth inning 10 days ago after pitching hitless ball through the first five innings.

Manager Oscar Vitt, of the Indians, was undetermined on his pitching choice last night, but indicated that either right-handed Jack Dobson or Southpaw Harry Eisenstat would go to the mound.

Chisox Stave Off Rally, End Yanks' Streak, 3-2

Champions Chase Smith in Eighth With Two-Run Uprising, but Lose First Game in 5 Starts; Joe Kuhel's 14th Homer Is Deciding Blow

By the Associated Press

New York, July 15.—The Chicago White Sox staved off an eighth-inning uprising by the New York Yankees today to win a 3-to-2 decision and snap a four-game winning streak of the world champions.

Lefty Ed Smith, who has been one of New York's tormentors all season, blanked the Yanks on five hits until the eighth, and when they finally solved him it was too late. The Yanks put together four hits for two runs and chased Smith in that inning, but Pete Appleton took over and ended the threat by forcing Pinch-hitter Tom Henrich to foul out with the bases loaded.

The deciding run proved to be Joe Kuhel's fourteenth home run in the eighth inning. The White Sox collected their first run in the third on Smith's single, a walk and a double by Mike Kreevich. The other came in the seventh, when Luke Appling singled and went to third as Charley Keller let the ball get away, and Bob Kennedy singled him home.

Cards' 20-Hit Attack Routs Bee Hurlers

By the Associated Press

St. Louis, July 15.—St. Louis' Cardinals pounded out 20 hits off two pitchers to slaughter the Boston Bees, 12 to 2, for their fifth straight victory.

Ernie Koy, who came to St. Louis from Brooklyn in the Joe Medwick trade, got four, as did Mickey Owen and Joe Orengo. But despite the hit barrage there were no home runs.

Boston scored first, in the second inning, Eddie Miller singling Carvel Rowell home after the latter had doubled and gone to third on Chet Ross' bunt which rolled down the first base line for a safety.

The Cards took the lead in the third. Jimmy Brown opened with a triple and scored on Terry Moore's double. The first of Koy's four hits drove Moore home.

Savold knocked Miske down twice for nine counts in the first round. A right to the jaw ended the bout after 2 minutes 24 seconds in the third round.

Big Inning Helps Tigers Beat A's, 9-8

Detroit Retakes League Lead; Score Eight Runs in 4th

By the Associated Press

Philadelphia, July 15.—Detroit scored eight runs in the fourth inning today, but it took a sixth-inning home run by Rudy York and Paul Trout's relief pitching to give the Tigers a 9-to-8 victory over the Athletics.

The victory put Detroit back into first place in the American League, as Washington beat Cleveland.

The Tigers got their eight runs in the fourth on five hits, one Hank Greenberg's seventeenth homer with two on, coupled with three Philadelphia errors.

Although he struck out the side with the bases full in the fourth, Rookie Southpaw Hal Newhouser weakened and was knocked out by the Athletics in the sixth.

Trout came on to weather a seventh inning rally by the Athletics and save the game for Newhouser.

York's round-tripper was his twelfth of the year.

Two-Round 'Comedy' Bout Won by Jack

Wrestler Bll Curry Beaten in Detroit; 4,900 Fans Jeer Bout

By the United Press

Detroit, July 15.—Jack Dempsey and Bull Curry engaged in one of boxing's wildest burlesques tonight before the old Manassa mauler flattened his grimacing, grunting opponent after 1 minute 5 seconds of the second round of a scheduled six-round exhibition.

Just before the bell in the first round both fighters fell out of the ring on top of John Hettche, Michigan boxing commissioner. Hettche, after recovering his hat and his glasses, took a couple of quick jabs at Curry before the former wrestler climbed back into the ring.

The blows which put Curry down for the count of 10 were two rights to the heart, both of which lacked power.

A few seconds after Referee Sam Hennessey raised Dempsey's arm Curry darted across the ring and hit his opponent on the back. Dempsey spun around, pushed Curry back across the mat and kicked him a few times as he slid under the ropes. The crowd of 4,900 jeered the comedy for several minutes.

Dempsey defeated Curry in his second attempt to convince fans that he is on the comeback trail. Pudgy, ponderous and puffing, Dempsey flailed his arms in the manner of a wrestler and grappled with Curry several times in the first round. Curry landed only one punch, a long left hook just before his knockout.

Curry used wrestler's tactics, keeping his arm around Dempsey's neck in the clinches in a choking grip. Hennessey warned him twice. Once Curry grabbed Dempsey's legs and attempted to throw him out of the ring but Dempsely clung to the ropes.

The match, sanctioned by the Michigan Boxing Commission, had all the aspects of a comic opera. From the first bell, it was apparent that it would be a repetition of the fiasco at Atlanta two weeks ago when Dempsey knocked out Cowboy Luttrell.

Phil Nearly Knocked Out In 9th Round

Largest Fight Crowd In Two Years Watches Scientific Bout

By Al Hailey

Phil Furr's last hopes for another shot at the world's welterweight championship were dashed to earth by Louis Kid Cocoa last night at Griffith Stadium in a ten-round battle that taught the aging veteran a bitter lesson:

That it takes more than mere ambition to get to the top in the fight world.

Ambition was about all the 30-year-old former soldier who fought Champion Barney Ross almost to a standstill for the title four years ago had last night, however, and the decision for the Puerto Rican was unanimous.

Washington's largest fight crowd in more than two years, 6,500 strong, paid out $7,371 to see Phil stage his desperate attack on the Puerto Ricans' No. 1 ranking in the 147-pound division.

Furr Almost Kayoed

What they saw was a rousing battle between two left-hand sluggers and Furr reeling about the ring in the ninth round on the verge of a knockout from Cocoa's trip-hammer onslaught.

Phil never had a chance to use his famed right hand which all but slaughtered Steve Mamakos in his last appearance here, for the Cocoa Kid was too careful, too skillful, to leave himself open. It was Cocoa's forty-fifth straight victory.

Only twice did Phil threaten to upset the odds that were 3-to-1 against him. Trailing badly and his face a raw pulp, Furr came out in the eighth and put up a wild attack that had the Kid hanging on briefly. Phil was loosing his left jab on Cocoa's tender nose to great advantage, and repeatedly he hooked it to the Kid's kidney and stomach, but he couldn't get set to throw his right.

Cocoa Rocks Him

Turning point came in the sixth when Cocoa drove three sharp jabs into Phil's face that snapped his head back and then came in with a terriffic left hook that tore open the flesh under Phil's right eye. Phil was staggered, and from that point Cocoa appeared to gain, but for the brief let-up in the eighth.

Phil started out as though he meant to end it in the fifth and whipped in a stinging right hand to Cocoa's kidney and a hard left to the nose. He drew blood from the Puerto Rican's nose and had Cocoa covering that appendage the remainder of the fight.

Up close it was a real fight all the way, but the fans in the upper tiers evidenced impatience with the two left jab stylists whose fighting forms were almost identical. Furr just couldn't keep up with Cocoa, however. He was hulled around the ring, sometimes lifted off his feet, by the stronger and more skillful Puerto Rican. Withal, Phil fought a smart battle, yet one that was to Cocoa's liking. He carried the fight to the Kid, and the Kid merely kept him off balance with superior reach and punched the fight out of him with harder hitting.

The Post score sheet gave rounds three and eight to Furr, called two and five even. The rest was Cocoa's. Furr's loss dispelled hopes of bringing Henry Armstrong to Washington for a welter title fight in August. Phil weighed 147; Cocoa, 148¾.

In a sad anticlimax, Tony Ferrara, of Baltimore, took a 6-round verdict over Washington's Frankie Wills.

Hudlin Is Signed By Giant Club

Chicago, July 15 (AP).—The New York Giants today signed Willis Hudlin, 34-year-old right-handed pitched recently released by the Washington Senators.

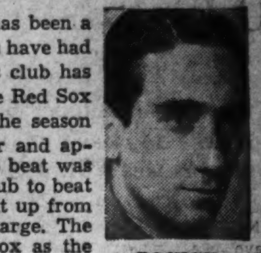
Hudlin was taken on by the Senators as a free agent after being given his unconditional release by Cleveland. To make room for the veteran, the Giants sent Pitcher Hy Vandenberg to their Jersey City farm in the International League.

WASHINGTON: JULY 16, 1940

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

You'll notice, please, that the Yankees this morning are a mere 5½ games out of first place, and the three teams in front of 'em are probably aware by this time that the club to lick for the pennant is the team that wears "New York" across its collective chest.



POVICH

For more than half the season it has been a merry scramble in which the Yankees have had little voice, but now Joe McCarthy's club has taken on new importance. When the Red Sox leaped out in front at the start of the season with the Yanks occupying the cellar and apparently out of the fight, the team to beat was the Red Sox. Boston was still the club to beat when the Indians flashed in front, but up from behind the Detroit Tigers began to charge. The Tigers replaced the skidding Red Sox as the chief threat to Cleveland's lead.

Unless they are so stupid that they can't recognize the thunder in the rear, the Indians and Tigers know now where the trouble is coming from. Not from the Red Sox, but the Yanks. Joe McCarthy's club is beginning to roll, and down through the years, at least since 1921, they've been the best money club in baseball. Only lately have they started to hit in the manner to which they have become accustomed.

Joe DiMaggio has taken up the torch for the Yanks with a recent slugging display. He is the fellow who has been rallying 'em. You'll note that he is now hitting a respectable .317 in contrast to an average of less than .300 that weighted him down early in the season. DiMaggio has begun to take up a lot of the slack in that Yankee batting order which shows Frankie Crosetti hitting only .189, Babe Dahlgren only .240 and Red Rolfe .255.

This is the year when the Yankees would not win the pennant, save for the fact that they don't have much to beat. It is the kind of a league in which the Red Sox, with virtually no pitching, are able to hang within four games of the lead. The Yankees, with pitching, certainly figure to be the best in that kind of company.

This is the year when, with the Yankees none too formidable, the Cleveland Indians will muff the pennant if they fail to win it. The Indians are getting pitching that exceeds the fondest expectations of Manager Oscar Vitt and ought to be a solid kind of club, but they are betraying swell pitching and a superb infield by a lack of hitting. If Cleveland was hitting the ball it would be so far in front of the procession that none could catch 'em.

The chief disappointment on the Cleveland club is Ken Keltner, who a year ago seemed to be the best third baseman in the league from every standpoint, with his hitting his biggest recommendation. But Keltner is having a horrible time of it at bat this year. He is hitting a meager .230, 100 points below his average of a year ago, and the Indians had reason to count heavily on some potent slugging by Keltner. His slump has come in a year when it could hurt the Indians the most.

Detroit hasn't won many supporters by its recent play in the East. When the Tigers muffed a chance to take over the league lead by dropping a double-header to the Athletics the other day, it was a bitter sort of dose for Detroit folks. Teams that are going places in the pennant race don't muff their chances so completely. The Tigers admittedly have power, but some of their other supposed assets won't bear too much scrutiny.

Dick Bartell, at shortstop for the Tigers, has infused a fighting spirit in an otherwise dead-fish infield, but all the fiery spirit in the world is no substitute for spring in the legs. Bartell has lost his, and too many balls are going through his shortstop position for the comfort of Manager Del Baker. Charley Gehringer never complains and is playing his same brilliant game at second base, but the fact is he is in pain with a lame back. Detroit doesn't have a first-class third baseman, and young Harold Newhouser, their prize rookie pitcher, has begun to lose his lustre.

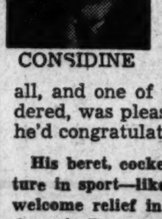
By this time, the Red Sox can be virtually dismissed as pennant threats despite the fact they are in third place and ahead of the Yankees. Boston's pitching simply is bad, and there is a suspicion that the Red Sox batting has been more than a wee bit overrated. Joe Cronin's club is only fourth in team batting with an average of .278, and the other day at Fenway Park with their own leftfield looking 'em in the face, the Red Sox couldn't stir up a single run in a double-header with the lowly White Sox. Savvy?

So that's the kind of a league the Yankees are in this season and if they don't come up with another pennant they're no fit club to be wearing that "New York" across its—shall we say—collective chest.

On the Line

With CONSIDINE

New York, July 15.—It's hard to think of Jean Borotra as a petty Nazi official. He was appointed director of amateur sports for German-controlled France the other day by a gent with the alphabet soup name of Jean Ybarnegaray, France's minister for youth and family. It's dollars to doughnuts Borotra must be playing ball with the Nazis or he wouldn't even hold the position he now holds.



CONSIDINE

Borotra always seemed more American than French. He spoke our language better than most natives, and his zeal for work and play was our type of zeal, rather than the Old World's. He'd complete some big transaction—he owned and sold a special type of gas pump—jump into a plane and fly off to a tennis tournament and spend his nervous energy on the court with fabulous leaps and dives. He was probably the most spectacular player of them all, and one of the most human, for he swore when he blundered, was pleased as a child when he won and meant it when he'd congratulate someone who beat him.

His beret, cocked at a racy angle on his rakish head, became a fixture in sport—like Babe Ruth's belly and Tunney's accent. He was a welcome relief in a deadpan sport, and a great fellow off the court. Once, in Europe, when Mary Garden and Bill Tilden were called on to sing the "Star-Spangled Banner" at some ceremony, Borotra sensed that neither of them knew the words, so he edged over and drowned out their uncertain mumbles, and sang it letter-perfectly himself.

The French are the most reasonable of the races, so perhaps Borotra has seen the futility of battling against his country's fate and has shrugged and gone along with the new rulers. But it doesn't sound like the Borotra we knew.

We wonder, too, what has become of the other two members of the musketeers of French tennis—Rene Lacoste and Henri Cochet. Lacoste would seem to be in peril, or at least his means of support would seem to be. He and his family owned the Hispano-Suiza plant, long since seized by the Germans. Cochet owns a string of sports stores. We doubt if there will be much activity in that line in famine-looming Europe for a generation.

M. Ybarnegaray announced, along with the appointment of Borotra, that he was dissolving all professional sports in France.

Speaking of France, we'd like to bring to your attention the abject needs of a certain refugee camp at Lake Annecy which for 15 years was a beloved summer camp for many United States youngsters. It was the MacJannett Camp. It was run by Don MacJannett, a big, pleasant New Englander and by Lynn Woodworth, former Indiana University all-around athlete and a well-known high school athletic director. Boys and girls from nearly all 48 States made the MacJannett Camp, for the past 15 years, a slice of healthy American youth in France. The American kids taught their games to the foreign children who came to the camp, and to the French waifs of the nearby countryside.

When the Stukas and the Henkels broke up the towns in their pitiless paths, hundreds of French children were made orphans. In the terror of the bombs and the advance of the Germans, they roamed the fields and roads, homeless, parentless and little better than animals at bay. MacJannett sought out the nearest humane agency, the American Friends Service Committee, and turned over the entire camp. The Friends rounded up 250 children in really dire need and brought them to the camp—a haven in hell.

The Friends need dough to feed them, to keep them there in a sanctuary that has a playground, a diving board and a few other symbols of the American kids who were there in peace times. It costs the Friends about a quarter a day to feed each war-shattered child.

The address of the American Friends Service Committee is 20 South Twelfth street, Philadelphia.

Henry's Poor Training Cuts Odds to 5-9

Many Experts Believe Negro Is Headed for First Kayo as Lew Impresses With Punch

By the Associated Press

New York, July 15.—The wild waves went whacky along Jacobs Beach today.

The fight mob just couldn't get together on what's going to happen when Henry Armstrong and Lew Jenkins collide in the Polo Grounds' ring Wednesday night, in a battle that promises to be the biggest, financially, in Armstrong's sky-rocket career.

The fellows who make their meat and potatoes out of the business still were as wide apart as the top and bottom of a club sandwich when the lightweight champion and the welterweight bass put the finishing touches on their training today.

Two Things Definite

Two things, they believed, were definite:

1. Armstrong, woeful in training and no longer the little dark destroyer who held three championships simultaneously, will have to snap out of it in a hurry if he hopes to take care of the Texas thin man. He can't afford to fool around in the early going.

Jenkins, who came in suddenly from his mountain training camp at Grossinger's Lake to wind up his gym work at Stillman's, was punching just as well as ever—and he's riding now on a streak of eight straight knockouts.

Expect Same Henry

One funny thing about the whole setup was that, while one and all admit Armstrong has been cuffed around freely by his sparring partners, most of the fight managers who sun themselves along the Forty-ninth street sidewalk "beach" figure he'll be in there winging the same as ever come Wednesday. Yet, despite the opinion of these folks "in the know," the betting men continued to cut the price today. A week ago they had Hammerin' Hennery at 1 to 3 to take care of the newly crowned lightweight champion. Today yo uwere lucky to get 5 to 9.

On the strength of Jenkins' punching power and Armstrong's apathy in training, I pick Long-Shot Lew to stop Armstrong for the first time in his career somewhere along the 12-round route. This selection is made despite the warning of Eddie Mead, Hennery's stout Svengali, that Armstrong is going to wear Jenkins down with body punches and put him away in six or seven rounds.

Weights In Order

All the weight ballyhoo and hot air having been released in advance, the scales were called in today and showed everything just about as expected. Jenkins tipped the beam at 135, and Armstrong was 140 "on the nose."

As usual, Promoter Mike Jacobs refused to make a prediction about the gate. However, he admitted the advance sale has been better than for any fight this summer, not excluding the Joe Louis-Arturo Godoy party, and that Wednesday's war should make the turnstiles click more merrily than for any outing this year. If they do, there's a very good chance Henry will be performing before the biggest house he has ever drawn. His previous high was the $160,860 he and Barney Ross split two years ago.

Hymie Caplin, Jenkins' manager, laughed off a report that he and Lew's wife had had words over the training methods employed for this fight. And Mrs. J., a mighty surprised young woman when asked about it, "reckoned" someone had "thought that one up as a publicity stunt."

Texan Wins Title

Omaha, July 14 (INS).—Ed Brown, of Waco, Tex., today won the Midwest singles championship by defeating Nebraska State Champion Gayle Kellogg, of Omaha, 6—2, 1—6, 9—7, 8—6.

Makeshift Line-Up Blasts Out Total Of 15 Safeties

By the Associated Press

Boston, July 15.—A makeshift Boston Red Sox batting order cannonaded 15 hits off the services of four St. Louis Browns pitchers today to sweep their three-game series with a 10-6 triumph.

Jim Tabor, a bridegroom yesterday, led the Sox assault with three fierce singles, stole a base and scored two runs. Skipper Joe Cronin drove in another pair of tallies and treated himself to his ninth home run of the season, a single and a walk.

Eldon Auker started for the Browns, but the Hose gained ample vengeance for his two previous decisions over them by combing him for six hits and three runs before he was derricked in the second. Bill Cox took up from there and granted four hits and four runs when he was removed for a pinch hitter. Roxy Lawson and Emil Bildilli finished.

Herb Hash started for the Sox but weakened in the third, Joe Heving relieving with a masterful job for the rest of the distance. Manager Fred Haney and Coach Fred Hoffman were banished in the fourth after a lengthy debate with Umpire Joe Rue over the claim of Alan Strange that Johnny Peacock had tipped his bat on a third strike.

W. G. C., New Yorkers Split Swim Honors

Star Line-up

Here's the line-up for the three nationally known mermaids who dominated the women's division of the A. A. U. meet last night at the airport. Top to bottom are Dot Evans, unattached, Gloria Callen and Lorraine Fischer, of the Women's Swimming Association of New York

Arlington Men's Team Takes Title At Arport Pool

Washingtton Golf and Country Club and the Women's Swimming Association of New York divided top honors in the District A. A. U. meet last night at the airport, the former scoring 25 points to win the men's division, while the latter team registered 18 points to capture the women's title.

Main spring in Washington Golf and Country's drive to victory was Bill Wright, District free style indoor champ, who captured the 60-yard free style and swam anchor on the winning medley relay team. In the former event he continued to exert mastery over Brent Farber in a rivalry begun on the campus of the University of Virginia.

The winning Women's Swimming Association team was composed of two young ladies, but the representation was sufficient to garner 18 points, far outclassing the Penn A. C., which placed second with eight points.

The two representatives responsible for bringing victory to the New Yorkers were Misses Lorraine Fischer and Gloria Callen. Miss Fischer scored victories in the 60-yard breast stroke and 130-yard individual medley while Miss Callen's contribution consisted of a victory in the 60-yard backstroke.

Pressing the two New Yorkers for honors was Dot Evans, of Ardmore, Pa., now swimming unattached. Miss Evans won the 60-yard free style, placed second in the 60-yard breast stroke and 180-yard individual medley and registered a third place in the 60-yard backstroke.

Station WJSV Baseball Broadcaster

Sidney Hudson increases his lead in the Man of the Month contest following his victory over the Indians yesterday, but he was pressed for individual honors by Catcher Rick Ferrell. Points were distributed as follows:

To Hudson, 10 points, because he held the Indians hitless in the first five innings and finished with a seven-hit game, and because he contributed a single and double to the Nats' attack.

To Ferrell, eight points, because his double that scored three runs was the blow that clinched the ball game.

To Jimmy Bloodworth, five points, because he made two singles and a double, and figured in three Washington runs with his important third-inning single to deep left.

To George Case, three points, because he made two singles, scored a run, drove in a run, and stole third. The totals:

Cincinnati Hurler Outstays Pearson; Rizzo Homers in 9th

By the Associated Press

Cincinnati, July 15.—The league-leading Cincinnati Reds took another 1-run victory today, their second in two days from the Philadelphia Phillies, as Bucky Walters outstayed Ike Pearson for his thirteenth decision of the year. The score was 3 to 2.

Young Ike, a University of Mississippi product, checked about even with the Reds' ace for six innings and had the Cincinnati batters swinging over and under his assortment of curves and hoppers.

With the score tied at 1-all, the Reds finally got the jump on him in the seventh when Frank McCormick scratched a single and Ernie Lombardi, a dead-eye left-field hitter, scorched one into wide-open rightfield for a double to score Frank.

Dodgers Lose Ground In Split Twin-Bill

Whit Wyatt Wins First Game, 10-1; Pirates Beat Tot Presnell in Second As Flock Falls Three Games Behind

By the Associated Press

Pittsburgh, July 15.—The Brooklyn Dodgers and Pittsburgh Pirates divided a double-header today with the net result that the Dodgers dropped to three games behind the pace-setting Cincinnati Reds and the Pirates slipped to sixth place in the National League.

Whitlow Wyatt took charge of a 10-1 triumph by Brooklyn in the first game, holding the Pirates to ten scattered hits and himself contributing a home run, a double and a single toward the Dodgers' total of 17 safeties.

But the Pirates fought back in the nightcap, pouncing on Tot Pressnell for four runs in the second and third innings and hanging on to win, 4 to 3.

Bob Klinger went the route for his sixth victory, spreading ten hits, two less than the Pirates claimed from three Brooklyn hurlers.

I'M GOING OUT TO BOWL, Where I've Nothing to Buy....

I've actually lost weight this summer and enjoyed myself while doing it. One thing I like about bowling is that I don't have any expensive equipment to buy in order to roll.

You, too, will enjoy bowling in the pleasant environment of these modern air-conditioned alleys where expert instruction is always available.

"LOOK," says Colonel Hearty to his old friend, Major Lusty;
"There's a poster with a message to make my throat less dusty.
We've some Rams Head in our bucket that's mellow; clear and gold
That I'll warrant's as thirst quenching as the famous ales of old.
So let's share our great enjoyment when it's time we homeward go
By pleasing family and friends with a dozen cans or so."

Grey Wolf Beaten Out By a Head

$7 to $2 Shot, Under Strong Ride by Eddie Arcaro, Performs in Excellent Style

By the Associated Press

Empire City Race Track, Yonkers, N. Y., July 15.—Bill Farnsworth, rugged 5-year-old sprinter from the Tall Trees Stable of Mrs. Frank Navin, returned to the New York racing scene here today and scored a popular victory in the West Point (Class "C") Handicap. Shipped here following a successful campaign at Delaware Park, the Crack Brigade gelding showed his old class and speed to beat Mrs. A. F. Sherman's Grey Wolf by a head. Here Goes made the race a monopoly for lady owners when he carried Mrs. D. A. Buckley's silks to third place, a length behind.

Bill Farnsworth was a $7 for $2 choice and, under Eddie Arcaro's strong guidance, completed the abbreviated 6 furlongs in 1:08 4-5.

There was no sign of a let-up in the remarkable business being done at the current meeting as it entered its second half today. A washday crowd of 12,146 wagered $420,474 on the first five races.

Here Goes was the pacemaker into the last furlong. The gelding shook off Robert E. Lee in short order, after which Bill Farnsworth assumed the runner-up position. Grey Wolf began sluggishly and made up ground gradually.

Selections at Hagerstown

Dear Al: The second half of the Hagerstown meeting gets under way today. The half-mile season in Maryland certainly did a lot of clicking in the first week. The totalizer, electric starting gate, general improvements, better horses and excellent racing weather were all factors in sending crowds and wagering soaring. Jockey George Cardoza, the little colored boy who has ridden his way into the hearts of fans during the past two months, moves out of the apprentice class after he rides three more winners. Carson Kirk is another boy who is on the verge of losing the "bug," or the five pounds allowed for apprentices. Despite the fact that he was fined $50 for hitting Jockey Vesseli over the head with his whip, the best ride of the week was that of John Hernandez on Mariyah. Coming into the stretch, the New Orleans boy had two horses swerving in front of him. He tried to go to the inside and was blocked. The same thing happened when he tried to go between the leaders. He attempted to swing to the outside, but Vesseli's mount bore out. The ordinary jockey would have given up at this stage, but not Hernandez. He saw an opening on the rail approaching the wire and drove Mariyah into the narrow hole. He lunged forward with the game horse just in time to stick her nose on the wire—the winner. Walter Johnson, who used to pitch considerable ball for the Nats, was a visitor last week. He has thrown his hat in the ring for a seat in Congress. Further entry of the horse Bright Light will be refused at the meeting. He has gone back to his old habit of not choosing to run. Sam Mullendore, the Hagerstown horseshoe-pitching champion, was seen pitching some deuces into the mutuel windows. Frank Colley can't understand the new tote. They sell tickets and don't have any pay-off windows—at least, Frank has not been able to find them. What would a race week at Hagerstown be without Tubby Rives at the airport?

BILL.

First race—Tellemoff's off first appearance over this track was behind a winning entrymate. This field of juveniles seems to suit and I'm going to string along. Mr. Jim has been prominent in recent racing and gets in light. Valley Creek flashed speed once and could surprise.

Second race—Hurdy Gurdy knows the way around these small tracks and could be the right one in a rather open affair. Local Boy had foot at Charles Town and is going to be a factor. Boos Letter has worked well. Several on the also eligible list have a chance but are unlikely to see action.

Third race—Windsor Chief's early speed must be respected in this company. He may go to the top and stay there. Remolee has been freshened by a rest and is dangerous. Geodesian has been waiting for a spot and is a possible surprise.

Fourth race—Hiblaze did about everything asked at the other town and appears capable of carrying the 115-pound assignment to victory in this company. Way Out, with blinkers on, has improved with leaps and bounds. Small Devil and Never Home, on the reserve list, will be close if sent postward.

Fifth race—I believe Flag Etta is better than that last. Was hemmed in the rail for much of the route. The entry of Bellthorn and Real Money is formidable in both departments. Ace of Trumps should make a good showing and is going to be hard to beat with good racing luck.

Sixth race—Although mud would improve Petee Lad, I'm going to string along with him regardless of conditions. A very fit horse. Blue Cyclone may go to the top from the inside post position and be a threat. Sea Finn had a lot of trouble in that last. Gimpey and Artist would be factors but are doubtful starters.

Seventh race—Mahi and Stepping In represent the chief early speed of this party and I expect the two to fight it out. I prefer them in the order named. Maetake is a dangerous one on the reserve list.

Best bet—Petee Lad.

Suffolk Downs Feature Won By Limitation

Jockey Emery Holds Horse Together in Stretch; Scores by Neck

By the Associated Press

Boston, July 15.—Jockey Willie Emory, who scored his maiden victory last week, held Mrs. Emil Denemark's Limitation together in the stretch masterfully today to win a neck decision in the $1,400 allowance sprint feature at Suffolk Downs.

Emery took the Denemark filly to the top in the run down the back stretch and held her up there in the closing 100 yards to stave off the determined bids of Housework and Orcades.

Limitation covered the 6 furlongs in 1:11.4 and paid $10, $4.60 and $2.60. Housework returned $4.20 and $2.40. The show price was $2.20 on Orcades, which was coupled in the betting with Miss B. B. as the Mrs. V. Wyse entry.

In the secondary feature, an allowance dash for juveniles, T. D. Bul's Lechat scored a three-quarter length victory over Lemar Stock Farm's Marclaire, which had a half-length edge over Ben Lister's Bull Briar.

Hard-Riding Action as Polo Stars Battle for Charity

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

Stewart Glehart, of the Meadowbrook team (left), takes after Cecil Smith, of the Bostwick team, who was on the ball in match played at Meadowbrook Polo Club before 10,000 fans, the proceeds going to the Red Cross. Bostwick won, 9-6. Glehart and Smith are both ten-goal players. Smith scored twice in the match, and fed the ball to Pete Bostwick and Bobby Gerry for two other points

Giants Leave 16 Stranded, Lose to Cubs

By the Associated Press

Chicago, July 15.—The New York Giants gave Windy City fans a lesson in futility today as the Chicago Cubs won a 5-to-3 verdict on Hank Leiber's crashing three-run homer in the seventh.

The Giants outhit their rivals 15 to 7, but they left 16 runners stranded on the bases, just two short of the major league record. In three innings they were retired with the bases loaded and in two of them they failed to score.

For four innings the game was a scoreless struggle between Southpaws Larry French, of the Cubs, and Cliff Melton, of the Giants. Both were removed in the seventh and Charley Root got credit for the victory and Jim Lynn was charged with the defeat.

Chicago's first two runs came in the fifth on a single, Bill Herman's triple and a fly. The Giants tied up the score in the seventh on a single, a walk and Babe Young's double and tallied a final fruitless run in the eighth.

Cocoa Kid Beats Phil Furr Here

Hurst, fighting his eighth battle, amateur or professional, knocked out Irish Bob Riley, of Greensboro, N. C., with a terrific right straight to Riley's jaw in 1 minute and 40 seconds of the third of their scheduled six round joust.

As Hurst, handled by Al Foreman, danced in his corner, Announcer Jimmy Lake boomed out over the public address that the youngster is returning to Canada to fight for his country. The crowd gave him a tremendous ovation. Harry weighed 133¾ pounds to Riley's 138¾.

Ray Landis, Furr's lightweight protege, scored his fifth straight victory since turning pro in the opening four-rounder—a bloody technical knockout over Pete Sicho, of Los Angeles, in 1 minute, 45 seconds of the second. Both boys received cut eyes in the first round, and their faces were bloody masks at the end. Pete was floored for nine by a beautiful right cross just before the end.

Johnny Gee Sent To Albany Club

Pittsburgh, July 15 (AP).—Ailing Johnny Gee, 6-foot-9-inch left-hander of the Pittsburgh Pirates, will go to the Albany, N. Y., Club of the Eastern League, under option, President William E. Benswanger of the Pittsburgh Club announced tonight.

Gee, purchased last year from the Syracuse Club for $75,000, has been handicapped all year by a sore arm. He was returned to Syracuse under option, then sent back to the Pirates and placed on the sick list.

Goshen Race Is Captured By D. C. Pacer

By the Associated Press

Goshen, N. Y., July 15.—Grand circuit racing with mutual betting was staged at the historic half-mile track today for the first time, with a four-race program featured by the Village Farm $5,750 stake for 2-year-old pacers.

The race of the baby pacers was won by the favorite, Saratoga, owned by T. L. Gustin, of Holicong, Pa., and driven by the veteran Will Bull. A 1-to-9 favorite at the start, Saratoga was beaten in the first heat by Scot's Emilee, the winner paying $43.60 on $2 tickets. In the next two heats Saratoga was much the best.

Dale Hanover, which won the first division of the Trotting Club trot, was driven by youthful Johnny Caton and is owned by E. T. Gerry, chairman of the Harness Horse Racing Commission. The 1939 Hambletonian winner, Peter Astra, made his first start of the season and was favored but Dale Hanover had more homestretch speed.

The Goshen Driving Club trot handicap, amateur drivers, was won by Countess Christine, owned and driven by Dunbar Bostwick, Amy Jane, driven by Mrs. E. R. Harriman, beating her in the first heat.

A crowd of about 2,000 was out for the opening and mutual wagering was light in volume. The longest price of the day was $119.60, paid to place on Cyrus Martin in the second heat of the Trotting Club Pace.

Interior Nine Defeats D.G.S. In 8 Innngs

Interior Department Recreation Association defeated District Grocery Store, 7-2, yesterday in a Departmental Baseball League game on the Ellipse. The contest was limited to eight innings.

IDRA clinched the decision with a three-run outburst in the first inning and added single runs in the third and fourth and a final pair in the sixth. D. G. S. scored singly in the first and sixth.

Hawksworth, with a homer and single in two trips, and two runs scored was the winners' offensive star and the outstanding batter of the game. Lefty Jewett was the victorious pitcher, although he gave up seven safeties as compared to five that D. G. S. hurler Faircloth allowed IDRA.

Col. Hall Registers Perfect Trap Score

Col. J. R. Hall yesterday realized one of the ambitions of every trapshooter—to go through an entire event without a single miss—by firing perfect scores in the weekly Washington Gun Club contest Sunday.

The colonel won the 50-target competition to beat his nearest rival, Julius Marcey, by four targets, and then he proceeded to break 23x24 in doubles. Following the 50-target contest, shooters competed for a special prize at handicap distances. This resulted in a tie between Dr. J. C. Wynkoop and H. G. M. Wood, the doctor winning the toss for the prize.

—On Fishing

From the weekly publication of what we have believed to be the greatest angling organization in all the world we note this week a letter, from a member of the executive secretary, which is supposedly an authentic report on marlin fishing at Ocean City, Md.

ACKERMAN

"Dear——:Came up here for a try at the marlin fishing. After three days, getting up at 4 a. m., down to the dock at 5, three hours' run to the Jack Spot, trolling until 3 p. m., returning to hotel, dinner and bed, with not a white marlin, one gets fed up. Not a white marlin has been caught so far this season. . . . The Jack Spot is a shoal, 8 miles long, 5 miles wide, about 30 miles offshore. The water is about 30 to 35 feet deep . . . Last year a good many were caught around this spot starting about June 16 . . . Any boat catching one has to report it to the Maryland Conservation Department and the Chamber of Commerce, listing length of fish, tackle used and disposition—that is, whether released or not . . . You probably know of the fishing at this point, but thought you'd like a late, authentic report . . . Ocean fishing for me, means around Miami Beach in the future . . . Regards——."

From where we sit it looks as though there might be a member of this club who possibly might not measure up to the standard of the other 399. That, in order to enjoy his fishing, he must catch fish, even though he arrived before the season had opened. A season, by the way, so cold, that when it was being felt in the section which he expects to stick to in the future, it brought Northern anglers in to the docks evening after evening as empty handed as he was on the three days off Ocean City.

Again, this might be his personal opinion of a sport-fishing, that, taking into consideration only the single species for which he was fishing, is far better than it has ever been in his own area.

However, our main consideration in bringing up his report to the club is, to make it really authentic; to correct the impression there is only a single small spot on which these grand fish feed. As a matter of fact there are several, and, according to the winds, the marlin are found from the Virginia Capes to Fenwick Shoals, and often less than an hour's run from the dock. The Jack Spot is but 21 miles, Winter Quarter, 23 miles from Ocean City, as an example of the variance in this angler's figures. His depths would best be ascertained from a chart for correctness, if they mattered.

As to the disposal of the fish—there is nothing to force any angler or boatman to report on it if he doesn't so desire. The Maryland Conservation Commission isn't concerned about the proposition at all—just fishing editors and sportsmen, who have an earnest desire to conserve and find out what they can about the life cycles of this spearfish. It might possibly be of interest to know 82 were marked last year.

In spite of the appearance of the first marlin last season around the middle of June (the first one was caught on the 16th), according to the inadequate records we have so far, the run gets under way during the second week in July, and it looks as though this angler was ahead of the season.

Ollie Tucker Rites Are Set for Today

Orange, Va., July 15 (AP).—Oliver D. (Ollie) Tucker, former outfielder with three major league clubs and a number of minor league teams, who died at his home near Radiant Saturday, will be buried in the family plot at Radiant tomorrow at 2 p. m.

Tucker, 38, underwent an operation in Washington last fall for complications arising from a head injury suffered during his baseball playing days.

Houghton Wins Bedford Open Championship Third Time

Beaver Dam Pro Has 139; Walper 2d

Buck Worsham Ties For 3d With Platte, Ex-OpenChampParks And Andy Gibson

By the Associated Press

Bedford Springs, July 15.—Al Houghton, of the Washington, D. C., Beaver Dam Country Club, professional, clinched the annual Bedford Springs Open tournament today with a steady 139, repeating his last year's victory and thus becoming the first "third termer" in this tourney. Leo Walper, also of Washington, scored a 72-68—140 to win second money.

In third place was Ted Luther, of Churchill Valley Club, Wilkinsburg, with 72-69—141.

Four men tied it up for fourth with 143 each: Julius Platte, Uniontown, 70-73—143; Andy Gibson, Baltimore, 71-72—143; Sam Parks, South Hills, Pittsburgh, 70-73—143, and Buck Worsham, Chevy Chase, 70-73—143. Houghton was 2 under the 141, which won for him last year after a play-off with Red Francis. He previously won this tourney in 1932, and has come in second on two other occasions.

Walper Is Victim

Walper, the runner-up, was the victim of a heartbreaker on No. 18 of his second round, when his neat chip-shot rolled to the pin and bounced back 4 inches, costing him an eagle 2 and a tie with Houghton.

Just two threesomes behind him, Gene Heaney, of Fountain Head Club, Hagerstown, Md., dropped a chip shot on this difficult hole squarely in the cup for an eagle and probably the most sensational shot of the day.

Houghton's score:

Morning
Out 545 344 434-36
In ...... 344 434 534-34—70
Afternoon
Out 535 344 434-35

Starts With Bogey

After starting off with two over par on the first two holes, Houghton settled down to play consistent golf all the way, evening up with two birdies, in the first nine, and taking one birdie coming back, playing all other holes in par.

In afternoon, after No. 1 again spelled trouble, he got two birdies to go one under par, and his birdie on eighteenth brought him in two under par 71 to win.

In this crisis, Jimmy Bloodworth belted a long drive into leftfield which Jeff Heath barely reached and couldn't hold and it dropped for only a single when the Nats temporarily jammed on the bases. Case scored on the blow, and Bonura almost ran up Myer's back at third, getting back to second safely when Boudreau relayed the ball to third instead of second. Keltner threw across the diamond in an attempt to catch Bloodworth, who was between bases, and the Indians stormed at Umpire Lou Kolls, who called Bloodworth safe.

Milnar forced the second run of the inning home at this point by walking Myer. The tension eased somewhat when Pofahl popped up for the second out, but along came Ferrell with a two-base line drive against the wall that emptied the bases of the third, fourth and fifth runs of the inning.

Indians Score Pair

The Indians tried to get back in the ball game in the sixth. Hemsley doubled to left and they got two runs out of the inning when Weatherly and Boudreau followed with singles. Hudson's mishandling of a throw from the outfield figured in the second run. After Trosky drew a walk, Myer got Hudson over the hump by a clever play on Heath's hard grounder for the third out.

In the seventh, the Indians bounced back with two more runs on singles by Mack, Hemsley, a walk to Chapman, and a single by Weatherly to cut Hudson's lead to 6 to 4, but the Nats bounced back with some more encouragement for Hudson.

Against big John Naymick in the seventh, Gerald Walker tripled into the centerfield corner and scored on Bonura's long fly to right, and in the eighth, Hudson doubled to left with two out and scored on Case's single to center, to increase his lead to 8-4.

In the ninth, Hemsley was safe on Myer's fumble and scored when Pinch Hitter Beau Bill tripled to leftcenter, but Myer atoned for his fumble with a clever play on Chapman's grounder while a run scored, and the Indians' rally fell two important runs short.

Bradley Hills Cards Women's Golf Tourney

The first women's match play Invitation Tournament in local golf history will be held next week at Bradley Hills with Edward G. Adams, lessee of the club, donating a trophy and other prizes for the week-long event. Adams completed plans for the event yesterday, through the District Women's Golf Association.

A championship flight of 16 players will start match play Tuesday after Monday's qualifying round that is expected to draw 75 or more players. There will be no handicap limit and no entrance fee. Only one flight will qualify.

Adams is donating a trophy to be won three times for permanent possession. He plans to make the event an annual affair.

One match a day is scheduled from Tuesday to next Friday morning's title round.

Several of the leading women golfers made plans to enter the tournament. Mrs. Betty Meckley, Mrs. Leo Wauper, Mrs. Harvey Cooper, and Mrs. Richard Kreuzburg all promised to play.

Sarazen, Hagen in Fiery Verbal Tilt on Eve of Big Golf Match

Gene Contends Ryder Cup Should Go to Winner, Loses Point; $25,000 Gate Expected

By the Associated Press

Detroit, July 15.—Gene Sarazen's challengers tee off against Walter Hagen's Ryder Cup team over the long, difficult Oakland Hills course tomorrow and if the battle is anything like the verbal tilts between fiery Gene and the Haig, it should be the golfing classic of the year.

The rival captains clashed today over final arrangements, with Sarazen contending that since it's a Ryder Cup match the solid gold trophy should go to the victor.

"There's going to be a kidnaping of a trophy if they don't give us the Ryder Cup if we win," Gene declared. "We've been told this was an official match with the Ryder Cup team and we're out to beat their pants off. I think every man on the team should have the cup to display for a month as a reward for victory—if it isn't a Ryder Cup match why did they send the cup here?"

$25,000 Gate Expected

That was the latest outburst over the two-day match, which is expected to draw $25,000 for Red Cross war relief.

Sarazen blew up at a meeting between the two planned to iron out difficulties and instead on strict application of Ryder Cup rules with Hagen to remain merely a non-playing captain.

"Then," burst out the Haig, "why have you been going around announcing you were going to play me in a special match?"

Sarazen denied he had said anything about such a match.

Argument Ends

The argument ended with Hagen flatly declaring that he, as captain of the Ryder Cup team, would make the rules. Minutes later Sarazen stalked out and the Haig commented: "That's why he never was captain of the team. He never could sit down and get something like this ironed out."

Final line-ups will not be decided until just before the teams tee off. The classic opens at 9:30 a. m. with Scotch foursomes. A second round is planned at 2:30 p. m. with singles Wednesday. Matches will be 36 holes.

McPherson Wins Women's Invitaion

Manor Shooter Posts Net 68, Lowest of Season; Wins Easily

Mrs. D. M. McPherson turned in the lowest net score of the season yesterday in the second annual Capital Club Women's Invitation Tournament to win net honors by a six-stroke margin over a field of 89 starters.

The Manor Club linkswoman played the out nine in 49 strokes but she came back in 43, including a trio of threes, and deducted a 24 handicap from the gross 92 for the winning 68.

Mrs. Betty P. Meckley continued her winning streak in the low gross competition, the Kenwood representative posting a 42-41, 83, that topped a clubmate, Mrs. Richard Kreuzburg, by two shots. The leaders had trouble on the par threes, Mrs. Meckley taking bogey fives on two short holes, while Mrs. Kreuzburg, with a chance to tie, took six on the par three sixteenth, dropping her tee shot in the ditch.

Five Break 90

Only five players broke the 90 mark, Mrs. Harvey Cooper, Kenwood, posting an 87, and host club champion, Mrs. Leo Walper, and Mrs. M. K. Barroll, Army and Navy, 89s.

Second low net went to Mrs. V. G. Myers, Kenwood, with 101—27—74, while third was a two-way tie between Mrs. Ed Widmayer, Argyle, 90—15—75, and Mrs. W. F. Patterson, Indian Spring, 106—31—75. Fifth net was also a deadlock, Mrs. F. J. Hanranan, Capital, 101—25—76, tying Mrs. R. T. Schlossburg, Army and Navy, 91—15—76. Mrs. Cooper's 87—9—78 tied Mrs. Barroll's 89—11—78 for seventh.

Mrs. Jouett Wins

All the net 79s figured in the ample prize list. The winners were Mrs. John Jouett, CBS Cup champion from Columbia, 104—25—79; Mrs. P. H. Sullivan, unattached, 105—26—79; Mrs. Richard Kreuzburg, Kenwood, 85—6—79; Mrs. F. W. Williams, Argyle, 85—6—79; Mrs. R. S. Butler, Army and Navy, 100—21—79; Mrs. M. J. Torlinski, Army and Navy, 91—12—79, and Mrs. W. F. Kerr, Beaver Dam, 100—21—79.

The special prize list for the non-association members found Mrs. Clark Brant, of Belle Haven, winning gross honors with a 94, while low net went to Miss M. Fornear, of the host club, with 111—36—75. Mrs. S. C. Coldwell, Belle Haven, tied for second low net with 103—27—76, with Mrs. H. L. Sharpe, Indian Spring, 97—21—76; Mrs. F. Anderson, Capital, 112—36—76, and Mrs. Norma Miller, Capital, 113—36, completed the winners.

Host Pro Tony Sylvester and the host club women's golf committee were pleased with the turnout and may make the event a semiannual affair.

Arlington Feature To Valdina Groom

Chicago, July 15 (AP).—Valdina Farm's Valdina Groom wore down the front running Air Hostess to win the Lake Forest Purse by a length and a half over the favored Swain at Arlington Park today. Air Hostess hung on for third before 15,000 ladies day fans.

Valdina Groom, ridden by Wendall Eads, paid $11.80, $5.40 and $3.60. Swain returned $4.00 and $2.80, while show price on Air Hostess was $3.80. Time for the five and a half furlongs was 1:06 3-5.

Democrats Meet Standard Linen In M. A. Softball

The fourth quarter-finalist of the Middle Atlantic softball tournament will be decided at the Ballston Park, Arlington, Va., tonight when Standard Linen meets Trenton Democrats, of Baltimore, at 7:45 in the first game of a double-header. Already in the round of four are Tru-Blu, I. B. M. and Powers Builders.

The Democrats were finalists in last year's tournament and boast one of the hardest hitting teams of the East. Willie Pearlman will pitch for the Democrats and his mound opponent probably will be Bump Simonds.

The second game of the evening will bring together Overnight Transportation, of Baltimore, and the colorful Oklahoma Cowboys who bowed, 1-0, to Tru-Blu here the other evening.

Overnight Transportation, boasting a 21-game winning streak, will send Billy Sullivan to the hill, while the Cowboys are expected to pitch either Icky Katzen or Fireball Karpok.

Naval Air Station Beats FBI, 4 to 2

Naval Air Station continued its drive for the second-half title in the Government League yesterday by defeating FBI, 4 to 2, on the West Ellipse and protecting its undefeated record.

Morris Plan Ten Of Richmond Beats Local Bank, 10-7

Morris Plan Bank of Richmond defeated Morris Plan Bank of Washington, 10-7, in a free-hitting softball game here yesterday.

Widener pitched the entire game for the winners and learned afterward that he had suffered a broken finger. He allowed 11 hits while his mates collected 12 off the offerings of Carr.

Benner and Hartman, with two and three hits, respectively, were the hitting heroes for the Washington ten.

Kovacs Takes 3 Matches at Eastern Net

Parker Wins Twice In Clay Court Play; Gil Hall Defaults

By the Associated Press

New York, July 15.—The process of bringing the Eastern Clay Court championships under Western domination got under way today when Frank Parker, of Pasadena, Calif., and Frank Kovacs, of Oakland, Calif., made belated debuts, with Kovacs winning three matches and Parker two.

Parker, the Nation's second-ranking player, swept throught Dick Todd, chairman of the tournament committee, 6—1, 6—3, and then overcame Dick Seeler, of Bellerose, N. Y., 6—3, 6—3. Kovacs was troubled even less in defeating Tim Lanza, a member of the tournament committee, 6—0, 6—3, pro Prewitt, also of the tournament committee, 6—1, 6—0 and Lester Hirschfield, local player, 6—0, 6—3.

Fourth-seeded J. Gilbert Hall, of East Orange, N. J., was forced to default because of an injured knee to Bill Reedy, of Los Angeles. Joe Fishbach, of Brooklyn, who follows him in the draw, advanced by default over Bob Decker, of Boston, and then ousted Carlton Rood, of New York, 7—5, 6—3. Gerard (Jeff) Podesta, of Montclair, N. J., defending champion, reached the fourth round with a 6—0, 6—0 triumph over Ernest Romero, of New York.

Dave Johnsen, Welsh, Adair Are Beaten

Special Dispatch to The Post

Baltimore, Md., July 15.—Players from Washington area fared rather badly as the Maryland State and Middle Atlantic section tennis tournament got under way today at the Baltimore Country Club.

Of the four Capital netmen who saw competition, only one, Gilbert Hunt, escaped unscathed. Eddie Jacobs, left-handed former Baltimore champion, fell victim to Hunt, fifth seeded player, in rapid order, the scores being 6—2 and 6—1. Eddie's old game returned for a point now and then but Hunt was master of the situation all the way.

Jack Kreimer, of Belvidere Gardens, Calif., defeated David Johnsen, of Bethesda, Md., 6—4, 6—3.

Seymour Greenberg, of Chicago, the public parks national champion from Northwestern University, is another southpaw and one of the few in modern tennis. He beat Harold Surface, of Kansas City, the defending champion, last week and may give Hunt a lot of trouble when they oppose each other tomorrow.

In a three-set match, Barney Welsh, of Rockville, won the first stanza from George Toley, of the University of Southern California, 7—5. But Barney's touch deserted him completely after the effort required and he fell easy victim to the smooth-stroking Californian, 6—2, 6—0.

Ladislav Hecht, the Czecho-Slovakian Davis Cup player, won in straight sets from Buddy Adair, of Chevy Chase, each by 6—2.

The only other Washington entrant, Hugh Lynch, will meet Ronald Lubin, of California, tomorrow.

Favorites Win In Public Parks Net Tourney

All Seeded Players Advance; Men's Class Reaches Quarter-Finals

All seeded men players, with the exception of Defending Champion Allie Ritzenberg and George Herbert, reached the quarter-finals of the Public Parks tennis championships yesterday at Sixteenth and Kennedy streets courts.

Ritzenberg gained the fourth round with a 6—0, 6—1 victory over Borden Deane. He and Herbert play matches today which will decide the remaining two quarter-finalists. Herbert idled yesterday.

Meantime the favorites all advanced rather easily. Second-ranked Ray Stocklinski walloped S. F. McCandlish, 6—2, 6—3. Hugh Trigg defeated Paul Heins, 6—4, 10—8. Art Simmons outlasted John Hutchinson, 6—4, 10—8. Hy Ritzenberg downed Chuck Freer, 6—4, 6—1. David Kay beat Carl Fontanini, 6—4, 0—6, 6—3, and Billy Contreras conquered Phil Burkom, 6—4, 0—6, 6—3.

There was only one women's match played and in that hard-hitting Hazel Bishop eliminated La Jeanne Echols, City of Baltimore girls' open champion, 6—1, 6—2.

Men's doubles competition opened with incident and mixed doubles will get under way today when there will also be the two men's quarter-finals singles between Herbert and Harry Brinkerhoff, jr., at 5 p. m., and Ritzenberg and Spencer Howell at 6:15.

Charlotte Decker and Allie Ritzenberg were seeded one in the mixed doubles, with Willie O'Steen Herbert and George Herbert ranked second. Play in this division starts at 4 p. m.

Cameo Routs Reliance Life

Cameo furniture, corrently leading the second half race in The Washington Post-Industrial League, got off to a big start in the third week of play yesterday by routing Reliance Life, 12-to-1, behind the four-hit pitching of Tommy Hahn.

The Cameo batters piled up 11 hits—ten of them singles—off Pitchers Dill and Royelle. Scoreless the first two innings, Cameo went into action in the third by driving in five. The remainder of the game resembled a track meet.

O'Donnell's Grill, currently in second place in the league, meets Heurich, first-half winner, this afternoon on the Ellipse.

Perc Williamson's Yawl Wins Race

Mackinac Island, Mich., July 15.—Perc Williamson's yawl Rainbow IV today won the cruising class championship in the annual 249-mile Port Huron-to-Mackinac yacht race.

The Bay View, Mich., skipper, who last won honors in this class in 1926, brought his boat across the finish line nearly two hours behind the Sea Saga, first to report, but went out in front on a time allowance.

The Rainbow IV completed the long haul with an elapsed time of 44:33.25 and a corrected time of 39:43.56. The handicap was too much for the Sea Saga, 52-foot schooner owned by Lynn Troxel, of Toledo, Ohio, which reported at 9:08 a. m. for an elapsed time of 42:53.49 and a corrected time of 41:54.32.

Banks Increase Loans for Sixth Straight Week

$9,000,000 Advance In Business Class Noted by Reserve

By the Associated Press

Banks increased commercial, industrial and agricultural loans for the sixth straight week in the seven days ended July 10.

The Federal Reserve Board said the trend was shown by banks in 101 leading cities, where last week's gain in the business classification amounted to $9,000,000. This made an increase of $80,000,000 in the same cities in the last six weeks, bringing their total to $4,447,000,000.

Principal increases were $5,000,000 in the San Francisco district, $3,000,000 in the New York district, and $3,000,000 in the Philadelphia district. Small decreases occurred in some of the other areas.

The board's 101-city member bank condition statement yesterday gave the following summary of assets on July 10 together with changes for the week and with the same week last year, in millions of dollars:

Flue-Cured Leaf Quota Approved By Sec. Wallace

By the Associated Press

Secretary Wallace approved yesterday flue-cured tobacco marketing quota regulations for the 1940-41 marketing year.

Operators of each tobacco farm will receive a marketing card. If the acreage of tobacco harvested does not exceed the acreage allotment, a "within quota card" will be issued for the farm and its production of tobacco can be marketed without penalties.

If the acreage harvested exceeds the allotment, an "excess marketing card" will be issued, showing the amount of excess and the amount of tobacco marketed on which a penalty will be collected.

Exchange Market

New York, July 15 (AP).—The free British pound jumped 15 cents today as buyers rushed the market for the doomed currency.

After July 18 free sterling will be out of the picture as a means of payment for British Empire products.

London announced over the week-end plans whereby United States banks may open accounts registered by the Bank of England in which the official buying-selling range of $4.02½ to $4.03½ will be the gauge of value. Free sterling closed at $3.86 after rising to $3.91 at one time.

What little free sterling is still available was sought because it will still have sharply limited uses after the July 18 deadline. No more free balances will be created, however, London warned, and local banking quarters expected the free rate to quietly fade away in time.

The drastic restrictions were no surprise, for Britain during the last several months has tightened her financial belt notch by notch in an effort to direct all sections of her external trade toward successful prosecution of the war.

The Swiss franc, placed along with the dollar in a favored position by the British edict, rose .03 of a cent in terms of the dollar. The Canadian dollar advanced ½ cent to 87½ United States cents.

Official Canadian control board rates for U. S. dollars: Buying 10 per cent premium, selling 11 per cent premium, equivalent to discounts on Canadian dollars in New York of buying 9.91 per cent, selling 0.09 per cent.

Canadian dollar in New York open market, 12½ per cent discount, or 87.50 U. S. cents.

Late Buying Pares Losses In Wheat List

Cotton Also Declines As Most Commodities Show Easier Tone

By the Associated Press

Important commodities in futures markets moved almost uniformly lower yesterday.

Wheat at Chicago declined to the lowest levels since last September 1, then pared the losses and closed ¾ to ⅝ of a cent a bushel lower. Hedge sales accounted for most of the pressure. Corn ended ⅛ to 1⅛ higher.

Cotton at New York finished 10 cents a bale lower to 15 cents higher. Unfavorable week-end weather brought in some demand.

$2,250,000 Loan Made by Airlines

New York, July 15.—A five-year, 2½ per cent aircraft equipment loan amounting to $2,500,000 has been arranged by American Airlines, Inc., with a group of Eastern and Midwestern banks, C. R. Smith, president, states.

Banks participating in the loan are: Chase National Bank, New York; Schroder Trust Co., New York; First National Bank of Boston; National Bank of Detroit; and Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Co. of Chicago.

The loan represents 75 per cent of the purchase price of 26 Douglas flagships delivered to the company during this year and will be secured by a pledge of those planes. Rate of interest on the loan will be 2½ percent per annum. Principal of the loan and interest thereon will be repaid quarterly over a period of five years.

Stockholders' Ranks Thinned During Year

Improvement in business activity last year was not reflected in gains in the number of stockholders in America's largest corporations, according to a survey by Dr. Daniel Starch reported in Forbes magazine. A total of 9,381,988 stockholders reported by 164 companies at the year-end represented a decline of seven-tenths of 1 per cent from 1938.

Cotton Futures

New York, July 15 (AP).—Cotton futures overcame early losses today and new crop deliveries closed 2 to 3 points higher. Old July ended 2 points down.

Hedge selling against both foreign and domestic growths of the staple tripped the list at the start. Modest demand came from domestic mills and local dealers who interpreted bullishly the week-end weather news. Pressure subsided late in the session and the price list turned upward.

Further rains in the central and eastern belt gave rise to the comment that with the new crop already delayed because of late planting and inclement weather better than normal conditions were needed for the rest of the summer to assure best progress.

$250,000,000 Loan Mapped By Treasury

$165,000,000 to Be Used to Buy Cotton Loan Notes From Banks

By the Associated Press

Secretary Morgenthau announced today that the Commodity Credit Corporation will borrow $250,000,000 this month.

Most of the money, he explained, will be needed by the corporation to buy $265,000,000 worth of cotton loan notes from local banks, which had financed cotton farmers temporarily. On July 31, he explained, the corporation will have to take over from banks expired loans to cotton farmers.

At the same time, the secretary said, subscriptions for $600,000,000 of 2¼ per cent Treasury bonds offered for sale last week totaled more than $6,700,000,000.

After filling $37,000,000 of preferred subscriptions for $5,000 or less, the available bonds will be prorated to the other subscribers.

ICC Hearing Starts on South's Livestock Rates

Atlanta, July 15 (AP).—The South's appeal for livestock freight rates on a parity with other sections of the Nation came before the Interstate Commerce Commission today.

Bolstered by rate experts and economists, attorneys for eight Southern states undertook to establish contention that prevailing rates between the West and South, and from the South to Eastern markets, are excessive and discriminatory. A spokesman estimated the plaintiffs' testimony would require two weeks.

The move is opposed by railroads serving the livestock producing areas and linking them with the Middle West and Eastern parking centers.

In the bill of compaint, filed with the I. C. C. by public service commissions of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia, the South charged that its shippers were assessed higher haulage rates than prevail on similar livestock movement from the West.

The I. C. C. was asked to establish equal rates for shipments interterritorially in the South, from the West to the South, from the South to Northern territory, and from the West to the North, via the South.

Slight Increase In Steel Output Seen This Week

New York, July 15 (AP).—The Nation's steel mills will boost operating schedules to 86.8 per cent of capacity this week from 86.4 per cent in the previous week, the American Iron & Steel Institute estimated today.

The advance will be the second in a row following the sharp Fourth of July curtailment.

A month ago output was at the rate of 87.7 per cent of capacity and a year ago 56.4 per cent.

Foreign Markets

London, July 15 (AP).—Stock market sentiment was favorably affected today by Prime Minister Churchill's "fighting" speech on British war hopes. While turnover was cut to a minimum all groups but oils, which dipped slightly, slanted ahead. In the foreign market Chinese and Japanese loans added 2 points on reports of efforts to settle the conflict between the two nations. British government bonds closed with gains of ⅛ point. Industrials, where changed, tended upward and domestic rails improved. Commodity stocks showed only minor variations.

Liverpool—Cotton futures rose 1 to 3 points today. Few contracts were offered due to lack of news on British import policy.

Auto Makers in Retooling Race To Get 1941 Models on Market

By the Associated Press

Detroit, July 15.—The motor car industry, according to Ward's Automotive Reports, will lose as little time as possible swinging into the production of 1941 models. Among the volume producers of the industry Plymouth was added last week to the group completing 1940 model assemblies. It will be followed by others of the Chrysler group this week.

Chevrolet and Ford, first and second respectively in volume output, still are assembling 1940 models, Chevrolet being the only one of the General Motors passenger car producers to continue. Ford, says Ward's, has set July 19 to terminate 1940 model production, and expects to have 50,000 of its 1941 models in the hands of dealers by September 21 for private showings.

"In car building plants and in parts supplying factories," it says, "orders have gone forth to speed up the finishing and arranging of new model production tool equipment so that 1941 car manufacturing may be quickly inaugurated. Hudson, Packard, Nash, Studebaker, Buick and Plymouth are the major contestants in this race.

"Others, such as Cadillac, Pontiac, Oldsmobile and Chevrolet in the General Motors group are to follow as soon as possible. Likewise, Dodge, DeSoto and Chrysler are bending every effort to complete their retooling at an early date."

Of Ford activities, the trade publication says:

"A vast army of tool workers is making changes of considerable magnitude in the body equipment that will require time to complete. This is particularly true in the Lincoln-Zephyr division in tooling up to produce their own bodies . . .

"It is evident that some of the car makers may require six weeks for their changeover activities and the orientation of the 1941 production equipment because of major modifications, and others may be quickly ready due to almost insignificant alterations in designs.

"As matters now stand, Plymouth may be one of the first in the field with new models. . . . The 1941 pilot cars (Plymouth) are scheduled to start down the final assembly line about August 5. . . .

"More streamlining and advanced torpedo design motif, with two-tone color embellishments, are the predominating effects in many of the new models produced by the various car builders."

Development of 'Supersteel' To Help Speed Arms Program

By Merryle Stanley Rukeyser

Economic Commentator

SCIENCE and invention are ceaselessly at work to compensate for man's blunders and mismanagement.

For example, it is likely that we can escape some of the evil consequences of lack of apprenticeship during the last decade in the machine tool trades so vital to national defense through employing the fruits of new technology.

Creative men in industry may be relied upon to find short cuts for what otherwise would be a prodigious task of catching up on armaments.

In reviewing the extent to which our machine industry will loom up as a national defense bottleneck, D. G. Clark, vice president of the Firth-Sterling Steel Co., took a hopeful view.

"While it is true," the executive declared, "that specially designed machine tools for every job would facilitate production of armament, a sufficient number of machines for this ideal setup may not be available for a long time. Meanwhile, we should press into service every piece of equipment now available, old or new, and to the limit of its capacity.

"With respect to machine tool accessories, we are fortunate in that since the last war, cutting materials have been developed that are capable of such high production rates that they will compensate to a considerable degree for a possible shortage of machines and skilled mechanics.

"Prominent among these materials are the sintered tungsten carbides and the cobalt super high-speed steels. The carbide cutting material was developed in Germany immediately following the World War, and its use has been a major factor in that country's unprecedented rate of armament production. Her armament program was carried out with machining equipment probably inferior to our own, but productivity of both machines and operators was multiplied by the fullest use of the fast-cutting carbide tools."

Doubtless this device was one of Germany's so-called mysterious and secret weapons.

Applying this technique to American conditions, Mr. Clark said: "Our Nation is now faced with the same problem of rearmament that Europe had to meet. A sufficient number of new machines to do the job may not be forthcoming for months. In the shops or the Nation, however, are thousands of machines which in normal times are not considered adaptable to the high speeds and stresses associated with the working of hard, tough materials used in munitions manufacture. Tooled with carbides of super high-speed steels, however, they can do a good job in the emergency.

"Since these fast-cutting tools are available on short notice, they can be the means of stepping up production immediately and of partially offsetting the deficiency in numbers of specially designed machines. In a preparedness economy, we can afford to wear out machines and tools so long as we produce armaments quickly.

"The new tooling, moreover, would immediately increase the output of each skilled machine operator, while additional personnel is being trained. This is assuming that there will be no arbitrary restrictoins to exert a retarding influence. Labor and industry have expressed the desire to cooperate in the interests of national defense. If each translates its patriotic intentions into practical action, there need be no serious bottle-neck in machine tool operation."

A number of American tool makers are equipped to make these hard-cutting materials.

Like the intered tungsten carbides which were developed in Germany after the World War, cobalt super high-speed steels were perfected in Great Britain after the great war. The cobalts weer introduced in this country before the German process, which was patented by the Krupp interests and originally licensed over here to the General Electric Co.

Turnover Is Most Sluggish in 22 Years; Inconsequential Moves Mark General List

New York, July 15.—Doldrums, Inc., continued to feature the stock market today. This recent favorite had everything its own way and kept the tape largely to itself. The result was that volume on the big board amounted to only 226,580 shares, the smallest, according to the dusty records, since 1918, when the world was being made safe for democracy.

The list's most active stock was Packard, which had a turnover of 8,700 shares. At its price of $4 that means a dollar volume less than $35,000, or about as much as Mike Meehan, Buck Buchanan, Ben Smith or a dozen others would have looked upon as a normal opening transaction back in those evil days when stocks were known to show some life.

Editorial by Stabler

Under the new enlightenment of recent years we don't have to worry about anyone making any money in Wall Street. All is purity and sweetness, but one can't help wondering just how we are going to finance the expansion of companies, which is necessary if we are to carry out the defense program as outlined—after the Administration, through its continued opposition to business men, financiers and Wall Street in general, has brought the business of finance to a standstill.

Companies have to be financed before buildings can be bought, tools set in place and men hired. The Government is now appropriating billions for defense. It has got up to about $13,000,000,000 plus the normal governmental expenditures. But it takes more than blueprints and acts of Congress.

Individual industrial companies must be capable of expanding their facilities so they can accept Government contracts, and they can't do this effectively anywhere except in Wall Street, a district which has been bearing the brunt of prejudiced and unreasonable opposition from the political clique now in Washington for seven years. What has happened as a result was illustrated today, and has been for the last two weeks. The maintenance of a free and open market is more hampered than at any time since before the last World War.

Market Stands Still

Judged by the composite average, the market made a gain of 0.06 points today which is virtually nothing. Aviations did well and there was fair support for the steels. Only one issue in the list of the 15 most active closed more than a point away from its close of Saturday. This was Celanese, which gained 1⅛. The nearest to it was Glen N. L. Martin, up ⅞ point. The latter was the most active of the aviations, followed by Lockheed, which gained ⅝ point. Grumman, which declared its first dividend of 1940, didn't even appear on the tape. A few sales of Westinghouse carried it down a point while a single trade in Johns Manville advanced it a point. Otherwise virtually all of the well known issues were securely held within fractional range.

There was little statistical information on which the market could base a rally. In line with expectations, there was a slight gain in operations of the steel industry.

Bonds More Active

The bond list, including United States Treasury and foreign obligations, had a generally easier tone here today with turnover on the stock exchanges of $4,394,000 showing some increase over the previous full trading session.

Final prices in the Treasury section on the exchange were down as much as 7-32 point and in the over-counter dealings late prices were unchanged to 3-32 down. The volume was limited pending this week's announcement of allotments on the new financing.

Another slump in the price of Italian issues was the feature of the foreign section. This movement carried Italy 7s of 1951 down 3¾ points and Milan 6½ down 2½ points. Canadian bonds, including rail issues, and Australians had losses of 2 points or more in some instances.

The average of 30 domestic corporate issues was off 0.10 point on the day. Best-grade rails sold down 0.14 and the second grades were off a like amount. Running against this trend in rail bonds were Mobile & Ohio issues, which were strong and active as the final day for deposit under the reorganization plan neared.

Industrials sold off 0.06 point and utilities were down 0.04 point in the averages.

Kass Realty Co. Of D.C. Figures In Big Va. Deal

Shipyard Apartment Land Purchased for Reported $500,000

By the Associated Press

Newport News, Va., July 15.—Rumors of the completion of a deal for the largest private transfer of real estate in the history of the Virginia Peninsula were confirmed today with the announcement that the Shipyard Apartments group, comprising four blocks on upper Washington avenue, were being sold by the Newport News Land Corp. to Garfield I. Kass, president of Kass Realty Co., Inc., of Washington, formerly of this city.

An executed contract of sale for the apartments and additional property has been entered into between the contracting parties, it was said, with transfer of title scheduled for July 31. It is understood a check for $25,000 as a binder has been posted in the transaction.

Announcement of the sale was made by Alan M. Graff, vice president of Graff Bros. Co., Inc., local brokers who negotiated the deal, which substantiated rumors current in local financial quarters during the past two weeks. Tunstall & Tunstall, Norfolk, were associated with the negotiations.

The total sale price was said to be approximately $500,000.

Life Insurance Sales Show Drop Of 18% in June

New York, July 15 (AP).—New life insurance written in June dropped to $597,450,000 from $729,749,000 a year ago, a decline of 18.1 per cent, the Association of Life Insurance Presidents said today.

Severity of the decline, said the association, was due primarily to the difference in group insurance compared with last year, which showed a recession not because of the subnormal amount written this year but last year's large total.

For the first six months of the year all classes of new life insurance totaled $3,679,456,000, or 3.9 per cent under $3,830,307,000 in the first half of 1939.

The figures were based on reports of 40 United States companies having 82 per cent of the total life insurance outstanding in all United States legal reserve companies.

Machine Tool Trade At 92.3% of Capacity

Cleveland, July 15 (AP).—Machine tool plants affiliated with the National Machine Tool Builders Association operated last month at 92.3 per cent of capacity, compared to 92.5 per cent in May, the association reported today. The industry's capacity, measured in terms of pay-roll hours, is now 27.5 per cent above that of September, 1939.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, July 15 (AP).—Wheat prices rallied fractionally in late trading today, wiping out about half of the earlier one-cent-a-bushel decline that established the lowest quotations chalked up on Board of Trade blackboards since last September 1.

After dropping to 72⅝ for July and 73 for September, wheat closed at a net loss of ¼-⅝ cent compared with Saturday's close, with July 72¾ and September 73½@73⅜.

Early selling came largely from dealers who were hedging new wheat. The late rally was associated with forecast of fair weather in Minnesota, North Dakota and most of the Canadian belt, together with crop complaints from some Canadian districts. Some buying also was credited to mills, possibly in connection with flour sales. Exporters reported 3,500,000 bushels of Canadian wheat were sold to Great Britain.

Corn closed ⅛-1⅛ higher than Saturday, July, 61⅞@62, and September, 58⅛@58¼. Late strength was attributed to short covering, apparently on the part of previous sellers, who did not wish to deliver corn on July contracts. No. 1 yellow corn was quoted 3-3½ cents over the July future.

Oats closed ¼ off to ¼ up; rye unchanged to ⅜ higher, and lard ⅜ lower.

Hedging pressure was not large considering the amount of grain arriving at terminals. Although receipts at Southwestern terminals were smaller than a week ago, the volume coming into Northern markets was larger. Omaha had 567 cars, compared with 292 a week ago; St. Louis 861, against 570, and 1,076 cars, the most of the season, were on track here, although only a small percentage was sold.

Prospects of showers over most of the Corn Belt checked the advance of December corn, the new crop contract, and at one time in the session that contract sold at a new low for the season of 53½ cents. No. 1 mixed heavy oats received from central Illinois sold at 33 cents, or 3 cents over the July price.

Sugar Futures

New York, July 15 (AP).—Active switching forward from the September delivery highlighted trade in sugar futures today. The domestic list closed 1 to 2 points lower on sales of 28,100 tons, of which 26,400 represented switches.

World business contracted sharply. Final prices were unchanged to 1 down on sales of only 700 tons; September .96*, December 1.00*. *Bid.

Refined locally remained at 4.50 cents although off-shore sugars were reported selling as low as 4.12½.

Boston Wool

Boston, July 15 (AP) (U. S. Dept Agri.).—The wool market in Boston was very dull today. Domestic wool quotations were nominally about steady compared with the close of last week, but sentiment reflected a great deal of uncertainty regarding the price situation. Good French combing length fine territory wools in original bags were quoted nominally at 80@83 cents, scoured basis, spot Boston. Country-packed bright fleece wools of three-eighths and one-quarter blood grades in mixed lots offered direct from the country were quoted about steady at 39@40 cents, in the grease, delivered to users.

Rosin, no trading; receipts, 440; shipments, 185; stock, 307,944.

New York Dry Goods

New York, July 15 (AP).—Dry goods: Trading in cotton textiles was confined to small lots for immediate requirements of converters and printers. Rayon fabric prices held steady, with some demand for dress materials. Silk gray goods were purchased moderately by converters. Small orders were written for woolen gabardines and some late bookings for fall worsted.

New York Money Rates

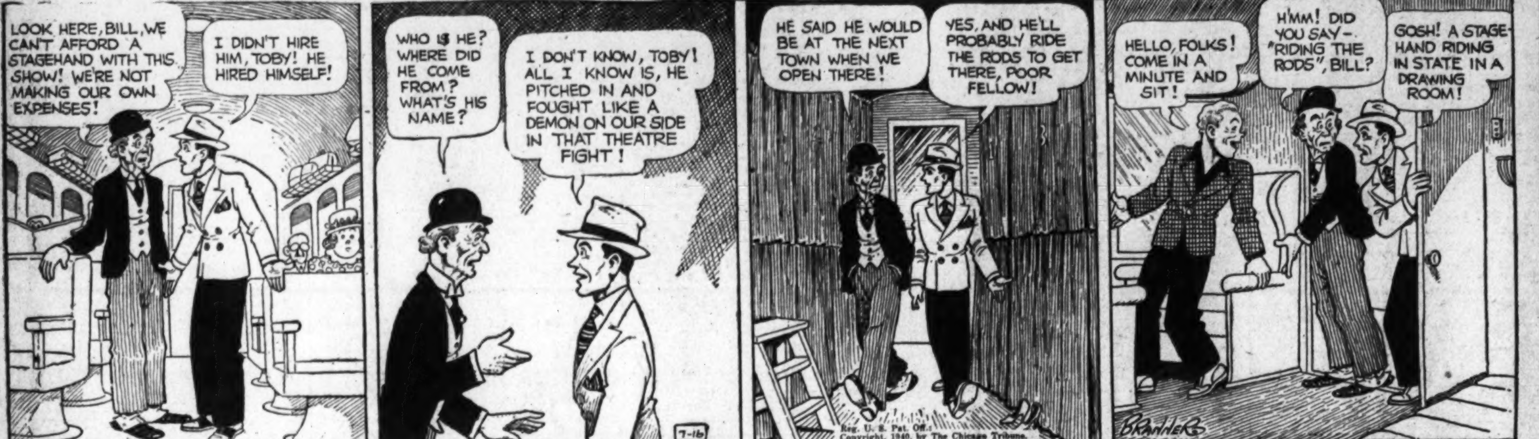
Upstage Stagehand

BY BRANNER



LOOK HERE, BILL, WE CAN'T AFFORD A STAGEHAND WITH THIS SHOW! WE'RE NOT MAKING OUR OWN EXPENSES!
I DIDN'T HIRE HIM, TOBY! HE HIRED HIMSELF!
WHO IS HE? WHERE DID HE COME FROM? WHAT'S HIS NAME?
I DON'T KNOW, TOBY! ALL I KNOW IS, HE PITCHED IN AND FOUGHT LIKE A DEMON ON OUR SIDE IN THAT THEATRE FIGHT!
HE SAID HE WOULD BE AT THE NEXT TOWN WHEN WE OPEN THERE!
YES, AND HE'LL PROBABLY RIDE THE RODS TO GET THERE, POOR FELLOW!
HELLO, FOLKS! COME IN A MINUTE AND SIT!
H'MM! DID YOU SAY—"RIDING THE RODS", BILL?
GOSH! A STAGEHAND RIDING IN STATE IN A DRAWING ROOM!

Today's Radio Highlights

11:15 A. M., WMAL and WRC—The commentators get together for Democratic round-up in Chicago.

1 P. M., WMAL—Recently returned from England where she has conferred with His Majesty's government on technical matters, Vivien Kellems is the outstanding American woman in the electrical industry. She's Alma Kitchell's guest on the Streamlined Journal.

7:30, WMAL—"The Man Who Came to Dinner" comes to Information Please to try out his scathing wit . . . and he'd better not break his sacroiliac on the way out. Monty Woolley used to be an English instructor at Yale before he went on the stage and with Deems Taylor, John Kieran and F. P. A. on deck he'll be in rollicking company.

7:30, WOL—Peter Lind Hayes is a clever mimic and joins Ida Lumpino and Otto Kruger for Meet the Stars.

8:30, WJSV—Richard C. Bailey, San Francisco dock worker, Marie Harris, New York short story writer, answer some on Professor Quiz.

Listen!
with Glynn

What one of the most popular young band leaders in the country does with his spare time is being proved in Washington right now—he goes out and listens to other bands. The musical gentleman in question is Bob Crosby. Your correspondent and he used to work in separate cubicles at C. B. S. headquarters in New York, he as a director of the network's "House" band, your correspondent as a not-very-bright, but willing minor clerk in the public relations office. We met again Saturday night at 2400 Sixteenth street, where Mr. Crosby had dashed immediately after his orchestral endeavors at the theater. His post was right next to the bandstand, where Pete Macias and his crew were holding forth. It's pleasant to report that Mr. Crosby despite his eminent success, remains one of the nicest and most modest chaps you could wish to meet. And I don't want to give you the idea that all his spare time is spent in night clubs. His major ambition right now, it seems, is to get in 18 holes at the Chevy Chase Country Club before he leaves town.

Any illusions John Charles Daly, WJSV's special events reporter, had that he was going to have a quiet week in Washington what with the convention going on in Chicago, have been dispelled. Network headquarters have seen fit to put him on three or four times a day this week, so important do they think Washington interpretation.

Bay Fisheries Parley to Open At Solomons

Virginia and Maryland Groups to Confer Today On Rehabilitation

By the Associated Press

Solomons, Md., July 15.—Conservation officials and commercial fishermen from Virginia and Maryland will hold a "round table" discussion here tomorrow in an effort to rehabilitate bay herring and shad fisheries.

Edwin Warfield, Maryland conservation chairman, and Walter G. Mapp, Virginia commissioner of fisheries, hope that a cooperative program can be formulated to revive the rapidly decreasing shad and herring business.

U. S. Aides to Attend

The meeting will be attended by Warfield, Mapp, R. A. Nesbitt, of the United States Bureau of Fisheries, and Dr. R. V. Truitt, director of the Chesapeake Biological Laboratory.

The commercial fishermen were elected by fishermen from waterfront counties of each State to take part in this and any other joint conferences looking toward restoring the shad and herring industries.

Warfield said that only the shad and herring industries would be discussed because they were the "big problems" confronting the two States.

Sharp Drop in Yield

Albert Woodfield, of Galesville, Md., who leads the Maryland commercial fishermen—known as the Commercial Fishermen Advisory Committee of Maryland—said Maryland's shad industry in 1890 amounted to more than 8,000,000 pounds. This year's yield, he estimated, will not exceed 500,000 pounds.

"We realize that something should be done," Woodfield asserted. "We now feel that we will be better off by telling our conservation commissions what we want.

"In this way we can prepare joint legislation, support it unitedly and probably won't be subject to swapping when our plan is submitted to the State legislatures."

Japanese Attack Hangchow Bay, Vital Trade Outlet

Shanghai (Tuesday), July 16 (AP).—The Japanese navy announced today it had opened operations early this morning against the Hangchow Bay area with warships, marines and aircraft.

The area concerned includes the important treaty port of Ningpo through which extensive trade has been maintained with the Chinese territory government by Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek.

Japanese had not taken action against Ningpo previously because, they explained, though it served the Chinese it also provided a valuable outlet for Japanese merchandise.

The Hangchow Bay area, some 100 miles southwest of Shanghai, is one of the places along the coasts of Chekiang and Fukien Provinces listed in a Japanese proclamation yesterday as barred to all ships.

Luxembourg's Prince Coming On U. S. Cruiser

Less than a year after a serene visit to America, when he was entertained by the President, Prince Consort Felix of Luxembourg again heads toward this country—now on a United States cruiser with six royal members of his household.

Luxembourg Charge de Affaires Hughes Le Gallais could not say where the prince and his party, which includes Crown Prince John, Prince Charles and the Princesses Adelaide, Gabriella, Elizabeth and Alix, would take their residence in America. He said he would meet the party when the cruiser Trenton arrives.

Passage on the cruiser was said by the State Department to have been granted to the party as an expression of international courtesy.

Md. Police Hunt Hit-Run Driver in Death of Aged Man

Baltimore, July 15 (AP).—Police were searching tonight for a hit and run driver who was responsible for the fifth automobile death in Maryland yesterday.

John Tecl, 71, the fifth victim, was injured fatally last night when he attempted to cross the Ritchie highway, near Severna Park.

The other dead are:

Richard Waters, 65, Baltimore.
Mrs. Rachel Pearson, 44, Elkton.
James C. Triplett, 2, Hastings, Fla.
William Ford, 16, Upper Fairmont.

Farley Group To Buy Yanks In 2 Weeks

J. T. Mahoney Says Sale May Bring Near $4,000,000

By the Associated Press

Chicago, July 15.—Baseball's richest holding—the world championship New York Yankees—probably will be sold within two weeks to a syndicate headed by Postmaster General James A. Farley, it was disclosed today by Attorney Jeremiah T. Mahoney, of New York.

Mahoney, attorney for George Ruppert, brother of the late Col. Jacob Ruppert, said a contract calling for a price of $4,000,000 has been submitted by the Ruppert estate to Farley's legal representative and added "the transaction has gone from the speculatory to the very realistic stage."

The announcement by Mahoney fanned long persistent reports that Farley planned to resign as chairman of the National Democratic Committee but the Democratic leader smilingly declined to commit himself when informed of Mahoney's statement.

"As I said this morning," Farley grinned, "that song 'Take Me Out to the Ball Game' that they played this morning at the stadium, sounded all right."

Mahoney, former president of the Amateur Athletic Union and now a director of the Ruppert Brewing Co., explained the projected deal simply, saying "we need money to meet inheritance taxes."

Since the death of Col. Ruppert at the age of 71 in January, 1939, there has been much speculation on the ultimate ownership of the club and its subsidiaries, which include the Newark team of the International League and the Kansas City club of the American Association. The New York Yankee Stadium, home field of the team which has won four straight world championships, is assessed at $2,500,000.

Capital Tourists Decline, But 1940 Lead Is Maintained

Sightseeing Men Express Belief War Causes Americans to Handle Money With Care; Influx of Jobseekers Continues

The Capital's biggest private business—tourists—went into a decline last month but maintained a lead over the first six months of last year, the Board of Trade disclosed yesterday.

Board estimates indicated 1,429,615 tourists came to Washington in the first half of 1940 as compared with 1,424,205 in the same period of 1939, despite a 60,955 decrease in the number of June visitors this year.

Reasons for the June drop—from 368,910 to 307,955—were varied. "Possibly," said Harrison Brand, jr., executive secretary of the Board of Trade, "it was due to the world situation. But I don't know whether I would even hazard that as a guess."

Sightseeing business men, on the other hand, were positive in their belief that the war had caused the American tourist to handle his money with care. For the most part, they said, the tourist is staying at home and for the rest he is spending very little.

Influx of Jobseekers

Decreased crowds at the New York World's Fair was advanced as another cause for the decline, since many of the fairgoers stopped off at Washington last year.

While the tourist trade declined, the influx of jobseekers attracted by the national defense program continued unabated last month, resulting in increased requests by disappointed newcomers for assistance of the Travelers Aid Society.

"Quite a few" workers, most of them unskilled, have applied to the society after failing in efforts to obtain defense jobs, said Miss Alice Elizabeth Jones, acting executive secretary.

Some of them even brought their families along, she sad. However, in a number of cases applicants for aid obtained work here before the society had time to arrange employment for them in their home towns and see that they secured transportation, said Miss Jones.

More Requests for Assistants

She reported a total of 330 requests for assistance in travel difficulties last month as compared with 200 in June of 1939.

Tourist estimates of the Board of Trade showed increases in February, March and May and decreases in January, April and June of 1940 as compared with 1939.

The board's figures:

	1939	1940.
January	93,280	90,490
February	104,095	129,920
March	132,665	196,630
April	433,140	342,030
June	368,910	307,955

Wall Street Bettors Offer Odds on 3d Term

New York, July 15 (INS).—Odds of 7 to 5 were offered in Wall Street today that President Roosevelt, if named for a third term, will be reelected over Wendell Willkie in the November election. An offer of $7,000 to $5,000 was reported by a betting commissioner.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.
